Two new volumes ready now:

CRITIQUES AND ESSAYS ON MODERN FICTION, 1920-1951

Representing the Achievement of Modern American and British Critics

John W. Aldridge, University of Vermont

This new textbook, containing 34 essays by major American and British critics, is the first comprehensive collection of the best critical studies of modern fiction. The book is divided into three parts: (1) studies of technique as principle; (2) critiques in which principle is illustrated in the method of single works; and (3) analyses of the general modes of individual authors. Introductory notes to each part suggest an approach to the effective organization and use of the material in the classroom. Additional features are the illuminating foreword by Mark Schorer and the 60-page bibliography by Robert W. Stallman.

Approx. 612 pp.

READING FOR WRITING

By Ivan E. Taylor, Howard University
J. Saunders Redding, *Hampton Institute

An interesting new volume that integrates the reading and writing phases of Freshman English courses. While the selections represent the various types and qualities of prose, the editors chose primarily that material most closely related to the students' experience and interests. Essays are included which deal with contemporary problems. The aim throughout is to stimulate self-expression by provoking thought; therefore, variety of point of view and contrasting opinions are stressed. Introductory material, and the exercises that follow each selection, emphasize the forms of discourse, organization of material, methods of development, and, in general, reading, writing, and thinking skills.

A NEW COLLECTION OF GRADED MATERIAL

Nuevas lecturas

EDITED WITH NOTES AND VOCABULARY BY
Carlos García-Prada and William E. Wilson

This new intermediate text, somewhat more advanced than the authors' Lecturas Hispano-Americanas, contains forty-seven selections of varying length. These readings make up an enjoyable collection of original and adapted short stories and folklore tales from twenty of the best Spanish and Spanish American authors, together with simple essays based on the history and culture of Spanish America. All the readings are useful for conversation in class and are accompanied by exercises of various types. The gradual presentation of idioms and words, combined with an easy naturalness of language and style, insures the success of the text.

A DISTINGUISHED TWO-VOLUME ANTHOLOGY

British Literature

VOLUME I. BEOWULF TO SHERIDAN

VOLUME II. BLAKE TO THE PRESENT DAY

Spencer, Houghton, Barrows

This anthology witnesses strongly to the fact that English literature, from the beginning, reflects aspects of experience with which today's students need to have contact. Even a brief examination will reveal the excellence of editing, the interest of critical commentary, and the distinction of format. Period introductions, headnotes to selections, and textual annotations are done with a sure knowledge of the needs and interests of undergraduates. At every point you will be struck by the success of this anthology in recreating the vigorous, living quality of a period and in revealing the enduring force of its finest literary expression. Both volumes are now ready.

The abundant illustrative inserts are of marked interest, and include literary maps of London and the British Isles.

YALE

A COMPARATIVE GRAMMAR OF THE HITTITE LANGUAGE

EDGAR H. STURTEVANT

First published in 1933, this book has been extensively revised to incorporate new scholarship in linguistics. Professor Sturtevant traces the links between Hittite and the ancient languages of Asia Minor, showing it to be one of the oldest of tongues.

THE ENGLISH DRAMATIC LYRIC, 1603-1642

WILLIAM R. BOWDEN

Professor Bowden discusses the lyric and its relation to dramatist, actor, and audience, proving that the songs of the Jacobean stage were more than mere additions to the dramatic material. A definitive examination of textual differences throws much light on the published versions of these songs.

THE SYMBOLIST MOVEMENT

KENNETH CORNELL

The evolution of symbolism in France and Belgium was marked by personal rivalries, contradictory theories, and writers of brief renown. This study shows the many facets of symbolism in chronological order, with an evaluation in the light of their own time and literary development.

AN ESSAY ON MAN

Edited by MAYNARD MACK

EPISTLES TO SEVERAL PERSONS (MORAL ESSAYS)

Edited by F. W. BATESON

Volume III, parts one and two, in the Twickenham Edition of the Poems of Alexander Pope, which will now bear the Yale imprint in the United States. This splendid project, launched in England under the general editorship of John Butt, has now been resumed and expanded to include ten volumes. The two volumes listed above have not previously been published. Both deal with Pope's "ethic work," the first on the Nature of Man, and the second on the Use of Things. The three volumes previously issued in the series will be revised and reissued.

THIRD EDITION

AN
TO

CLEANTH BROOKS, JR.
JOHN T. PURSER
ROBERT PENN WARREN

The complete revision of this distinguished text for introductory courses in literature offers the following features:

- The purpose and method of teaching the student how to read and judge literature are even more effectively applied in this new edition.
- Increased editorial comment of a high calibre though informal in style—more analyses, questions, exercises.
- Reading selections of greater variety and range. For example, under Fiction, the substitution of several novel-ettes for one full-length novel offers a variety of method, character, and idea while illustrating fully the structure of the novel.
- More stories; more poems with greater emphasis on modern poets; five plays including Maugham's The Circle, Miller's All My Sons, and Eliot's Murder in the Cathedral.
- A new and attractive format, smaller than in earlier editions.

Ready in March. About 825 pages.

new Macmillan books

Edwin Arlington Robinson

BY ELLSWORTH BARNARD. In this full study of Robinson's poetry and philosophy Dr. Barnard provides the key to understanding one of our greatest American poets. He analyzes his views on the nature and function of poetry, his methods of composing it, the ways in which he adapted language and meter to his subject matter, his symbolism, the types of characters he depicted. $4.75

*So Long
To Learn*

BY JOHN MASEFIELD. Masefield's most important prose work in years! The eminent Poet Laureate of England gives an account of the growth of his mind and art. For everyone interested in the literary history of our times. $3.00

Four Prophets Of Our Destiny

BY WILLIAM HUBBEN. This highly original study of four prophets of our destiny — Kierkegaard, Dostoevsky, Nietzsche and Kafka—compares their lives, ideas, and personalities, showing how their philosophy gave birth to Existentialism and helped speed up the process of current world chaos. $2.75

The English Past

BY A. L. ROWSE. Evocations of people and places behind the events of English history by the author of The England of Elizabeth. The 12 essays discuss old English families, some of England's great and magnificent citizens, and other topics. $3.75

*Wilkie

The Flowering of New England

VAN WYCK BROOKS

OF all the works of American literary criticism published in the twentieth century surely Van Wyck Brooks' The Flowering of New England is one of the very few which may be called classic. The period covered is 1815-1865. Awarded the Pulitzer Prize and on the best-seller list for 59 consecutive weeks, it was hailed by the San Francisco Chronicle as "the greatest book of our generation." It is a worthy title for inclusion in the New American Edition of Everyman's Library. Ready, March 15th. #645A $1.45

A Hazard of New Fortunes

WILLIAM DEAN HOWELLS

INTRODUCTION BY GEORGE WARREN ARMS, Professor of English, University of New Mexico. This novel represents Howells at the height of his powers in his late style, and its socialist message, skillfully argued in fictional terms, makes A Hazard of New Fortunes particularly significant in the rise of realism in American literature. Available now. #646A $1.45

Indian Summer

WILLIAM DEAN HOWELLS

INTRODUCTION BY WILLIAM M. GIBSON, Associate Professor of English, New York University. "William Dean Howells is still, among American writers, the unsurpassed master of urbane comedy. The author's beautiful but economical depiction of his scene is flawless. We would be hard put to it to find in another American novel a mature woman, a girl on the threshold of womanhood, and a child, as perfectly and charmingly realized as are Mrs. Bowen, Imogene Graham, and Effie. The dialogue is a confluence of easily flowing, sparkling streams . . . No wonder that Howells rated Indian Summer as the best of his novels."—Ben Ray Redman in THE SATURDAY REVIEW OF LITERATURE. Available now. #643A $1.45

Naked Masks:

FIVE PLAYS BY LUIGI PIRANDELLO

EDITED, with an Introduction, Bibliography and short Biography, by ERIC BENTLEY. Luigi Pirandello is one of the most fascinating of twentieth-century continental playwrights, and this selection from his work is particularly important for the inclusion of Liola and Pirandello's Preface to Six Characters in Search of an Author, neither of which has ever before been published in English. The other plays included in this volume are: Henry IV, It Is So! (If You Think So), Six Characters in Search of an Author, and Each in His Own Way. Ready, April 15th. #647A $1.45

MATTHEW ARNOLD THE ETHNOLOGIST

by Frederic E. Faverty

($5.00)

"No better exposition of Arnold's racial theories could have been made. The book abounds in signs of that wide learning and that strenuous reading of all secondary, as well as primary, sources which are the hall-mark of American scholarship. It places Arnold's theories in the setting of contemporary racialism and illuminates both. The style is pleasant and easy, the scholarship concealed rather than paraded; and the tone is excellent."

MSS. WANTED

We are seeking manuscripts for our publishing program devoted exclusively to scholarly and specialized studies.

What we offer is a complete publishing service at low cost to the author, a service that begins with careful copy-editing and ends only when we have explored all possible avenues of sales and income for your volume, including the sale of British, foreign, and all other subsidiary rights.

Effective promotion starts with news releases and carefully selected review media both here and abroad. Intelligent publicity on the author and his book is backed up with advertising on an institutional basis.

Distribution of our books is complete and thorough. Sales representatives cover all important bookstores and libraries in the U. S. and Canada. This activity is supplemented by a great deal of direct-mail literature to general and specialized book purchasers.

In brief, what we are offering can effectively bring to light scholarly and specialized studies of interest and value. If you have a manuscript that fits this description, it will be worth your while to consult with us about publication. For further information write to
