

Christopher Deering of Georgetown University has been appointed director of academic program and planning of the APSA Congressional Fellowship Program.

Political Scientists and Journalists Named Congressional Fellows

The APSA has announced the winners in the national competition for the 1989-90 Congressional Fellowship Program. Following a one-month orientation beginning in November, Fellows spend nine months working as legislative aides in congressional offices.

The new political science and journalism Fellows are:

Political Science Fellows

Christopher Bailey, Department of American Studies, University of Keele, Staffordshire, England.

Paul Herrnson, Department of Political Science, University of Massachusetts, Amherst.

Janet Martin, Department of Government and Legal Studies, Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Maine.

Journalism Fellows

Kristin Huckshorn, San Jose Mercury News, San Jose, California.

Philip Ingrassia, KDLT-TV, Sioux Falls, South Dakota. (Mr. Ingrassia is the fourth recipient of the annual Joan Shorenstein Barone Congressional Fellowship in Broadcast Journalism.)

Lisa Pullen, The Charlotte Observer, Charlotte, North Carolina.

Stephen Ward, Michigan Public Radio Network, Lansing, Michigan.

Sponsored by the Association since 1953, the purpose of the Congressional Fellowship Program is to give outstanding political scientists, journalists, medical faculty, and federal agency executives an opportunity to acquire a rich understanding of the national legislative process.

The Selection Committee was composed of Roger Davidson of the University of Maryland, Christopher Deering of the George Washington University, Ronald D. Elving of Congressional Quarterly Weekly Report, Susan Hammond of American University, Albert R. Hunt of Wall Street Journal, and Carol Matlack of National Journal.

The over 1,300 alumni of the program include university presidents, deans, and professors, newspaper and magazine publishers, editors and reporters, senior-level executives in the federal government, and members of Congress and congressional staff aides.

German APSA Congressional Fellows Hold Reunion

Claus Gramckow

APSA Congressional Fellowships for foreign professionals are available through special arrangements between APSA and international foundations. Since 1982, two West German scholars of American Government have received fellowship support from the German Marshall Fund of the United States and the John J. McCloy Fund of the American Council on Germany.

In June of this year, former APSA Congressional Fellows from The Federal Republic of Germany held a reunion at the University Club of the Free University of Berlin. Fourteen former fellows attended the reunion organized by Eberhard Barg (Fellow, 1983-84) and Stefan von Senger (Fellow, 1987-88). The former fellows were joined by members of the fellowship selection committee: Prof. Dr. Ernst Otto Czempiel of the Hessische Stiftung for
