

The Writers of the Response

I Eamonn Duffy

who has specialised on post-Reformation Catholicism, is a lecturer in the Faculty of Divinity, University of Cambridge, and is Tutor and Director of Studies in History at Magdalene College, Cambridge. He is on the committee of the Catholic Theological Association of Great Britain.

II Nicholas Lash

is Norris-Hulse Professor of Divinity in the University of Cambridge. He is a member of the committee of the Catholic Theological Association of Great Britain and of the Committee of Direction of Concilium.

III John Mahoney SJ

is a former Principal of Heythrop College, University of London, where he continues to teach Moral and Pastoral Theology, and a former member of the International Theological Commission. He was President of the Sector on "The People of God: co-responsibility and relationship" at the National Pastoral Congress in Liverpool, 1980, and is currently President of the Catholic Theological Association of Great Britain.

IV Fergus Kerr OP

lectures in Philosophy of Religion at the Dominican house of studies at Oxford, is a member of the Faculty of Theology, University of Oxford, and is a committee member of the Catholic Theological Association of Great Britain. One of this journal's most frequent contributors, he has written especially on modern Catholic thought.