THE CHINA QUARTERLY

The October-December issue contains extensive comments by a number of leading economic and political specialists (Alexander Eckstein, Yuan-li Wu, Kenneth Walker, G. F. Hudson, Michael Lindsay, Richard Walker) on Joseph Alsop's controversial thesis on the present domestic crisis in China.

We maintain our extensive coverage of intellectual developments under the new regime with a brilliant article by Joseph Levenson entitled 'The Place of Confucius in Communist China'. In our series on the fate of the intellectuals, Merle Goldman writes on the famous Hu Feng who was vilified in 1955 because, though a Party member, he demanded freedom of expression for writers.

Other topics include 'The Rectification Campaign at Peking University: May-June 1957' by René Goldman, 'Communist Language Policies for China's Ethnic Minorities', by Henry Schwarz and 'The "Next Generation" of Chinese Communist Leaders' by Donald W. Klein.

MEN AND NATIONS

By Louis J. Halle

Men and Nations represents an effort to resume progress in the great tradition of political philosophy, to present a foundation for the continued progress of our societies. The philosophical system that resulted is proposed here as a basis for the understanding and teaching of politics. It is, however, a complete philosophy of life, not limited to politics. "This is an important, original book. It is written with an elegance and a lucidity that are not mere properties of style but reflect the qualities of a first-rate mind."—Hans J. Morgenthau.

THE SINO-SOVIET CONFLICT, 1956-1961

By Donald S. Zagoria

What happens if the two most powerful partners in the Communist world cannot agree on basic issues of principle and policy? Donald S. Zagoria, who was from 1951 to 1961 an analyst of Communist Bloc politics for the U.S. government, traces the development of serious conflict between the U.S.S.R. and China from the 20th Party Congress in 1956 to the 22nd Party Congress in late 1961. "Not a moment too soon comes this superbly researched, refreshingly sensible and surprisingly readable analysis . . ."—Max Frankel.

THE INTERNATIONAL SYSTEM: THEORETICAL ESSAYS

Edited by Klaus Knorr and Sidney Verba

Representative samples of recent thinking on the subject of international systems theory by a group of younger scholars. These essays, which explore whether or not a theory of international relations can be created, were first presented at a symposium sponsored by the Center of International Studies at Princeton University.

The Public Order of the Oceans

A Contemporary International Law of the Sea

By Myres S. McDougal and William T. Burke. Following a tradition which antedates Grotius, the authors offer a comprehensive survey of the process of decision by which the general world community allocates access to, and authority over, the oceans during times of relative peace. In opposition to recent parochial claims of special interest, they bring the findings of modern physical and social science to bear in support of a public order of the oceans protecting the utmost freedom of access and widest possible sharing of authority. Previously published companion books: Studies in World Public Order, by Myres S. McDougal and Associates ($15.00); Law and Minimum World Public Order, by Myres S. McDougal and Florentino P. Feliciano ($12.50). $15.00

American Foreign Policy and the Blessings of Liberty and Other Essays

By Samuel Flagg Bemis. Gathered together in this volume are seventeen essays on American foreign policy and diplomacy selected from the many written by Samuel Flagg Bemis over the last fifty years. In all of the essays, which range over the whole span of American history, Mr. Bemis displays the careful research, imaginative reconstruction of events, and shrewd interpretation of individual and national motives that have made him one of America's foremost historians. $10.00

Peace-Making and the Settlement with Japan

BY FREDERICK S. DUNN. This analytical case study of American decision-making draws on all the insights gathered during the author's career as a legal officer in the State Department and as director of the Yale Institute of International Studies and of the Center of International Studies at Princeton. It traces the evolution of American policies regarding peace with Japan from the early years of World War II through the negotiations that culminated in the treaty signed at San Francisco in 1951. Just published. 210 pp. $5.00

Limited Strategic War

EDITED BY KLAUS KNORR AND THORNTON READ. "Knorr defines limited strategic war in the first article. The remaining essays, written by experts in the fields of nuclear warfare and political science, analyze various portions of the topic: controlled war, tactical war, command and control, limited retaliation as a bargaining process, alliances, and public attitudes. While not a book for light reading, this work presents some thought-provoking arguments and some new concepts."—Library Journal. 1962. 257 pages. $6.00
