INTERNATIONAL LAW IN THE U.S. LEGAL SYSTEM

CURTIS BRADLEY, The Richard and Marcy Horvitz Professor of Law, Duke University School of Law

Decodes the often complicated ways that international law operates within the United States legal system and sheds light on unresolved issues and areas of controversy.

2008 256 pages

978-0-19-532859-2 cloth $75.00

THE DECOLONIZATION OF INTERNATIONAL LAW

State Succession and the Law of Treaties
MATTHEW CRAVEN, University of London

This book argues that the tensions and ambiguities that run throughout succession are best understood by looking at the relationship between discourses on state succession, decolonization, and imperial ambition within the framework of international law.

(Oxford Monographs in International Law)

2008 350 pages

978-0-19-921762-5 cloth $110.00

INTERNATIONAL LAW

VAUGHAN LOWE, Oxford University

This book explores the scope and function of international law, and explains how it helps to underpin our international, political and economic systems. It then examines the wider theoretical implications of international law's role in modern society.

(Clarendon Law Series)

2007 250 pages

978-0-19-923083-9 cloth $95.00

NEW PERSPECTIVES ON THE DIVIDE BETWEEN NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL LAW

ANDRE NOLLKAEMPER and JANNE E. NIJMAN, University of Amsterdam

This book contributes to our understanding of one of the most pressing issues of modern international law: the relationship between the international legal order and the domestic legal orders of over 190 sovereign states.

2007 250 pages

978-0-19-923194-2 cloth $115.00

REGULATING JURISDICTIONAL RELATIONS BETWEEN NATIONAL AND INTERNATIONAL COURTS

YUVAL SHANY, Hebrew University of Jerusalem

Provides lawyers and academics with a 'tool kit' of measures which should be employed in cases involving jurisdictional interactions between national and international courts.

978-0-19-921179-1 cloth $110.00

INTERNATIONAL TERRITORIAL ADMINISTRATION

How Trusteeship and The Civilizing Mission Never Went Away

RALPH WILDE, University of London

This new history of international trusteeship raises important questions about the role of international law and organizations in facilitating relations of domination and tutelage, and necessitates a re-evaluation of the current significance of self-determination.

CONFRONTING GLOBAL TERRORISM AND AMERICAN NEO-CONSERVATISM

The Framework of a Liberal Grand Strategy
TOM FARER, University of Denver

Liberal intellectuals and political leaders have been slow to articulate a grand strategy informed by liberal values for confronting these issues surrounding global terrorism. This book outlines the framework of a liberal strategy, and exposes the costs of the neo-conservative alternative that has driven US foreign policy since 9/11.

- December 2007
- ISBN 978 90 04 16167 2
- Hardback (870 pp.)
- List price EUR 230.- / US$ 328.-

'... Douglas Johnston has written an historical account of a dynamic international law and made it accessible to every intelligent reader. [...] "The Historical Foundations of World Order" is a magnificent achievement. Other historical accounts of international law pale in comparison. The general reader, no less than the international lawyer, will find here the most detailed account of the history of international law. [...] This is a book which every international lawyer and student of international law can read profitably: it is worth emphasizing the words "can read", for, for all of its sophistication, it is readable and delightful throughout.'

Research Handbook in International Economic Law

New In Paperback

Edited by Andrew T. Guzman, Professor of Law, Boalt Hall School of Law, University of California, Berkeley and Alan O. Sykes, Professor of Law, Stanford University

'Undertaking a Research Handbook in International Economic Law is an enormous challenge, and I believe the scholars mobilized for this project have fully met that challenge. The selection of topics is comprehensive, the footnotes and bibliographies are careful and copious, and the writing is lucid, understandable by beginners as well as experts. As I go about revising my own treatise on international economic law, the Handbook will be my constant guide.'

– Andreas F. Lowenfeld, New York University School of Law

'Students, practitioners and scholars will find the research handbook most useful in familiarising themselves with the many topics of international trade regulation and economic law. Written by leading experts in the field, it adds a concise and accessible voice to the growing body of highly specialised publications.'

– Thomas Cottier, University of Beirne, Switzerland

This major work, now available in paperback, consists of carefully commissioned original and incisive contributions from leading scholars in the field of international economic law. Covering a full range of topics, the Handbook provides an accessible treatment of the law in each area, as well as a thoughtful synthesis and discussion of related public policy issues from a broadly social science perspective.

SCHOOL OF INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS

Tenured and Tenure Track Faculty Positions

Penn State University's new School of International Affairs invites nominations and applications of established scholars, diplomats and senior government officials worldwide for several tenured and tenure track faculty positions. Formally launched on July 1, 2007, and enrolling graduate students beginning in fall 2008, the School of International Affairs will prepare exceptional students for careers and leadership positions in both the private and public sectors of an increasingly interdependent world (for more information please visit www.sia.psu.edu). Our inaugural faculty will be motivated by and dedicated to the unique opportunity of building a new graduate School of International Affairs with programs and standing appropriate to one of the world's great public research universities. We particularly welcome nominations and applications of candidates with interests in any of the following overarching substantive areas: diplomacy and international relations; international economics; multi-sector and quantitative analysis; development and civil society; non-profit organizations; and/or any of the major transnational policy challenges identified by the Copenhagen Consensus. Penn State is committed to affirmative action, equal opportunity and the diversity of its workforce, and we welcome applications from persons of color, women and other groups traditionally under-represented in the academic community. Contact: Professor Tiyanjana Maluwa, Director, Penn State University School of International Affairs, 305 Beam Building, University Park, PA 16802, or siainfo@psu.edu.

INTERNATIONAL LAW: 100 WAYS IT SHAPES OUR LIVES

Many find international law abstract and static. Topics such as war and peace or relationships between countries are considered by some to be not so much questions of law, but of power and influence. Others question the existence of international law.

International Law: 100 Ways It Shapes Our Lives was conceived from the proposition that international law not only exists, but also penetrates more deeply and broadly into everyday life than is generally recognized. Some ways are of relatively recent vintage, while others are long-standing. 100 examples were identified by ASIL members, vetted by a smaller group of experts, and organized into seven chapters: 1) daily life; 2) leisure; 3) travel; 4) commerce 5) health and the environment; 6) personal liberty; 7) public safety and global security.

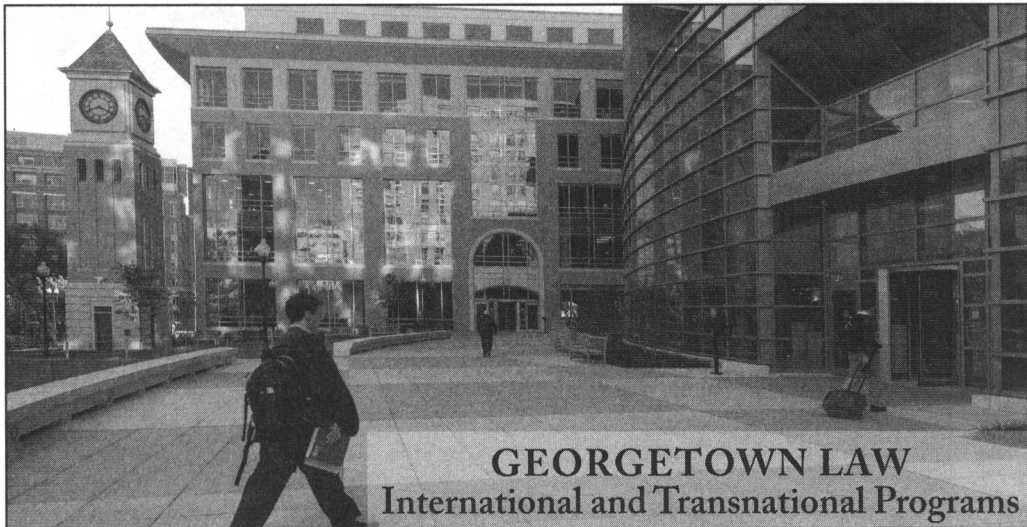

Join us in demonstrating how international law shapes our lives by

- Visiting 100 Ways at <http://www.asil100.org/ways.html>;
- Using it in teaching and general civic education programs;
- Adding ways to the list; and
- Sharing your experiences using International Law: 100 Ways It Shapes Our Lives.

We hope that this creative and interactive project will help demonstrate the diversity and the centrality of international law to our lives today.

Georgetown University Law Center offers one of the largest transnational and international legal education programs in the world. Located in the nation's capital and with a campus of major new buildings that include an international and comparative law library, Georgetown Law is one of the leading global law schools.

The array of courses dealing with transnational, international, and comparative law is extraordinarily comprehensive, numbering more than 150. This curriculum is generated and sustained by a full-time faculty of 110, including more than 30 currently focused on transnational and international curriculum subjects. They are joined by more than 90 distinguished Washington, D.C., practitioners from inside and outside the government. Several foreign law professors also visit each year, some as part of faculty exchanges. From among the faculty, Georgetown wants especially to congratulate Professor John H. Jackson. ASIL is awarding him the Hudson Medal for his contributions to "scholarship and achievement in international law."

In spring 2006, the faculty added to the curriculum, "Week One: Law in a Global Context." Week One introduces all first-year J.D. students at the start of their second semester to a transnational legal problem that builds upon the American law they have studied and adds elements of foreign law, a foreign court or international dispute resolution system, and role playing.

About 300 foreign students from more than 70 countries are a part of the student body. Each year, Georgetown offers Master of Laws degree (LL.M.) programs for about 190 students who received their legal training outside of the United States.

www.law.georgetown.edu/graduate/

The transnational and international academic programs also include:

- A Semester Abroad program that placed nearly 40 Georgetown J.D. students at nine world-class, foreign law schools this academic year, with further growth planned for next year;
- More than 100 international internships during the summer;
- A Summer Program in London;
- Global Law Scholars chosen from the J.D. students;
- Joint degree programs;
- Visiting Scholars and Visiting Researchers;
- Institutes and specialized programs, such as the Human Rights Institute, Institute of International Economic Law, Center for Transnational Business and the Law, Center for the Advancement of the Rule of Law in the Americas, Asian Law and Policy Studies, Center on National Security Law, and the O'Neill Institute for National and Global Health Law;
- Clinics addressing international human rights and political refugees;
- Several law journals, including the Georgetown Journal of International Law.

Forced Migration, Human Rights and Security

Edited by Jane McAdam

The international protection regime for refugees and other forced migrants seems increasingly at risk as measures designed to enhance security—of borders, of people, of institutions, and of national identity—encroach upon human rights.

This timely edited collection responds to some of the contemporary challenges faced by the international protection regime, with a particular focus on the human rights of those displaced.

The book begins by assessing the impact of anti-terrorism laws on refugee status, both at the international and domestic levels, before turning to examine the function of offshore immigration control mechanisms and extraterritorial processing on asylum seekers' access to territory and entitlements (both procedural and substantive).

Dr Jane McAdam is a Senior Lecturer and Director of International Law Programs in the Faculty of Law at the University of New South Wales, Australia.

World Trade Law

Text, Materials and Commentary

Simon Lester and Bryan Mercurio

with Arwel Davies and Kara Leitner

This new textbook on world trade law offers a unique perspective on this important subject in a number of ways. It is the first book to combine the best aspects of both the casebook and legal analysis approaches, providing both detailed explanations and analysis of the law to help understand the issues as well as case extracts to offer a flavour of the judicial reasoning of trade adjudicators. Moreover, the book is truly global in outlook, being equally useful for students of international trade law in the UK, Europe, the US, Asia and elsewhere in the world. For instance, where domestic regulatory issues come into play, the book examines a variety of country practices, to illustrate how the rules apply around the world.

Simon Lester is President of WorldTradeLaw.net, LLC. Bryan Mercurio is Professor of Law at the Chinese University of Hong Kong. Arwel Davies is a Senior Lecturer in law at Swansea University. Kara Leitner is a trade lawyer and partner in WorldTradeLaw.net, LLC.

Human Security and International Law

Prospects and Problems

Barbara von Tigerstrom

The concept of 'human security' has influenced discourse and practice and has been the subject of vigorous debate. Despite its relevance to central questions of international law, human security has until recently received little attention from international lawyers. This book has two related goals: to evaluate human security as a concept that could be used in the analysis of international law, and to determine what insights about a human security approach might be gained by considering it from the perspective of international law.

The first part of the book examines the evolution and meanings of the concept and its links with existing theories and principles of international law. The second part explores the ways in which human security has been and could be used in relation to the diverse topics of humanitarian intervention, internally displaced persons, small arms control, and global public health.

Barbara von Tigerstrom is Assistant Professor at the University of Saskatchewan College of Law.

The Use of Nuclear Weapons and the Protection of the Environment during International Armed Conflict

Erik Koppe

This book focuses on the question whether or not the use of nuclear weapons during international armed conflict would violate existing norms of public international law relating to the protection and safeguarding of the environment. Part I discusses the historical development and the effects of nuclear weapons; Part II discusses the protection of the environment during international armed conflict under ius in bello, ius ad bellum and ius pacis. Only then is it possible to assess the legality of the use of nuclear weapons under this particular set of rules.

Erik V Koppe is a solicitor at Freshfields Bruckhaus Deringer and former research assistant in the Department of International Law at the University of Groningen, the Netherlands.

International Cases in Context

*edited by René Lefebber, Legal Adviser
Ministry of Foreign Affairs, The Netherlands*

INTERNATIONAL CASES IN CONTEXT is an online database which classifies and structures important international cases, thus making the body of international case law more accessible. Starting with the leading cases of the International Court of Justice, it gives an analysis of each case and sets out its relevance for the development of international law. Other cases will be added at a regular basis and in future, cases of other international tribunals will be included as well.

INTERNATIONAL CASES IN CONTEXT gives the full text of each case, including various search possibilities and hyperlinks to relevant primary source documents, such as treaties and resolutions. All essential facts such as opinions, case name, parties, date, source, are incorporated as well.

INTERNATIONAL CASES IN CONTEXT can be searched and browsed in different ways:

- view all cases;
- search by specific tribunals, subject areas, date, parties, individual opinions, or legal instrument;
- search full text;
- search in case analysis.

The result list will give you a listing of cases. For each case you will find:

- case information (authority; date; subject areas; parties)
- case analysis
- case texts (full text of submission, judgment(s), order(s), individual opinions)
- bibliography (compiled by the Peace Palace Library)
- relevant cases (hyperlinked)
- relevant legal instruments (hyperlinked to full text)

INTERNATIONAL CASES IN CONTEXT covers the ICJ and PCIJ cases. Case analyses will be added in the course of 2007/2008.
