

The method of 'active analysis' is illustrated including the use of synthesized speech. It is hoped that experimental studies of speech perception will help in establishing a link between a language user's competence and his performance.

Announcement

As announced in the March, 1967, issue of Philosophy of Science, the Philosophy of Science Association will hold the first of a series of biennial meetings at the University of Pittsburgh, October 11-13, 1968. The program will include invited symposia on selected topics as well as sessions devoted to the presentation of submitted papers.

Those wishing to submit papers should send them to the Chairman of the Program Committee, Wesley C. Salmon, 130 Goodbody Hall, Indiana University, Bloomington, Indiana 47401. The deadline for submissions will be April 1, 1968. Papers on any subject within philosophy of science are eligible for consideration, and they may be written from any philosophical standpoint. They should be limited to a reading time of about 20 minutes (thirty-five hundred words).
