Theism, Atheism, and Big Bang Cosmology

WILLIAM LANE CRAIG and QUENTIN SMITH

'stimulating book ... The discussions take full account of recent scientific developments in cosmology and quantum gravity, and are articulated with great philosophical sophistication.'

International Philosophical Quarterly

Was the Big Bang with which the universe began created by God, or did it occur without cause? In this book two philosophers of opposite viewpoints debate the question.

Faith and Criticism

The Sarum Lectures 1992

BASIL MITCHELL

'Professor Mitchell offers a lucid and persuasive account of today's theological landscape.' Church Times

- Probing study of fundamental questions about religion and the church today

Basil Mitchell argues that, in any serious intellectual spiritual quest, faith and criticism belong together.

An Ethic for Enemies

Forgiveness in Politics

DONALD W. SHRIVER, Jr

Using three examples from recent American history – relations with Germany and Japan, and the civil rights struggle – Shriver shows the relevance of the concept of forgiveness to political life today.

Responsibility

J. R. LUCAS

'wide-ranging discussion ... well worth the read'

Times Higher Education Supplement

'helpful to students' Mind

Responsibility is a key concept in our moral, social, and political thinking, but it is not itself properly understood. J.R. Lucas here presents a lively, broad, and accessible discussion of responsibility in various areas of human life, from personal and sexual relations to politics.

Leibniz: Determinist, Theist, Idealist

ROBERT MERRIHEW ADAMS

- An in-depth interpretation of three important aspects of Leibniz's metaphysics

Adams covers the metaphysical part of Leibniz's philosophy of logic; his essentially theological treatment of the central issues of ontology; and his theory of substance. Thoroughly grounded in the texts, the discussion constitutes a significant advance in Leibniz scholarship.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

1. Contributions in duplicate and books for review should be sent to Mr Peter Byrne at Department of Theology and Religious Studies, King's College London, Strand, London WC2R 2LS.
2. Articles submitted to the journal should in general be between 5,000 and 10,000 words long, though articles outside these limits will be acceptable if there is some good reason for their exceptional length or brevity. Articles in two or more parts may occasionally be accepted provided each part is independently intelligible. They should normally be in English.
3. Each article should be submitted with an abstract of 100 words. Articles will not be published unless an abstract is forthcoming.
4. Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, or is not being considered for publication elsewhere.
5. When an article has been accepted for publication, the author is strongly encouraged to send a copy of the final version on computer disk (Apple Macintosh or IBM compatible PC) together with the hard copy typescript, giving details of the wordprocessing software used (Microsoft Word, Word or Word Perfect). However, the publisher reserves the right to typeset material by conventional means if an author's disk proves unsatisfactory. Disks are not normally returned to authors. Contributions should be clearly typed in double spacing, preferably on A4 paper, with a wide left-hand margin. The typescript should be prepared to accord as closely as possible with the typographical conventions of the journal.
6. Footnotes should be used sparingly: in general, to give sources of direct quotations, references to main authorities on disputable questions, and evidence relied on for a new or unusual conclusion. They should be numbered in one sequence throughout the article, and should preferably be typed in double spacing at the end of the article.
7. Contributors should keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.
8. First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the Editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the Editor, by airmail where necessary, within ten days of receiving them.
9. Correction should be kept to an absolute minimum. It should be confined to errors of the typist or printer unless the Editor authorises otherwise.
10. All contributors of articles receive 50 free offprints. Reviewers will receive five or more offprints of their reviews.
11. If rejected manuscripts are to be returned, stamps or international coupons should be sent to cover postage, but it would normally be simpler just to retain a copy.
12. Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyrights, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the USA.
