

Sophie Body-Gendrot, Université de Paris-Sorbonne

APSA-JPSA Exchange Program—Visiting Japanese Scholars:
Shin-ichi Kitaoka, Rikkyo University Mitsuru Uchida, Waseda University Yutaka Tsujinaka, Tsukuba University Jun Lio, Saitama University

Short Courses Offered at Annual Meeting

Seven Organized Sections offered short courses this year at the annual meeting. Political Organization and Parties: The Changing Ideology of the Parties, led by John White, Catholic University, and Eric Uslaner, University of Maryland; History and Politics: The Turn to History in the Study of American Politics, led by Stephen Skowronek, Yale University, and Jeffrey Tulis, University of Texas at Austin; International Security and Arms Control: Teaching About Security in a Changing World, led by Joyce Kaufman, Whittier College; Federalism and Intergovernmental Relations: The Clinton Administration and the Prospects for Reinventing Federalism, led by Stephen Schecter, Russell Sage College; Politics and Life Sciences: Politics and the Life Sciences: Methods Workshop, led by James Schubert, Northern Illinois University, and Roger Masters, Dartmouth College; Law and Courts: Using and Abusing Data in the Study of Law and Courts: A Hands-On Demonstration and Discussion, led by Lee Epstein, Washington University, and Leslie Goldstein, University of Delaware; Public Policy: Beyond Refereed Journals: Writing About Politics for Popular Audiences, led by Robert Kuttner, co-editor, The American Prospect, Deborah Stone, Brandeis University, and Martin Kessler, president, Basic Books.

The Association continued its successful Leading Scholars Series for Graduate Students, featuring Richard Fenno, Jr., University of Rochester. In addition, Stephen Brams, New York University, led a course entitled Game Theory, Case Studies and International Relations; and a consortium of instructors including Francis Graham Lee, St. Joseph's University; Margot Baker, Southern Methodist University; Leo Flynn, Pomona College; Jack Fruchtman, Towson State University; Frank X. J. Homer, University of Scranton; Beth Cobb O'Neil, Law School Admission Services; Jerry Polinard, University of Texas Pan American; Don Racheter, Central University; and Gerald Wilson, Duke University, offered a course on Pre-Law Advising and the Political Scientist.

APSA's Bunche Students Attend Annual Meeting

Eight of ten students participating in the Ralph Bunche Summer Institute attended the APSA's Annual Meeting. The students were recognized at the reception given by the Committee on the Status of Blacks in the Profession.

The Bunche Institute is hosted by a consortium of five Atlanta institutions: Spelman College, Emory University, Morehouse College, Clark Atlanta University, and Georgia State University. This year ten outstanding African American undergraduates who have demonstrated potential in the field of political science were selected to attend the six-week program whose purpose is to encourage enrollment in graduate school. This year students from ten different academic institutions attended the Bunche Institute. Dr. Jeanne T. Meadows of Spelman College was the director of the 1993 Institute.

Funding for the Bunche Institute is generously provided by the Coca Cola Foundation, the U.S. Department of Education, the Graduate School of Emory University, and Georgia State University Foundation.

Application forms for the 1994 Ralph Bunche Summer Institute are available from APSA.

Women's Caucus for Political Science 1993-94 Officers

President: Professor Jennifer L. Hochschild, Princeton University; phone: (609) 258-5634; fax: (609) 258-2809.

President-Elect: Associate Professor Toni M. Travis, George Mason University; phone: (703) 323-2272.

Secretary: Professor Emily R. Gill, Bradley University; phone: (309) 677-2493.

Treasurer: Dean Barbara B. Bardes, Raymond Walters College, University of Cincinnati; phone: (513) 745-5660; fax: (513) 745-5780.

Newsletter Editor: N/A.

Membership Director: Professor Liane Kosaki, University of Wisconsin-Madison; phone: (608) 263-2022.

Forty-Three Congressional Fellows to Begin 1993-94 Program in Early November

Winners of the competition for the 1993-94 Congressional Fellowship Program competition began their orientation in November and will spend nine months working in congressional offices.

Political Science Fellows

Anne Marie Cammisa, assistant professor, department of political science, University of New Hampshire

Sean Q. Kelly, assistant professor, department of political science, East Carolina University

Ronald G. Shaiko, assistant professor, department of government, The American University (1993-94 William A. Steiger Congressional Fellow)

Daniel Wirls, assistant professor of politics, University of California, Santa Cruz

Journalism Fellows

Carol E. Buckland, news writer, Cable News Network, Atlanta (1993-94 Joan Shorenstein Barone Congressional Fellow)

David Corvette, former general assignment reporter, The Atlanta Journal-Constitution (1993-94 Poynter Fellow)

Barbara Joseph, political and federal affairs correspondent, Topeka Capital-Journal, Kansas

Allen Kay, congressional issues reporter, WPOP, Connecticut State Network

APSA-MCI Communications Congressional Fellows

Timothy M. Johnson, news director, Trend Broadcasting, Jamestown,
New York
Christopher Weare, lecturer, Graduate School of Public Policy, University of California, Berkeley

Robert Wood Johnson Health Policy Fellows

Oliver Fein, M.D., associate clinical professor of medicine and public health, department of medicine, College of Physicians and Surgeons, Columbia University, New York

Jeffrey Geller, M.D., M.P.H., professor of psychiatry, director of public sector psychiatry, University of Massachusetts Medical Center; medical director, department of mental health, Central Massachusetts Area, Worcester, Massachusetts

Karen Hein, M.D., professor of pediatrics and associate professor of epidemiology and social medicine; director, Adolescent AIDS Program, Albert Einstein College of Medicine, Montefiore Medical Center, Bronx, New York

David Michaels, Ph.D., M.P.H., associate professor (epidemiology), Department of Community Health and Social Medicine, City University of New York Medical School, Sophie Davis School of Biomedical Education, New York

Howard K. Rabinowitz, M.D., vice chairman and professor of family medicine, Thomas Jefferson University, Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia

Sally L. Satel, M.D., assistant professor, department of psychiatry, Yale University School of Medicine; inpatient director, Substance Abuse Services, and chief, Dual Diagnosis Program, West Haven Veterans Administration, New Haven

German Fellows

Annette K. Kofler, law student, University of Bonn Karin Matussek, journalist and law student, University of Frankfurt

Asia Foundation Fellows

Vijavat Isarabhakdi, Second Secretary, Minister's Secretariat, Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Kingdom of Thailand Won-Tak Lee, chief, Finance and Economy Division, Legislative Information Analysis Department, National Assembly Library,

Republic of Korea

French Fellow

Jean Haguët, international journalist, Paris

Carl Albert Fellow

William E. Granstaff, Ph.D. candidate in political science, University of Oklahoma

Federal Fellows

Eileen S. Braun, senior intelligence analyst, National Security Agency

Colleen E. Bruton, director, Occupational Safety and Health Administration Technical Data Center, Department of Labor

Nancy DeLew, program analyst, Office of Health Policy, Office of the Assistant Secretary for Planning and Evaluation, Department of Health and Human Services

Deborah K. Johnson, security officer, Central Intelligence Agency

Mark Kalber, Major, C-130 Program Manager, Department of the Air Force, National Guard Bureau

Maureen T. Koetz, attorney-adviser (general), Office of the General Counsel, Department of the Air Force

Maureen J. McBrien, forest planner, U.S. Forest Service, Department of Agriculture

Herbert H. Nelson, head, Molecular Dynamics Section, Naval Research Laboratory, Department of the Navy

Stephen M. Oppermann, supervisory personnel management specialist, National Park Service, Department of the Interior

Joe H. Sanchez, Jr., supervisory communications computer systems specialist, Air Force Intelligence Command, Department of the Air Force

Harriett A. Schneider, senior operational staff officer, National Security Agency

Paul J. Seligman, section chief and supervisory medical officer, Surveillance Branch, Division of Surveillance, Hazard Evaluation and Field Studies, National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, Department of Health and Human Services

Foreign Affairs Fellows

Stuart V. Brown, foreign service officer, Department of State

Lois A. Cецсарini, foreign service officer, Department of State

David W. Davis, LTC, politicomilitary affairs officer and strategist, Office of the Deputy Chief of Staff for Operations and Plans, Department of the Army

Michael P. Fleming, Major, inspector general investigator, Department of the Army, National Guard Bureau

Thomas R. Genton, foreign service officer, United States Information Agency

W. Robert Gerber, intelligence officer, Central Intelligence
Agency

Ronald G. Houle, Major, Test Management Division, Operational Test and Evaluation Command,
Department of the Army

Debra Lynn Shelton, manager, System Acquisition Support, Directorate for Scientific and Technical Intelligence, Acquisition Support, Defense Intelligence Agency

Richard I. Stark, Jr., Major, logistics readiness officer, Health Care Operations Directorate, Office of the Surgeon General, Department of the Army

Report of the Treasurer

James A. Caporaso

The Association is in a strong financial position, as an examination of APSA's balance sheet (Table 1) clearly indicates. The total value of APSA's assets exceeded $9 million at the close of the fiscal year on June 30. The growth in the Association's assets stems from two sources, first, the magnanimous gift of MCI Communications Corporation endowing the Congressional Fellowship Program, and second, the strong performance of APSA's investments.

Tables 2 and 3 reveal the value and distribution of investments of APSA's two portfolios, the Trust and Development Fund and the Congressional Fellowship Program.
These investments performed well