S. RAJARATNAM SCHOOL OF INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

A Graduate School of Nanyang Technological University

The S. Rajaratnam School of International Studies (RSIS), a Graduate School of Nanyang Technological University, Singapore, is a leading research and teaching institution in strategic and international affairs and policy-oriented think-tank in the Asia-Pacific region. The School invites applications for the position of:

ASSOCIATE PROFESSOR / ASSISTANT PROFESSOR, SOUTH ASIA PROGRAMME

Applicants are expected to have a good understanding of the external and domestic dynamics that impact on security and foreign policy issues in South Asia. They are also expected to develop courses on the international relations of South Asia, India's foreign/security policy, and South Asian comparative politics.

A relevant PhD and a good publication record are essential requirements. Theoretical strength and experience in policy-relevant research and publication would be advantageous. Successful applicants will teach courses in the School's postgraduate programmes. They are also expected to contribute to the School's research agenda, contribute to team research and policy-oriented projects, teach in short executive programmes, and organize conferences and seminars.

Initial appointments are for three years, which are renewable, subject to mutual agreement. Those with the appropriate qualifications and experience may be appointed at the Associate Professor level.

All applicants should submit the following:

- A detailed curriculum vitae
- 2 published articles or writing samples
- A cover letter specifying how your qualifications match the job description
- 3 reference letters

If you are interested, please write in (or email) to:
