

University of Toronto

The International Studies Program, the Latin American Studies Committee and the International Relations Committee of the University of Toronto held a joint seminar on Political Aspects of Economic Development in Latin America, on February 27 and 28, 1970. Participants included Carlos Díaz Alejandro, of Yale University, Florestan Fernandes, University of Toronto, and James Petras, Pennsylvania State University.

Williams College

Several faculty members of the Center for Development Economics at Williams College will be enabled to accept assignments for teaching and research in Africa, Asia and Latin America, as a result of a Rockefeller Foundation grant of $300,000. The Center has a graduate study program and a program of research on problems of economic development. It also furnishes economic services for developing countries, conducted in cooperation with governmental and private agencies. The overseas visiting faculty will be assigned to institutions at which the Foundation has cooperative programs.

SPECIAL COURSES

American Association of State Colleges and Universities

The Office of International Programs of the AASCU is establishing study-abroad centers for students and faculty of member institutions. The first of these centers will be in Mexico and in Canada: the Mexican center is affiliated with the University of the Americas, located on the outskirts of Puebla, and is administered by Adams State College, Alamosa, Colorado. Study programs for 1970–1971 are available at both undergraduate and graduate levels, and classes are given in English, except for those in the Spanish language department. Additional details and application forms are available from the Office of International Programs, American Association of State Colleges and Universities, One Dupont Circle, Washington, D.C. 20036; Telephone 202–293–7070. Applications for 1970–1971 must be filed with AASCU by July 1, 1970. Future centers, including a travelling shipboard center are planned for Micronesia, Europe, Scandinavia, South America, Africa and Asia.

Instituto de Ciencias Sociales, Escuela de Graduados

Courses leading to Masters and Doctors degrees are offered at the Instituto de Ciencias Sociales, in Mexico City. Candidates must hold the degree immediately inferior to the one which they are working for, and obtain a total of 12 credits, each one the equivalent of 50 hours of seminars, courses, field work or preparation of an original thesis. Among the courses offered during the academic year 1969–1970 were: Sociología de la violencia. Estudio del Caso Colombiano, by Germán Guzman Campos; Sistemas Económicas en las Ciencias Sociales, by François Lartigue, Teorías del cambio sociocultural. Su aplicación a México, by Arturo Warman; Marx y la Antropología: 1) Formaciones socio-económicas precapitalistas, Ángel Palerm; Lengua y Cultura, by Philip K. Bock, invited from the University of New Mexico; Antropología Urbana, by Robert van Kemper, invited from the University of California, Berkeley; Antropología Teórica, by Robert Manners and David Kaplan, invited from Brandeis University; Sistemas de Dominio—Las poblaciones indígenas de México, by Arturo Warman of the Universidad Iberoamericana; Sociedades Campesinas en el Mundo Moderno, by Ángel Palerm of the Universidad Iberoamericana; and Teorías contemporáneas sobre organización social, by Hugo Nutini, invited from the University of Pittsburgh. Further information may be obtained from: Prof Arturo Warman Gryj, Secretario Académico del Instituto de Ciencias Sociales, Cerro de las Torres 395. México 21 D.F. México.

Programa Interamericano de Lingüística y Enseñanza de Idiomas

Specialized linguistics courses for graduate students will be given during a seven week seminar organized by the Programa Interamericano de Lingüística y de Enseñanza de Idiomas and the Asociación de Lingüística y Filología de la América Latina, in collaboration with the University of Puerto Rico. Courses will cover theoretical and applied linguistics, Ibero-American linguistics, language teaching and other fields of interest. For further information write to: Yolanda Lastra, Secretaría Ejecutivo, Matías Romero 87-C México 13, D.F.

Movement of Professionals

American University: Harold E. Davis has been engaged as a consultant by the Cincinnati Council on World Affairs for the development of Latin American Studies in the tri-state group of colleges served by the Council.

Universidad de los Andes, Bogotá: Harold E. Hinds Jr. was an Associate Research Fellow during the academic year 1969–1970; and Miguel A. Bretos was appointed Associate Researcher in December 1969. Bretos is also visiting professor at the Pontificia Universidad Javeriana, teaching a seminar on Colombian historiography and historical methodology.

Arizona State University: Manuel P. Serwin was recently appointed Full Professor.

Federal University of Bahía, Brazil: Emilio Willems, Professor of Anthropology at Vanderbilt University, will take up a post at the University of Bahía in the Fall of 1970.

University of California, Los Angeles: The following visiting Latin Americans have accepted posts at UCLA: Ricardo Velluti (Anatomy), Jorge Elliot (Art), Claudio Véliz (History), Salvador Hackman Celia (Microbiology), Jorge Preloran (Theater Arts), Gui-