Popular Music is an international multi-disciplinary journal covering all aspects of the subject - from the formation of social group identities through popular music, to the workings of the global music industry, to how particular pieces of music are put together. The journal includes all kinds of popular music, whether rap or rai, jazz or rock, from any historical era and any geographical location. Popular Music carries articles by scholars from a variety of disciplines and theoretical perspectives. Each issue contains substantial, authoritative and influential articles, topical pieces, and reviews of a wide range of books. Some issues are thematic. The editors also welcome polemical pieces for the 'Middle Eight' section of the journal. Contributors should consult the 'Notes' on the inside back cover.

Articles and any other material not related to reviews should be submitted online at <http://journals.cambridge.org/pmu>. Any queries relating to submissions may be addressed to popularmusic@cambridge.org. Material for review should be sent to Professor Martin Cloonan, email martin.cloonan@music.glasgow.ac.uk.

Subscriptions Popular Music (ISSN 0261-1430) is published three times a year in January, May and October. Three parts form a volume. The subscription price (excluding VAT) of Volume 31 which includes print and electronic access to institutional subscribers is £195 (USA, Canada and Mexico $335); print only for individuals is £44 (USA, Canada and Mexico $67). Single parts cost £65 (USA, Canada and Mexico $105). An online only price is available to institutional subscribers for £175 (USA, Canada and Mexico $295). EU subscribers (outside the UK) who are not registered for VAT should add VAT at their country's rate. VAT registered subscribers should provide their VAT registration number. Orders, which must be accompanied by payment, may be sent to a bookseller, subscription agent or direct to the publisher: Cambridge University Press, The Edinburgh Building, Shaftesbury Road, Cambridge CB2 8RU, UK. Orders from the USA, Canada and Mexico should be sent to Cambridge University Press, Journals Fulfillment Department, 100 Brook Hill Drive, West Nyack, New York 10994-2133. The Contributors

CHRIS ATTON is Professor of Media and Culture in the School of Arts and Creative Industries at Edinburgh Napier University. His research interests focus on alternative media, amateur cultural production and fan studies. He is the author of five books, including Alternative Media and (with James Hamilton) Alternative Journalism. He is particularly interested in questions of creativity and democratic access to the media, and the social and cultural value of participatory media.

TYLER BICKFORD received his PhD in Ethnomusicology in 2011 from Columbia University, where he teaches as a Core Lecturer. His research looks at US schoolchildren's media consumption and expressive culture. He has written articles and reviews for Ethnomusicology, Journal of Folklore Research, Journal of Consumer Culture, Current Musicology and several edited volumes.

DAI GRIFFITHS is Senior Lecturer in Music at Oxford Brookes University, and author of monographs on Radiohead and Elvis Costello. His research is now mostly on words in songs, while his teaching is mostly in tonal harmony and analysis. He currently divides his working time equally between the university and fatherhood. His first journal publication was "Three tributaries of "The River"", which appeared 25 years ago, in Volume 7 of Popular Music.

BARBARA LEBRUN is Lecturer in Contemporary French Culture at the University of Manchester. Her research looks at issues of identity, gender, prestige and audience reception in French popular music. Dr Lebrun is the author of Protest Music in France (Ashgate, 2009), winner of the 2011 IASPM book prize for Best Anglophone Monograph, and has published articles in Modern and Contemporary France, French Cultural Studies, Third Text and Vingtème Siècle. She is the editor of a forthcoming collection on performance in Francophone music culture, Corps de Chanteurs (L'Harmattan, 2012).

DAVID METZER is Professor of Music History at the University of British Columbia. His research interests include popular music, 20th and 21st century classical music, and cultural studies. He has had articles published in a wide variety of journals and is the author of Quotation and Cultural Meaning in Twentieth-Century Music and Musical Modernism at the Turn of the Twenty-First Century (both published by Cambridge University Press). He is currently working on a book on the history of the ballad from the 1950s to the present.

JOTI ROCKWELL is Assistant Professor of Music at Pomona College in Claremont, California, where he teaches music theory and popular music courses. He does research on American popular music, rhythm, bluegrass and old-time music, and mathematical music theory. He also performs roots music, bluegrass and contemporary concert music on the acoustic guitar, mandolin and banjo.

YNGVAR B. STEINHOLT is Associate Professor of Russian Culture and Literature at the Institute of Culture and Literature, Tromsø University. Dr Steinholt has published a book and several articles on popular music in the Soviet Union and post-Soviet Russia and is currently contributing to the research project Post-Socialist Punk at Warwick University.

TIM WISE is a Senior Lecturer in Musicology and Popular Music at the University of Salford. He studied music, English literature and linguistics in his native Texas, and received his PhD in music from the University of Liverpool where his thesis supervisors were Philip Tagg and Michael Talbot. He is currently writing a book on the semiotics of yodelling in American popular music.
