

News and Notes

Activities

Herbert Alexander, University of Southern California, is serving as Director of the Citizen's Research Foundation and is a professor of political science as of January 1, 1978.

Donald J. Baxter, College of William and Mary, has returned from England, having spent a year teaching in the Department of Politics, University of Leicester.

Frank Belloni, Virginia Commonwealth University, has been awarded a Fulbright-Hays grant for teaching and research at the University of Catania, Sicily, for the spring and summer 1978.

Harriet F. Berger, Drexel University, was the recipient of the National Endowment for the Humanities Visiting Fellowship for an eight-week seminar last summer at New York University.

Marc Blecher, Oberlin College, will be spending 1978 as a research fellow with the University of Chicago Center for Far Eastern Studies Project: "Political Leadership and Social Change at the Local Level in China: 1850 to the Present." The project is funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Lewis Brownstein, State University of New York, College at New Paltz, participated in the NEH Seminar on Contemporary Marxism at the University of Kansas during the summer of 1977.

Coralie Bryant, American University, served as Fulbright professor of Public Administration in Africa during May and June 1977.

Charles E. Butterworth, University of Maryland, has been awarded a two-year research grant by the National Endowment for the Humanities for a "Project in Medieval Logic: Averroes's Middle Commentaries on Aristotle's Organon."

Angel Calderon-Cruz, University of Puerto Rico, has been appointed as a member of the International Education Committee of the College Entrance Examination Board for a three-year term.

Gwendolen M. Carter, Indiana University, has been awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Humane Letters from Northwestern University.

H. Paul Castleberry, Washington State University, has been appointed chairperson of the Washington Commission on the Humanities.

Carl Q. Christol, University of Southern California, received the University of Southern California Associates Award for Excellence in Teaching at the close of the spring semester. The Award carried with it an honorarium of $2,000. In July he received an honorary Doctorate of Laws and Letters from the University of South Dakota, his alma mater. Having served as Chairman of the Department for two terms he relinquished this post at the beginning of the 1977-78 academic year.

Kenneth Coleman, University of Kentucky, has joined the Editorial Board of Comparative Political Studies and is now on a Fulbright grant in Mexico.

Vince Davis, University of Kentucky, has been named by Secretary of Commerce Juanita Kreps to that Department's District Export Council.

Paul A. Dawson, Oberlin College, has received a grant from the National Science Foundation for research and writing on the national allocation of time to electoral participation. Collaborators on the project are James E. Zinser and Kurt F. Hausafus, both of Oberlin College.

John R. Dempsey, College of Charleston, is on leave for 1977-78 serving as a NASPAA Fellow with the President's Reorganization Project at the Office of Management and Budget.

Harris I. Effross, Rutgers University, has received two awards: New Jersey Historical Commission, Recognition Award, December 3, 1977, for outstanding service to public knowledge and preservation of the history of New Jersey; and New Jersey Association of Counties, Career Merit Award, July 1, 1977, given to outstanding state employees for contributions above and beyond the normal professional standards in his field of endeavor.

Kent E. Eklund, Saint Olaf College, has successfully run for a two-year term as Mayor of the City of Northfield, Minnesota. The term began January 3, 1978.

Charles R. Foster, Committee on Atlantic Studies, spoke on July 28 at the Inupiat University of the Arctic, Barrow, Alaska on Bilingual-Bicultural problems of ethnic nationalism. Inupiat is new and the northernmost university of the world, being 380 miles north of the arctic circle, training Inupiat eskimos.

Ahmad Haffar, State University of New York, College at New Paltz, has been appointed at the Arab Development Institute, Tripoli, Libya, for 1977-78.

Lenneal Henderson, Jr., Howard University, is on leave serving as Associate Director of Research, Joint Center for Political Studies.

Jane D. Highsaw, Mount Vernon College, on sabbatical leave at the London School of Economics, has been elected to a six-year term on the Oberlin College Board of Trustees.

Ehtisham Hussain, Pakistan, has been invited to lecture on Perspectives of Pakistan's Ideology at the U.S. International University, San Diego, and a few more educational, cultural and developmental institutions of higher learning.

Donald R. Kelley, Mississippi State University, is on leave during 1977-78 as a Fellow of the National Humanities Institute of the University of Chicago. The topic of his research is the Soviet concept of "developed socialism."

Michael P. Kirby, Southwestern College, Memphis, Tennessee, is on leave to join the Pretrial Services Resource Center as an evaluation and research specialist.

Katherine N. Klotzburger, City University of New York, has received an ACE Fellowship in Academic Administration for 1977-78.

James A. Kuhlman, University of South Carolina, has been awarded the Outstanding Civilian Service Medal by the Department of the Army. Kuhlman received the award for his services at the U.S. Army War College Strategic Studies Institute where he served as a research associate during 1976-77.

W. Henry Lambright, Syracuse University, gave the 1977 Roy V. Wright Lecture to the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, November 30, 1977, in Atlanta, Georgia.

George A. Lanyi, Oberlin College, is on sabbatical for 1977-78, second semester, which he will spend in Europe.

Harvey Lieber, American University, is on sabbatical leave during 1977-78.

Norton E. Long, University of Missouri, St. Louis, has been awarded a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship for 1977-78.

William C. Louthan, Ohio Wesleyan University, was the winner of the 1976-77 Sherwood Dodge Shankland Outstanding Teacher Award presented annually at June commencement.

Max Mark, Wayne State University, received one of two 1977 Faculty Service Awards from the Wayne State University Alumni Association for his job in "enhancing the University as a place of learning and humanity."

Emmet Mittlebeeler, American University, was reappointed Fulbright Professor to Nigeria for 1977-78.

Henry J. Pratt, Wayne State University, received one of five distinguished achievement awards for 1977 awarded by the Board of Governors of Wayne State for his book, The Gray Lobby.

William H. Riker, University of Rochester, was awarded the degree of Doctor of Philosophy, honoris causa, by the University of Uppsala on the occasion of the celebration of the 500th Year of the University, September 30, 1977. In connection with the celebration, he spoke on "The Theory of Democracy and the Theory of Social Choice."

Stanley Rothman, Smith College, was granted an IREX grant to travel to Warsaw in May 1977, to consult with Polish colleagues. He is the principal investigator and senior author of a collaborative research project on intergenerational transmission and change in Poland and the U.S.

Larry Scaff, University of Arizona, has received a Fulbright-Hays Travel Grant for study at the University of Dusseldorf, Germany, for the second semester, 1977-78.

Sheldon Simon, Arizona State University, delivered seminars at the U.S. Army War College, Command and General Staff College, and the Air University in May, June, and October 1977. The topics ranged from Japanese foreign policy in a resource-scarce environment to Southeast Asian security policies.

J. David Singer, University of Michigan, spend two months in Eastern and Western Europe on behalf of the IPSA Peace and Conflict Research Committee and the U.S. Department of State, conducting seminars at about 20 university and governmental institutions on research and policy in the international security field.

James A. Stegenga, Purdue University, has been named Book Review Editor for the quarterly journal, Armed Forces and Society, a publication specializing in international relations, defense studies, and military sociology.

Ronald Steinberg, State University of New York, College at New Paltz, participated in the NEH Seminar on "Law, Liberalism, and Social Justice" at the University of Wisconsin during the summer, 1977.

Clarence N. Stone, University of Maryland, won the Chastain Award of the Southern Political Science Association for the best book on southern government and politics published in 1976 for his book, Economic Growth and Neighborhood Discontent: System Bias in the Urban Renewal Program of Atlanta.

Robert W. Sutherland, Jr., Cornell College, has returned from Princeton University where he was a participant in Paul Sigmund's NEH Summer Seminar on "The Historical and Philosophical Foundations of the American Constitution."

David G. Temple, West Virginia University, former Chairman, has returned to full-time teaching and research.

Carol B. Thompson, University of Southern California, has been given a special leave so that she might accept a teaching position at the University of Dar-es-Salaam for two years.

George O. Totten, III, University of Southern California, has been given a special leave so that he might accept a position for one year at the

News and Notes

University of Stockholm. He will establish a Department of Japanology at the Swedish University.

Krishna Kumar Tummala, University of Wyoming, presented a paper, "Dynamic of the Politics of Confrontation: The Case of India," at the Third World Conference on October 27, 1977, University of Nebraska, Omaha.

Richard Vengroff, Texas Tech University, is on leave, 1977-79, to conduct research and serve as a consultant on rural development in Upper Volta under the auspices of the Consortium for International Development.

Thomas J. Volgy, University of Arizona, has been elected to a four-year term on the City Council of Tucson, Arizona.

Alan Ward, College of William and Mary, is on research leave for the first semester 1977-78.

Donald Zauderer, American University, was on sabbatical leave during fall semester, 1977.

J. K. Zawodny, Pomona College, has been elected by Professor Harold Lasswell and Lawrence Z. Freedman, M.D. to become a Fellow at the Institute of Social and Behavioral Pathology, University of Chicago.

New Appointments

R. Douglas Arnold, instructor, Princeton University.

Shlomo Avineri, professor, Hebrew University of Jerusalem.

Brian Barry, professor, University of Chicago; formerly of University of British Columbia.

Barry Bozeman, associate professor, Syracuse University; formerly of University of Missouri, Columbia.

Gary Brey, assistant professor, University of South Florida.

Terry Buss, assistant professor, Youngstown State University.

Robert Catlin, associate professor, University of South Florida.

Roger David Chambers, assistant professor, Lake Superior State College.

T. Daniel Coggin, assistant professor, James Madison University.

Jeanne Marie Col, assistant professor, State University of New York, Albany.

Richard J. Collings, instructor, Southeast Missouri State University; formerly of Tulane University.

Clement Cottingham, associate professor, Vanderbilt University; formerly of Ford Foundation.

David W. P. Elliott, assistant professor, Pomona College.

Manfred Ernst, acting assistant professor, College of William and Mary.

Barry Faye, professor, Blackburn College; formerly of Western Illinois University.

Ronald A. Franco, assistant professor, Marquette University.

William C. Green, assistant professor, Niagara University; formerly of SUNY, Buffalo.

Fred Grogan, assistant professor, Lycoming College.

Judith Gruber, assistant professor, Yale University.

Susan Hekman, assistant professor, University of Texas, Arlington; formerly of University of Washington.

Robert A. Isaak, associate professor, Pace University and Resident Fellow, Columbia University's Research Institute on International Change.

U. Alexis Johnson, Edgar R. Baker adjunct professor, George Washington University; formerly Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs and U.S. Ambassador to Thailand and Japan.

Kent A. Kirwan, associate professor and chairman, University of Nebraska, Omaha; formerly of Marquette University.

Charles Knerr, assistant professor, University of Texas, Arlington; formerly of Syracuse University.

Charles H. Lipson, assistant professor, University of Chicago.

Nicholas P. Lovrich, assistant professor and director of division of governmental studies and services, Washington State University.

William R. Luckey, instructor, St. John's University.

Gregory S. Mahler, assistant professor, Metropolitan State College, Denver.

Tom Marshall, assistant professor, University of Texas, Arlington; formerly of University of Minnesota.

John C. McAdams, instructor, Marquette University.

Morris McCain, assistant professor, College of William and Mary.

Michael Melody, assistant professor, Saint Leo College; formerly of Kenyon College and University of Notre Dame.

Muriel Morse, adjunct professor, Texas Tech University.

David P. Rapkin, instructor, University of Nebraska, Lincoln.

Hans Rattinger, assistant professor, Yale University; formerly of University of Freiburg.

Richard Schramm, associate professor, American University; formerly of Cornell University.

Corwin E. Smidt, assistant professor, Calvin College, Grand Rapids, Michigan; formerly of Quincy College, Illinois.

- Robert N. Spadaro, associate professor, Center for Public Policy and Administration, California State University, Long Beach; also, Consultant to President's Reorganization Project, Executive Office of the President, The White House.
- Carolyn M. Stephenson, instructor, Colgate University; formerly of San Diego State University.
- Susan Strange, professor, University of Southern California; formerly of London School of Economics and Political Science.
- Nathan S. Tarcov, assistant professor, University of Chicago; formerly of Harvard University.
- Edward R. Tufte, professor, Yale University; formerly of Princeton University.
- William T. Weber, assistant professor, James Madison University.
- Jerry Webman, instructor, Princeton University.
- Aaron Wildavsky, adjunct professor, Yale University.
- Linda Williams, assistant professor, Howard University.
- Shawky S. Zeidan, assistant professor, California State College, Sonoma.
- Phillip Robinson, instructor, Oberlin College, 1977-78.
- Raymond Sandoval, visiting assistant professor, University of Texas, Arlington, 1977-78.
- John Schuiteman, visiting assistant professor, Texas Tech University, 1977-78.
- Frederick L. Shiels, visiting assistant professor, Baruch College, City University of New York, 1977-78.
- Roslyn Simowitz, visiting assistant professor, Vanderbilt University.
- Roger Smith, College of William and Mary; University of Glasgow, 1977-78.
- Charles E. Strikwerda, assistant professor, Calvin College, Grand Rapids, Michigan; formerly of University of Arizona.
- Malcolm J. Wallis, visiting associate professor, Vanderbilt University.
- Richard Weissman, visiting instructor, University of Nebraska, Lincoln; formerly of University of Georgia.
- David Winterford, University of British Columbia; visiting professor, University of Southern California, 1977-79.

Junnosuke Masumi, Tokyo Metropolitan University; visiting professor, University of Southern California, 1977-78.

Ko-wang Mei, visiting distinguished professor, San Jose State University, 1977-78.

Joyce M. Mitchell, University of Oregon; William A. Johnson Professor of Government, Pomona College, Spring 1978.

Roy Pierce, University of Michigan; Ecoles des Hautes Etudes en Sciences Sociales, Paris, France, January-June, 1978.

Robert Presthus, York University; distinguished visiting professor, Arizona State University, spring, 1978.

Visiting and Temporary Appointments

Ronald Colman, visiting assistant professor, State University of New York, College at New Paltz, 1977-78.

Murray Comarow, distinguished adjunct professor in residence, American University, remainder of 1977-78.

Stephen Craig, visiting assistant professor, Texas Tech University, 1977-78.

Kenneth C. Farmer, assistant professor, Marquette University.

Donald M. Freeman, visiting professor, Texas Tech University, 1977-78.

Charles T. Goodsell, visiting professor, University of Texas, Austin, Spring 1978.

Galen Hull, visiting associate professor, Texas Tech University, 1977-79.

Mark Iris, visiting lecturer, University of Illinois, Chicago Circle, 1977-78.

Savak Katrak, visiting associate professor, Colgate University; formerly of State University of New York, Oneonta.

William Leonhart, Ambassador-in-Residence, College of William and Mary, 1977-78.

Edward Lynch, visiting assistant professor, Texas Tech University, 1977-78.

Alpheus Thomas Mason, Andrew Mellon Distinguished Visiting Professor, Franklin and Marshall College, January term, 1978.

Administrative Appointments

Peter H. Aranson, research professor and special research administrator, Law and Economics Center, University of Miami School of Law; formerly of Georgia Institute of Technology.

Anne Armstrong, chairperson, CUNY, Herbert H. Lehman College.

Marguerite Ross Barnett, chairperson, Howard University.

Gerald Benjamin, chairperson, State University of New York, College at New Paltz.

Joel Berke, deputy assistant secretary of HEW for education policy development.

William C. Binning, chairperson, Youngstown State University.

Thomas Boast, writer, The Fiscal Observer, Center for New York Affairs, New School for Social Research.

News and Notes

Laslo Boyd, chairperson, University of Baltimore.

N. Joseph Cayer, acting director, Center for Public Service and M.P.A. program, Texas Tech University.

Richard Lee Clinton, associate dean, College of Liberal Arts, Oregon State University.

Orrin B. Conway, Jr., chairperson, West Virginia University.

James P. Craft, Jr., vice president for planning and administration, Ursinus College, Collegeville, Pennsylvania.

Irving O. Dawson, chairperson, University of Texas, Arlington.

Paul A. Dawson, chairperson, Oberlin College.

Samuel Decalo, professor and chairperson, University of Botswana, Gaborone, Botswana; formerly of New School for Social Research.

Martin C. Fergus, director, Public Affairs Program, Fordham University.

Leila Fraser, chief administrator, Office of Mayor Maier, City of Milwaukee.

Fred I. Greenstein, placement director for graduate students, Princeton University.

Peter Gubser, president, American Near East Refugee Aid, Washington, D.C.

William C. Havard, chairperson, Vanderbilt University; formerly of VPI and State University.

Edward Jackson, director, graduate program, Howard University.

Lawrence J. LeBlanc, chairperson, Marquette University.

William C. Louthan, dean of academic affairs, Ohio Wesleyan University.

William Oden, associate dean of graduate school, Texas Tech University.

Frederic D. Ogden, associate vice president for planning, Eastern Kentucky University. He will continue as Dean of College of Arts and Sciences.

John K. C. Oh, dean of graduate school, Marquette University.

Michael D. Reagon, vice chancellor, University of California, Riverside.

Margaret M. Rhoades, head, Office of Public Affairs, Office of Education, U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Richard C. Rowson, president, Pergamon Press, Inc.

John R. Schmidhauser, chairman, University of Southern California.

Robert L. Schuettinger, director of studies and editor, The Heritage Foundation.

Joseph P. Scottino, president, Gannon College.

Allan P. Sindler, dean, graduate school of public policy, University of California, Berkeley.

Frank Tachau, chairperson, University of Illinois, Chicago Circle.

Krishna Kumar Tummala, director of internship in government program, University of Wyoming.

Ronald Walters, director, undergraduate program, Howard University.

Gary L. Wamsley, professor and director, Center for Public Administration and Policy, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

Hilbourne Watson, associate chairperson, Howard University.

Susan Welch, chairperson, University of Nebraska, Lincoln.

Herbert H. Werlin, editor, The Urban Edge, Council of International Urban Liaison, Washington, D.C.

Johan G. Westra, chairperson, Calvin College, Grand Rapids, Michigan.

Charles R. Wise, director, undergraduate program, Indiana University.

Glynn L. Wood, acting dean, School of Government and Public Administration, American University.

Garth Youngberg, chairperson, Southeast Missouri State University; formerly of Southwest Missouri State University.

Promotions

Paul J. Best, Southern Connecticut State College: professor.

Matthew Bonham, American University: professor.

James P. Craft, Jr., Ursinus College: professor.

Leo J. Flynn, Pomona College: associate professor.

David P. Forsythe, University of Nebraska, Lincoln: professor.

Robert J. Friedrich, Franklin and Marshall College: assistant professor.

George J. Graham, Jr., Vanderbilt University: professor.

Andrew Glassberg, CUNY, Herbert H. Lehman College: assistant professor.

Milda K. Hedblom, Augsburg College: associate professor.

Robert C. Horn, California State University, Northridge: professor.

Curtis E. Huff, Jr., Ahmadu Bello University: senior lecturer.

Edward Jackson, Howard University: associate professor.

Jamil Jreisat, University of South Florida: professor.

Hong N. Kim, West Virginia University: professor.

Paul S. Kim, Gannon College: professor.

Barbara B. Knight, George Mason University: associate professor.

Lawrence J. LeBlanc, Marquette University: associate professor.

Arthur Levy, University of South Florida: associate professor.

David R. Mayhew, Yale University: professor.

Patrick M. Morgan, Washington State University: professor.

John C. Pierce, Washington State University: professor.

Christian P. Potholm, Bowdoin College: professor.

Kul B. Rai, Southern Connecticut State College: professor.

Bernard Ross, American University: professor.

David E. Schmitt, Northeastern University: professor.

Willard E. Smith, University of Wisconsin, Oshkosh: professor.

Jance Snook, University of South Florida: associate professor.

Nikolaos Stavrou, Howard University: professor.

Gerald S. Strom, University of Illinois, Chicago Circle: associate professor.

Joan K. Wadlow, University of Nebraska, Lincoln: professor.

A. Nicholas Wahl, Princeton University: professor.

Susan Welch, University of Nebraska, Lincoln: professor.

Maurice C. Woodard, Howard University: professor.

Retirements

Richard H. Heindel, professor emeritus, Pennsylvania State University, Capitol Campus. He was recently elected a corporate member of the Committee for the World University and is president of the Harrisburg Foreign Policy Association.

Robert E. Martin, professor emeritus, Howard University.

Corrections

Jack S. Levy, the 1977 Helen Dwight Reid Award winner, was incorrectly listed as affiliated with Yale University in the Fall PS, p. 470. His correct institutional affiliation is the University of Texas at Austin. PS regrets this error.

In the fall 1977 PS, Mary L. Pollingue's dissertation title, the winner of the Leo Strauss dissertation award, was incorrectly listed as "A Community on Plato's Phaedrus." It should have read, "A Commentary on Plato's Phaedrus." PS regrets this error.

In Memoriam

Huey Blair Howerton

Dr. Huey B. Howerton, professor emeritus of political science at the University of Mississippi, died November 6, 1977, in Oxford, after a long illness. He was 82. Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Mattie K. Howerton, and his daughter, Mrs. Kenneth McLaughlin. A son, Huey B. Howerton, Jr., preceded him in death.

A native of Mississippi, educated in the public schools with a B.S. degree from Mississippi State College and an A.M. from the University of Mississippi, he left the state only for advanced graduate study which he completed with a doctorate in political science at the University of Texas, and for duty as an infantry lieutenant in Europe during World War I. He taught at Mississippi State and the State Teachers' College before entering military service; he was associated in various capacities with the public schools in the twenties; he joined the faculty at the University of Mississippi in 1930 where he served until his retirement in 1962. He was the first chairman of political science when it became a separate department in 1943 and held that position for 15 years. Thus his significant contributions to education were at all levels and over a long and formative period.

Professor Howerton's research and publications reflected his dominant interest in his native state. Beginning in 1948, he wrote a series of five Guidebooks for various county officials. These books, published by the University Bureau of Public Administration, contained a clear statement and explanation of the legal duties of these officials and doubtless were valuable in improving the quality of local administration. In later years his publications shifted to his field of major interest—public law. He was a contributor to a study of the Mississippi Constitution, Yesterday's Constitution Today, 1960, and the author of Mississippi's Leading Constitutional Decisions, 1964. Both were published by the University Bureau of Public Administration.

While his research was sound and his publications clear and convincing, it was Dr. Howerton's superior teaching that made him stand out among his colleagues and which engendered the respect and admiration of his students. He possessed the art of the truly great teacher—the ability to instill in students the genuine desire to learn.