

The Prevention of Racial Discrimination in Britain

Edited by SIMON ABBOTT

This study discusses discrimination in relation to British society as a whole, reviews the history of immigration to the U.K., analyses the demographical and statistical data, examines discrimination in housing, education, and employment, and reviews the prevention of discrimination through recent legislation and statutory bodies, the Race Relations Board and the Community Relations Commission and its councils, and other Government and private measures. £5 Institute of Race Relations

Community Action and Race Relations

A Study of Community Relations Committees in Britain

MICHAEL J. HILL and RUTH M. ISSACHAROFF

More than eighty committees have been set up by the Community Relations Commission or its predecessor, the National Committee for Commonwealth Immigrants, as well as by other organizations, to improve race relations in Britain. This book studies the detailed work of eight of these committees and examines carefully their relations with local authorities, the immigrant minorities, and the Commission itself. £4.25 Institute of Race Relations

Patterns of Dominance

PHILIP MASON

'This outstanding book throws new light upon racial discrimination - by analysing its history rather than by argument about current issues' (The Sunday Times). Highly praised on its original publication in 1970, Philip Mason's study of the developing pattern of race relations throughout the world, seen as part of a wide movement of history, is now reprinted in Oxford Paperbacks. It remains available in hard covers at £3.50. £1.25 Oxford Paperbacks Institute of Race Relations

Oxford Studies in Social Mobility

Volume I. Methods and Approaches

Edited by KEITH HOPE

A national survey of occupational change in a generation is the principal item in a programme of work on social mobility which is being undertaken by a group of Oxford sociologists. Preparatory work has involved pilot investigations directed, in particular, to problems of occupational classification; this will be reported in two volumes. The first includes papers on the grading of occupations, the quantification of inter-generational transmission of status, path analysis, canonical scoring of contingency and discussions of the relations between social mobility and marriage and fertility. Paper covers. 29 text-figures. £1.90

THE SOCIOGRAPHY OF AN UNEMPLOYED COMMUNITY

MARIE JAHOĐA, PAUL F. LAZARSELD, and HANS ZEISEL

This long-awaited translation of a sociological classic is twice significant, as the first contribution to the sociology of poverty and as the first example of the use of modern survey techniques for community study.

'This short report stands out as a jewel, wholly laudable for its conciseness, its vividness, and its compassion.' Geoffrey Hawthorn, New Society

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

1. All contributions and correspondence should be sent to: The Editor, Journal of Social Policy, The London School of Economics and Political Science, Houghton Street, Aldwych, London WC2A 2AE. All books for review should be sent to: The Review Editor, Journal of Social Policy, Department of Sociology, Goldsmiths' College, University of London, Lewisham Way, London SE14.
2. Articles should generally contain between 5,000 and 10,000 words including footnotes, although longer or shorter articles may be accepted by arrangement with the Editor. Short articles stand a better chance of early publication.
3. Submission of an article is taken to imply that it has not previously been published, or is not being considered for publication elsewhere. If an author is publishing a related article elsewhere, this fact should be stated.
4. Contributions (articles, review articles, reviews) should be clearly typed on one side of the paper only using a conventional size of paper, preferably A4. All material should be typed double-spaced with generous margins. Contributors should send two copies and keep one copy of the typescript for correcting proofs.
5. References to books and articles should include the following details: in the case of books, the full title and author or authors, place of publication, publisher and date; in the case of articles, the title and author or authors, full name of the journal, volume, year and page reference (first and last page). References and other footnotes should be numbered consecutively throughout and typed separately at the end of the article. Good articles which contain this bibliographical information will be accepted, even if they do not follow the journal's own arrangement of the information.
6. Tables should be clearly laid out and designed to fit on to a page $9\frac{1}{4} \times 6\frac{1}{4}$ inches. Vertical lines between columns should be omitted, and horizontal lines limited to the top and bottom of the table, with an additional one below the column headings. Totals and percentages should be labelled, and units identified.
7. Contributors are advised to look through earlier issues of the journal for guidance on points of general style.
8. First proofs may be read and corrected by contributors provided that they can give the editor an address through which they can be reached without delay and can guarantee to return the corrected proofs to the editor, by airmail where appropriate, within ten days of receiving them. The master proof will always be sent direct to the editor by the printer; contributors will receive duplicates.
9. Authors of articles and review articles (but not book reviews) receive twenty-five free offprints. Additional copies may be bought if ordered at proof stage.
10. Contributors of accepted articles will be asked to assign their copyright, on certain conditions, to Cambridge University Press, to help protect their material, particularly in the USA.
