

Performance Studies... Scholarship with a Difference

The Department of Performance Studies, the first program of its kind, offers an integrative perspective on the continuum of human action from life events, sports, ceremonies, and ritual to theatre and dance.

"Performance" is the organizing concept for our curriculum. We blur the boundaries of disciplines and develop new ways of thinking about performance. Our perspective is intercultural. Areas of concentration include performance theory, dance history, movement analysis, contemporary performance, popular entertainment, folk performance, feminist performance theory, and performance writing.

Our faculty includes Barbara Kirshenblatt-Gimblett (Chair), Martha Davis, Michael Kirby, Brooks McNamara, Margaret Phelan, Richard Schechner, Marcia B. Siegel, and Michael Taussig. Distinguished visiting faculty has included Robert Farris Thompson, Phillip Zarrilli, Eugenio Barba, Deborah Jowitt, Carl Weber, Augusto Boal, and Susan Slyomovics.

Gender and Disorder in Early Modern Seville

Mary Elizabeth Perry

In this exploration of crisis in Counter-Reformation Spain, Mary Elizabeth Perry reveals the significance of gender for social order by portraying the lives of women who lived on the margins of respectability—prostitutes, healers, visionaries, and other deviants who provoked the concern of a growing central government linked closely to the church.

Peasant Economy, Culture, and Politics of European Russia, 1800–1921

Edited by Esther Kingston-Mann and Timothy Mixer

This collection of original essays provides a rare in-depth look at peasant life in nineteenth- and early twentieth-century European Russia. As a whole, these essays expose the inner workings of a peasantry whose values, behavior, and institutions may have been a part of, rather than an obstacle to, Russia's historical development in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries.

Comparative Studies in Society and History is a forum for presentation and discussion of new research into problems of change and stability that recur in human societies through time or in the contemporary world. It sets up a working alliance between specialists in all branches of the social sciences and humanities. Debate and review articles bring the general reader in touch with current findings and issues.

NOTES FOR CONTRIBUTORS

Contributions may be descriptive, analytical, or theoretical. Any article not in itself comparative may be accepted if it lends itself to comment that will place it in comparative perspective. Correspondence with the editors prior to the submission of articles will help to enable them to obtain such comment or a companion study. Emphasis in comparative studies may be either on similarities or, if these are significant enough and call for some recasting of generalizations, on differences. All contributions and editorial correspondence should be sent to the Editors, Comparative Studies in Society and History, 102 Rackham Building, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48109-1070.

Two copies of each contribution, preferably accompanied by a stamped, addressed envelope, should be submitted. Both text and footnotes should be clearly typed with double spacing and wide margins; footnotes should appear on separate pages at the end of the article. Illustrations may be included by arrangement with the editors.
