Among the subjects expected to be included in the next two or three issues are Guinea fowl production in Nigeria, aspects of broiler production costs, turkey paramyxovirus 3 infections in poultry, the egg shell membrane protein system, interrelationships between egg size, chick size, posthatching growth and hatchability, an analysis of laying hen welfare in cages and alternative systems and aspects of poultry education and training in the UK. There will be more book reviews and it is hoped that those planning conferences and meetings and involved in education and training will provide material to enable the Calendar section to be enlarged.
