OUR SECRET WEAPON. MLA authors who feel modest about the "relevance" of their accomplishment will be heartened by a recent subscription to PMLA from the 72 Bomb Wing at Ramey AFB. What in the world do they do with it there?

DANTE PRIZE. The Dante Society of America, Boylston Hall, Harvard Univ., announces its prizes of $100 for the best undergraduate student essay and $200 for the best graduate student essay in 1968. Deadline for submission of essay, 1 April 1968. Information may be secured from the offices of the Society.

AMERICANS ABROAD. In 1966, a record 1,547,725 persons obtained passports to travel abroad, bringing to 4,250,000 the number of Americans holding valid travel documents. These figures do not include the large number of Americans traveling to Canada, Mexico, or the Caribbean. The number of new 1966 passports represented a gain of 16.3 percent over 1965, and seven times the 202,424 passports issued in 1947. A total of 324,180 1966 passports were issued to young people between ages 15 and 24. Of the passport applicants in 1966, the great majority (1,115,855) indicated that Europe was their first destination, and England, France, Germany, Italy, and Switzerland were the most frequently listed countries.

NEW MLA ADDRESS. On 3 July the MLA administrative and editorial offices moved to 62 Fifth Avenue, New York 10011 (phone: area code 212 691-3200). We now occupy the seventh and eighth floors of the handsome limestone building erected in 1925 to house the Macmillan Co. of New York. The architect was John Russell Pope, who designed the Jefferson Memorial and the National Gallery in Washington. Upon completion 60 Fifth Avenue (the principal address for the building—62 is the MLA entrance) was hailed as a superb example of neoclassic architecture and was awarded a prize by the Fifth Avenue Association. After Macmillan became part of the Crowell-Collier empire, 60 Fifth was bought by Forbes Magazine, from whom we have taken our 15-year lease.

These two floors give us something over twice as much space as our former quarters, with areas especially designed for our computer and mailing operations. For the next two or three years New York University Press will sublet a third of the office space on the seventh floor, but this space is earmarked for ACTFL—as soon as ACTFL can afford it. The move means that after 40 years MLA will no longer be housed in New York University buildings. But we bring the Press with us as hostage, and Fisher, Gibson, Shugrue, and Mitchell remain on the NYU graduate English staff as earnest of a continued connection. No university could afford to contribute the space and services the burgeoning MLA requires; few would have been as generous as NYU has been over the years. We will be glad to have you drop in to see us when you are in New York. In the meanwhile, remember: 62 Fifth Avenue. (We still get mail addressed Percy Long at 100 Washington Square!)

GEORGE L. ANDERSON. On 1 September George Anderson left the Treasurership and Associate Secretaryship of the MLA to become Chairman of a 120-man Department of English at the University of Hawaii, at a higher salary, and with no heavier obligations than he had at the MLA. We regard this as an auspicious move, for we think that the MLA office should be a stepping stone on the way up for some of the most able young people in the profession. There is a crisis in educational leadership today. As the rewards for pure scholarship grow greater and as the demands of administration grow more onerous, there is an increasing tendency for very responsible administrative positions to be filled by inexperienced or inferior people. There is no training system for department chairmen, for executive secretaries, for directors of centers and institutes, or for the foundation and government officials who are instrumental in funding all these operations. Internship programs have been established by the American Council on Education and other agencies to help train deans and other educational administrators. We submit, however, that work on the headquarters staff of an active professional society offers a "subject-oriented" experience that could be just as useful to the budding dean as to the budding department chairman.

So while George may be the last of the amateur MLA treasurers, he may merely be one of the first to step from the MLA office to larger responsibility in the educational world. We wish him good fortune in his new endeavor. He leaves a very different MLA from the one he came into in 1963, and he carries with him to Hawaii knowledge and skills that should greatly profit that rapidly expanding university.

ACTFL. The American Council on the Teaching of Foreign Languages is off to a sound start. Its new journal, Foreign Language Annals, will appear in October (see below). Its first meeting will be held 27-29 December at the Sheraton-Blackstone Hotel in Chicago. It has 25 state constituents, 20 national and regional language association affiliates, and 1600 individual members at this writing (4 July).

FOREIGN LANGUAGE ANNALS. With great regret we report that it was not possible to work out details with the National Federation of Modern Language Teachers Associations in time to permit the Modern Language Journal to become an official organ of ACTFL. Hence Foreign Language Annals will appear in October as a full-fledged quarterly journal, printed by the George Banta Publishing Company of Menasha, Wisconsin, who have printed PMLA since 1921. The first issue suggests the rich potential for the journal: "The Place of Latin in the Total Curriculum" by Harry Levy; "Contributions of the Classroom Teacher to Research and Knowledge" by Robert Roeming; "Evaluation of Foreign Language Teaching" by Alfred Hayes, Wallace Lambert, and Richard Tucker; "Laboratory Quizzes: A Means of Increasing Laboratory Effectiveness" by Rebecca Valette; "Foreign Language Entrance and Degree Requirements in Colleges that Grant the B.A. Degree" by Glen Willbern. In addition, there is a selection from important new ERIC accessions, a section of notes on ACTFL affairs, and the part of the annual ACTFL bibliography dealing with the physiology and psychology of language learning, compiled by Simon Harmon and Paul Pimsleur and edited by John Harmon. Subscription (including membership in ACTFL) $4.00, from the ACTFL office, 62 Fifth Ave., New York 10011 (See pp. A-65-66).

BIBLIOGRAPHICAL ACTIVITIES OF ALLAN STEVENSON. MLAer Allan Stevenson is applying scientific methods to the study of paper and typography for the purpose of dating early books and manuscripts. His study of the Constance Missal illustrating his technique will be published by the Bibliographical Society in 1967. He established the dates of the Netherlandish blockbooks (his 1965 lectures, soon to be published) by going to the archives of the towns where the paper was made and finding the dates of earliest use of the paper in municipal records. The British Museum has supplied him with a strip of perspex containing Carbon 14 to make beta radiographs of the Caxton watermarks. This winter he will carry his file of beta prints into French and Italian archives to study the watermarks in paper used near the mills that made it. Mr. Stevenson has supplied the paper makers at Wookey Hole with radiographs of the watermarks in the Caxton Ovid manuscript that accompanies the Pepys volume at Magdalene Coll., Cambridge. The facsimile of this cause célèbre, to be issued by George Braziller, will thus provide facsimiles of the watermarks as well as the type of this unique volume. Mr. Stevenson has arranged exhibits of Netherlandish blockbooks and of Caxtons illustrating his bibliographical methods.

GERTRUDE STEIN AND THE PRESENT

By ALLEGRA STEWART

Neither a biography nor a psychoanalytical study of Gertrude Stein, this book attempts to trace the development and expression of her thought. Miss Stewart sees in Gertrude Stein's speculations fascinating psychological, linguistic, and theological implications that have a contemporary relevance that is often overlooked. $4.95.

THE REDISCOVERY OF AMERICAN LITERATURE

Premises of Critical Taste

By RICHARD RULAND

Mr. Ruland's study in the history of taste looks closely at the work of a few important critics in an effort to understand the literary likes and dislikes of two generations and to point out the continuing relevance of the issues these critics raised about the relation between art and life in our society. $6.95

THE WORLD OF DON QUIXOTE

By RICHARD L. PREDMORE

Without invoking any predetermined critical method, the author of this scrupulous study approaches Don Quixote with an open mind and makes Cervantes himself the supreme authority for its interpretation. Of the many features of Don Quixote's world which Mr. Predmore brings freshly to view is its harmony and inner consistency. $4.95

CAXTON'S AESOP

Edited by R. T. LENAGHAN

Caxton's original English translation of 1483-84 is presented here in an attractively illustrated scholarly edition. The introduction gives the known historical background of the Caxton fables and their sources, and discusses the Aesopic fable in the Middle Ages. 65 woodcuts. $9.00

THE MLA FACULTY EXCHANGE

New Regulations

Each year more chairmen and more candidates register to use the MLA Faculty Exchange. It is distressing to have to report that individuals have signed into the Faculty Exchange file room under assumed names—using the names of chairmen of departments which later reported they had no representatives at the meeting—and that from time to time a chairman comes into the file room with as many as five assistants and monopolizes all the file boxes while other chairmen stand waiting in line. It is clear that the Faculty Exchange must provide more sets of file cards and vita sheets and try to streamline its operation as much as possible. It is equally clear that departments must cooperate by not misusing the service and by helping to support it.

Against this background, the MLA Executive Council voted at its April meeting that the services of the Faculty Exchange and Vacancy Lists be restricted to members of the MLA and Association of Departments of English and that a schedule of fees be inaugurated both for chairmen and candidates that would more nearly support the cost of the service. To implement these directives, the following actions have been taken: 1. A letter has been sent to every dean of a liberal arts college asking him to pay $20 towards the support of the Foreign Language Vacancy List and the Foreign Language Faculty Exchange operation at the Annual Meeting. At the same time the Dean was asked to list the names of those Foreign Language department chairmen who would be entitled to make use of the file room at the MLA meeting.

2. The use of the English Vacancy Lists and English file room will be restricted to ADE members; ADE has likewise raised its dues to $20.

3. ADE members and Foreign Language chairmen listed by their deans will be sent vacancy-list forms for each edition of the lists, and they will automatically be sent copies of each published list for use by their departments. They will be sent, in advance of the MLA meeting, identifications which will admit them to the file room. These identifications may be transferred to other departmental representatives, but no one will be permitted to enter the file room without identification. (Provision will be made for representatives of departments which have not joined to pay $20 at the meeting for use of the file room and/or membership in ADE.)

4. Candidates will be charged $5 to register for the Faculty Exchange. For this payment, they will receive all three editions of the vacancy list issued that academic year and the privilege of making use of the Exchange facilities at the Annual Meeting.

5. We urge emphatically that chairmen list their vacancies in the Vacancy Lists and make as many appointments for interviews as possible before coming to the meeting. Even more emphatically we urge that they conduct interviews in their hotel rooms. The interview areas can, by the very nature of the hectic three-day meeting, never be made satisfactory. Caveat utori!

6. By identifying users of the Faculty Exchange, regularizing its procedures, and generating financial support for it, we hope to be able to move its operations onto the computer and Xerox, and perhaps eventually to a year-round service. Detailed information will go out with the invitation to the Annual Meeting. Information and vacancy-list forms may be secured from Stephen O. Mitchell, MLA Assistant Executive Secretary, 62 Fifth Ave., New York 10011.

PREPARATION OF INSTRUCTIONAL MATERIALS IN "NEGLECTED" LANGUAGES. At the present time the following projects are under way to make available a variety of teaching materials for languages not commonly taught in American education. All listed projects are funded by Title VI of the NDEA. (Information includes name of language, type of teaching materials, name of responsible person, expected date of completion). Dyula (spoken in the northern part of the Ivory Coast of Africa), basic course, Carleton Hodge (Indiana), May 1968; Foochow (dialect of Chinese with over 10 million speakers), English-Foochow dictionary, Leo Chen (San Francisco State Coll.), November 1967; Sara Gambi (spoken in Republic of Chad, Africa), basic course, Carleton Hodge (Indiana), April 1968; Ewe (spoken in Togo, Dahomey, and Ghana), basic course, Carleton Hodge (Indiana), April 1968; Tunisian Arabic, basic course, Carleton Hodge (Indiana), April 1968; Cakchiquel (Mayan Indian dialect of Guatemala), basic course, Robert W. Blair (Brigham Young), November 1967; Modern Greek, basic course, James R. Frith (Foreign Service Inst.), June 1968; Cebuano (a Bisayan dialect of the Philippines), card file to comprise basis for a Cebuano-English dictionary, John Wolff (Cornell), December 1967; Chinese, pre-college Chinese language text on Chinese culture, teacher's handbook, college-level culture text, Kai-Yu Hsu (San Francisco State Coll.), March 1968; Susu (spoken in Guinea, Africa), basic and intermediate course, Carleton Hodge (Indiana), February 1968; Chinese, English-Chinese dictionary for high school students, Fred F. Wang (Seton Hall), December 1967; Javanese (spoken by 50 million residents of Java), Javanese-English dictionary, Karl Teeter and Elinor C. Horne (Harvard), January 1968; Albanian, expanded and improved pattern drills, Kostas Kazazis (Chicago), October 1968; Hungarian, reference grammar, John Lotz (Center for Applied Linguistics), November 1967; Nepali, conversation manual, Franklin Southworth (Pennsylvania), November 1967; Hungarian, graded reader, James R. Frith (Foreign Service Inst.), June 1968; Hindi, a dictionary of verbs, Kali C. Bahl (Chicago), March 1968; Modern Hebrew, readers for advanced students, Menahem Mansoor (Wisconsin), May 1968; Tamil (Dravidian language of Madras and Ceylon), A. K. Ramanujan (Chicago), December 1967; Swahili, reference grammar, Lyndon Harries (Wisconsin), December 1967; Cantonese, basic course, Elizabeth Mirsky (Foreign Service Inst.), December 1967; Thai, intermediate and advanced readers, Robert B. Jones, Jr. (Cornell), April 1968.

 O who wouldn't hie to Dawlish Fair,
O who wouldn't stop in a meadow,
And who wouldn't rumple the daisies there,
With an Odyssey Book for a fellow?

OEDIPUS: Myth and Drama

Martin Kallich, Andrew MacLeish, and Gertrude Schoenbohm,
University of Northern Illinois

Original in concept and wide-ranging in content, this colligation of three Oedipus plays—Sophocles' Oedipus Tyrannus, translated by R. C. Jebb; Oedipus, by John Dryden and Nathaniel Lee; and Hugo von Hofmannstahl's Oedipus and the Sphinx, in an original translation by Professor Schoenbohm—is set in a matrix of critical articles by Aristotle, Dryden, Gilbert Murray, and C. M. Bowra, among others, and anthropological and psychological studies by such authorities as Freud, Jung, Sir James Fraser, and Clyde Kluckhohn. Paperbound Fall

BEOWULF and Other Old English Poems

Ed. and Trans. by Constance B. Hieatt, St. John's University with an introduction by A. Kent Hieatt, Columbia University

An unusually successful prose translation in literate modern idiom with an illuminating introductory essay, this new edition of Beowulf also contains translations of The Battle of Brunanburh, The Battle of Malden, Judith, The Dream of the Rood, Deor, The Wanderer, and (in a verse translation by Ezra Pound) The Seafarer. A short section of the original Beowulf with a phonetic transcription is included in the apparatus, along with genealogical tables and a brief bibliography. Paperbound $1.25

Primeras Lecturas: Una Historia Incompleta

Carlos G. del Prado and Juan A. Calvo, Michigan State University

This widely-adopted elementary reader is being used as early as the middle of the first semester of college Spanish. The reading is graded with respect to vocabulary, idioms, and verb tenses. The subject matter of the thirty chapters pertains to both daily life and culture. Numerous exercises follow each unit. The five review lessons provide different kinds of testing, including strong emphasis on cognates. Paperbound $1.75

Anthologie

Edited by Alexander D. Gibson et al., Phillips Academy, Andover

The entire book is in French—text, footnotes and exercises. The twenty-four selections are the works of such authors as Collette, Maurois, Maupassant, and Camus. Low-frequency words are footnoted with either a synonym or a brief definition. Paperbound $2.25

INCOME TAX DEDUCTIONS FOR FURTHER EDUCATION. The Internal Revenue Service on 2 May published regulations in the Federal Register establishing the principle that once a person is in the mainstream of his profession, expenses for further education related to his profession are deductible. The new regulations will mean that teachers who have satisfied a state's minimum education requirements for employment will be able to deduct the expenses of additional education courses, and that teachers who take courses that may enable them to become school principals or superintendents also will be entitled to tax deductions for the additional education expenses. In all cases, however, the education must be related to the individual's profession. For example, an engineer who goes to night school to study law would not be able to deduct the law school expenses—even if his employer required him to obtain such a degree—because the law degree would qualify him for a new trade or business. (From Higher Education and National Affairs, Vol. xvi, No. 17.)

FL TESTING. Under an NDEA Title VI research contract with the Modern Language Association, F. André Paquette (ACTFL Executive Secretary) is directing the preparation of three handbooks: (1) a handbook on the MLA FL Proficiency Tests for Teachers and Advanced Students—their nature, use, and limitations; (2) a handbook on placement in foreign languages in colleges and universities—guidelines, case studies, and recommendations; (3) a handbook on classroom testing for teachers of French, German, Italian, Russian, and Spanish—a guide to the construction and use of foreign language tests. A report will be made on the validation of the MLA Proficiency Tests as a result of test administration to 300 native speakers of each language. The Advisory Committee for these projects includes James E. Alatis (Georgetown), Don R. Iodice (Oakland), Albert Jekenta (Beverly Hills Unified School District), Albert H. Marckwardt (Princeton), Sanford Newell (Converse Coll.), Sol Saporta (Washington), and Irving Wershow (Florida).

JOHN SIMON GUGGENHEIM MEMORIAL FOUNDATION FELLOWSHIPS. The following 43 MLA members were among the recipients of the 1967 awards: Wallace L. NEWBERRY LIBRARY AWARDS. The following MLA members were among the recipients for 1967-68: Sharon Cadman (Columbia), Leon Howard (California, Los Angeles), M. M. Liberman (Grinnell Coll.), Sheldon Zitner (Grinnell Coll.).

THE LITERATURE OF ENGLAND

An Anthology and a History
 Revised Single Volume Edition

GEORGE K. ANDERSON, Brown University
 WILLIAM E. BUCKLER, New York University

Revised and updated in light of changes made in the two-volume Fifth Edition. The Revised Single Volume Edition follows the double-column format and comprehensive illustration program of the First Edition; beyond this, however, important changes have been made. Chapter introductions, author and selection headnotes, and footnotes have benefited from thorough evaluation. Fresher and more teachable selections are included, and 80 pages of entirely new selections have been added. 1376 pages, illus., $11.25

NINETEENTH-CENTURY BRITISH DRAMA

An Anthology of Representative Plays

LEONARD R. N. ASHLEY, Brooklyn College

Chronological arrangement of twelve full-length and three short plays is combined with the establishment of contrasts and parallels among the plays to provide an accurate picture of theatre in England between Sheridan and Shaw. Shown against the background of the authors' careers, the plays indicate the development of the drama, changing stage conditions, tides of taste, the decline of poetic drama and the rise of realism, and the growth of the new drama of ideas out of the old melodramas. 704 pages, softbound, $5.00

THE DISCOVERY OF FICTION

THOMAS E. SANDERS, Miami-Dade Junior College

Fiction's dependence on poetry through its utilization of the structure and literary components of the poetry out of which it grew is explicated in this second volume in the Discovery of Literature Series. The book proceeds from simple narrative through description, character, and dialogue and also gives attention to critical theories. 672 pages, softbound, prob. $2.75

THE ACHIEVEMENT OF BROTHER ANTONINUS

WILLIAM E. STAFFORD, Lewis and Clark College

The third volume in the Modern Poets Series focuses on the man generally recognized as a foremost spokesman for the San Francisco Group of writers. Presenting in developmental sequence a generous selection from the work of Brother Antoninus (William Everson) and prefacing that work with the poet's secular and religious background, the book depicts Brother Antoninus as a manifestation of the alienation prevalent in contemporary culture and reflected in its literature. 96 pages, softbound, $1.40

THE INTELLECTUAL TRADITION OF THE WEST

Readings in the History of Ideas
 Volumes One and Two

MORTON DONNER, KENNETH E. EBLE, ROBERT E. HELBLING, all of the University of Utah

Three major themes of Freedom Versus Determinism, Reason Versus Faith, and Fact Versus Value are emphasized in this anthology of basic readings from the Greeks to the present day. The book features substantial excerpts from primary texts and includes writings by Hesiod, pre-Socratic philosophers, Philo Judaeus, early Italian poets; Machiavelli's "Discourses"; and unusual selections of Kant, Hegel, Marx, Engels, and Sartre. 672 pages each, softbound, prob. $4.50 each (Volume Two ready January 1968)

A PRACTICAL APPROACH TO WRITING

JIM FIFE, University of Utah

WILLIAM CARSTENS, Sandia Corporation

Presenting a simplified, functional approach to those fundamentals needed to put sentences together effectively, the text stresses such general problems as organization, diction, style, dangling modifiers, parallelism, pronoun reference, and punctuation. Exercises follow each of the first six chapters, and the two final chapters provide a glossary of grammatical terms and some useful writing assignments. 176 pages, softbound, $2.25

A New Anthology of SPANISH LITERATURE

IN TWO VOLUMES

Edited by RICHARD E. CHANDLER and KESSEL SCHWARTZ

This anthology is edited by the same men who wrote A New History of Spanish Literature, which is familiar to most teachers of advanced college courses in Spanish.

The Anthology provides generous samplings from representative works of all periods and genres, with emphasis on works of the twentieth century. Its arrangement parallels that of the History; that is, the generic approach has been followed. The selections in each volume are grouped under the following genres: Epic and Narrative Poetry, Drama, Prose, Fiction, Lyric Poetry, Nonfiction Prose. Volume one concludes with the end of the Golden Age; volume two continues to the present.

Where excerpts have been taken from a long work, the editors have provided plot summaries so that the reader may see the excerpt in relation to the whole. Few of the texts have been simplified, but extensive notes are provided in English.

HEATH'S
COLLEGE
HANDBOOK OF COMPOSITION
Seventh Edition

Langdon Elsbree
Claremont College

and

Frederick Bracher
Pomona College

Virtually two handbooks in one, this new volume makes an uncommonly substantial choice either as a required freshman text or as a tool for independent reference.

The First Part of the HANDBOOK, termed Rhetoric, develops in logical sequence the steps in preparing a composition. Focus is on the student's need to sharpen and adjust his writing techniques to a live concern for an issue, addressed to a live audience of readers. Appropriately featured in the unit is a new chapter on logic.

The Second Part, termed Handbook, groups together for easy reference, the correct (preferred, or conventional) forms in grammatical usage and mechanics. Introducing this second part is a unique new chapter, "The Development of American English."

Other Special Features of the Edition Include:

- Examples and illustrative passages, and explanations throughout based on positive examples from literary sources and common errors in student writing
- Two-color printing functionally used to aid in reference through correction symbols, unit numbers, and topic titles
- A correction symbol index
- A colored margin-index, in the manner of a thumb index, for rapid cross-reference
