

Corrigendum

The Impact of Assisted Hatching on Monozygotic Twinning is Related to Female Age and Insemination Method: A New Perspective – CORRIGENDUM

Chengjun Liu^{1,2}, Ketong Su³, Gensheng Liu⁴, Wei Shang⁵, Xuefang Wang³, Chunjin Li², Lu Chen² and Xu Zhou²

¹Beijing Key Laboratory of Dairy Cattle Genetic, Breeding and Reproduction, Key Laboratory of Dairy Cattle Genetic, Breeding and Reproduction, Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Affairs, Beijing Dairy Cattle Center, Beijing, China, ²College of Animal Sciences, Jilin University, Changchun, China, ³Reproductive Medical Center, Zhanjiang Jiuhe Hospital, Zhanjiang, China and ⁴Reproductive Medical Center, Tianjin IVF Hospital, Tianjin, China and ⁵Reproductive Medical Center, The Sixth Medical Center of PLA General Hospital, Beijing, China

DOI: <https://doi.org/10.1017/thg.2022.27>. Published by Cambridge University Press on 29 September 2022.

In the above article two authors – Chunjin Li and Lu Chen – have both been wrongly listed under affiliation number 1, ‘Beijing Key Laboratories of Dairy Cattle Genetic, Breeding and Reproduction’. The correct affiliation for Chunjin Li and Lu Chen is number 2 – ‘College of Animal Sciences, Jilin University, Changchun, China’. The PDF and HTML have already been updated.

The authors apologize for the mistake.

Reference:

Liu, C., Su, K., Liu, G., Shang, W., Wang, X., Li, C., . . . Zhou, X. (2022). The Impact of Assisted Hatching on Monozygotic Twinning is Related to Female Age and Insemination Method: A New Perspective. Twin Research and Human Genetics, 25(4-5), 202–205. doi: 10.1017/thg.2022.27