

THE POWER OF THE PEOPLE

Everyday Resistance and Dissent in the Making of Modern Turkey, 1923-38

MURAT METINSOY, ISTANBUL UNIVERSITY

“Metinsoy has produced here a fascinating account of popular politics in the new Turkish republic, writing ‘ordinary people’, in all their individual and collective complexity, back in to the centre of the national narrative. Highly original, it will transform scholarly understanding of early Kemalist Turkey.”

Stephanie Cronin, University of Oxford

“Metinsoy challenges the top-down narratives of early Turkish Republic state imposition and acquiescence from its ‘hapless’ populace. Tax evasion, smuggling, banditry, and public complaint from the village coffeehouse to the factory floor weave a rich tapestry of everyday resistance, providing a superb alla Turca sequel to James Scott’s classic work.”

Michael Wuthrich, University of Kansas

New Perspectives on Turkey is a peer-reviewed social science journal published biannually. The aim of the journal is to provide an intellectual platform for scholarly debates and ideas relating to the history, politics, society, economy and culture of Turkey and the Ottoman Empire. In addition to research directly concerned with Turkey and the Ottoman Empire, comparative perspectives and theoretical contributions relevant to such research are also actively solicited. The variety of material in the past issues - ranging from Ottoman history to contemporary politics, from sociological inquiries to economic analysis, and from general theoretical concerns to interventions in specific debates - reflects the diversity of the journal's area of interests. New Perspectives on Turkey publishes articles, book reviews, review articles, commentaries, interviews and reports on conferences. Each submission goes through a double blind review process. New Perspectives on Turkey's policy is that published articles make original and strong theoretical and/or empirical contributions in their scholarly fields.
