

Tables

3.1	Legislative actions in the 103rd, 105th, 108th, 110th, and 113th Congresses	page 55
3.2	Correlations between reputations for advocacy of disadvantaged groups	62
3.3	Correlation between reputations for advocacy of disadvantaged groups and sponsorship and cosponsorship activity in the US House and Senate	69
4.1	Summary of estimates for district feeling thermometer ratings by group	82
4.2	Correlations between district group size and group ambient temperature by disadvantaged group	84
4.3	Group size, ambient temperature, and member reputation for advocacy for veterans and seniors	91
4.4	Group size, ambient temperature, and member reputation for advocacy for racial/ethnic minorities and the LGBTQ community	94
4.5	Group size, ambient temperature, and member reputation for advocacy for immigrants and the poor	98
4.6	Group size, ambient temperature, and member reputation for advocacy for women	101
4.7	Combined effects of group size and ambient temperature on member reputation for advocacy for veterans, seniors, LGBTQ individuals, and racial/ethnic minorities	103
4.8	Combined effects of group size and ambient temperature on member reputation for advocacy for women, immigrants, and the poor	106

4.9	Number of members serving as advocates of disadvantaged groups across descriptive and nondescriptive representatives	110
4.10	Descriptive representatives and member reputation for advocacy for veterans, LGBTQ individuals, and racial/ethnic minorities	111
4.11	Descriptive representatives and member reputation for advocacy for women, immigrants, and the poor	114
5.1	Summary of estimates for state feeling thermometer ratings by group	127
5.2	Number of senators with reputations as advocates for disadvantaged groups in the 103rd, 105th, 108th, 110th, and 113th Congress	128
5.3	Group size, ambient temperature, and member reputation for advocacy for veterans and seniors	130
5.4	Group size, ambient temperature, and member reputation for advocacy for racial/ethnic minorities and the LGBTQ community	133
5.5	Group size, ambient temperature, and member reputation for advocacy for immigrants and the poor	137
5.6	Group size, ambient temperature, and member reputation for advocacy for women	140
5.7	Institutional, electoral, and constituency effects on member reputation for advocacy for veterans and seniors	147
5.8	Institutional, electoral, and constituency effects on member reputation for advocacy for racial/ethnic minorities and the LGBTQ community	149
5.9	Institutional, electoral, and constituency effects on reputation for advocacy for immigrants and the poor	152
5.10	Institutional, electoral, and constituency effects on member reputation for advocacy for women	155
5.11	Number of members serving as advocates of disadvantaged groups across descriptive and nondescriptive representatives	159
5.12	Descriptive representatives and senator reputation for advocacy	162
6.1	Committee membership and the percentage of bills cosponsored across disadvantaged groups in the House	186
6.2	Committee membership and the percentage of bills sponsored across disadvantaged groups in the House	189
6.3	Committee membership and the percentage of bills cosponsored across disadvantaged groups in the Senate	193

6.4	Committee membership and the percentage of bills sponsored across disadvantaged groups in the Senate	196
6.5	Committee membership and the percentage of bills cosponsored across disadvantaged groups in the House	203
6.6	Committee membership and the percentage of bills sponsored across disadvantaged groups in the House	206
6.7	Committee membership and the percentage of bills cosponsored across disadvantaged groups in the Senate	210
6.8	Committee membership and the percentage of bills sponsored across disadvantaged groups in the Senate	212