Editor's Note

This issue of the Journal of the International Phonetic Association contains a corrected reprint of “Palatogram reading as a phonetic skill: a short tutorial” by Dani Byrd. Due to printing errors, the version of this paper which appeared in JIPA 23 (2) contained two figures in which all meaningful information was missing, including the entire example sentence which was intended to serve as the target of the exercise for readers. The Editor apologizes very deeply to Dr. Byrd and all JIPA readers for these errors. The present issue contains the entire paper, with the corrected figures so that they may be consulted in the context of the complete tutorial discussion. The Editor requests that all future bibliographic references to Dr. Byrd’s contribution refer to this present version.
