

News and Notes

---

Activities

---

James David Barber, James Duke Professor of Political Science at Duke University, presented the ninth annual Daniel M. Berman Lecture on April 10 at American University. His topic was "The Pulse of Politics: Electing Presidents in a Media Age."

Peter Berton, the editor of Studies in Comparative Communism, published by the School of International Relations, University of Southern California, reports the receipt of a three-year grant from the Volkswagen Foundation for the support of Studies in Comparative Communism, An International Interdisciplinary Journal.

Susan C. Bourque, Smith College, and Kay B. Warren, Mt. Holyoke College, have been awarded the Alice and Edith Hamilton Prize for their book, Women of the Andes, given by the Rackham Graduate School of the University of Michigan.

Elliott A. Brown, professional staff member of the U.S. House of Representatives Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control, returned last August from a fact-finding mission on international narcotics trafficking in Hong Kong, Thailand, Sri Lanka, Pakistan, and the Soviet Union. During the fall of 1979, he also served as adjunct professor of government and public administration at The American University.

Roger H. Davidson has assumed the post of Senior Specialist in American National Government and Public Administration at the Congressional Research Service, U.S. Library of Congress.

Karl W. Deutsch, Stanfield Professor of International Peace, Harvard University, and director of the International Institute for Comparative Social Research at the Science-Center Berlin, Germany, presented a paper on "Crises and Transformations of the State: Past, Present, and Future" at the First International Congress on the Theory and Practice of the State" in Mexico City on April 11, 1980. He was also awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters by the University of Pittsburgh on March 12, 1980, and received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws from Northwestern University at Evanston, Illinois, on June 14, 1980.

James C. Dick, professor, Wayne State University, received one of five Faculty Distinguished Achievement Awards for Scholarly Accomplishment in 1979 by the Board of Governors.

Donald W. Flaherty, professor of political science, Dickinson College, will be on sabbatical in Taiwan during 1980-81.

Philip Green, Smith College, has received a Rockefeller Foundation Humanities Fellowship for his project on "Political Equality: Toward the Ideals of a Self-Governing Community."

Donald L. Horowitz, Smithsonian Institution, has been awarded a Guggenheim fellowship for a study of ethnic violence in Asia and Africa.

David Jickling, retired U.S. foreign aid officer, will direct a study program in comparative local government this fall in the Netherlands for the International Union of Local Authorities.

Yung-hwan Jo, Arizona State University, received a Fulbright Award, 1980-81, for research/lecture at Keio University and Tsukuba National University, Tokyo, Japan. He was also given the privilege of conducting research (September-October) in Hong Kong, Taiwan and Korea concerning the Pacific Basin.

Scott D. Johnson has recently delivered a paper, "Comparative Patterns and Political Socialization: The Middle East and Japan" at the International Cultural Society of Korea.

Max M. Kampelman, political scientist, attorney and chairman of the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars, was appointed by President Carter to be co-chairman of the United States delegation to the review meeting of the Conference on Security and Cooperation in Europe, to be held in Madrid later this year.

Robert J. Lieber, University of California, Davis, has received a fellowship from the International Security Studies Program of the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars, Smithsonian Institution, Washington, D.C. He will be on leave there in 1980-81 in order to write a book on "Energy and the Troubled Partnership: Alliance Consequences of the Energy Crisis." In addition, during the summer of 1980 and 1981 he will be a Guest Scholar with the Foreign Policy Studies Program of the Brookings Institution.

Roy E. Miller, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale, received an SIU-C mini-sabbatical grant during the spring semester, 1980, to investigate the potential teaching and research applications in political science for micro-processor driven videotape and videodisc systems.

Kent F. Moors, Andrew Mellon Foundation Faculty Fellow, Department of Political Science, Tulane University, delivered a series of papers on issues in classical and modern political philosophy during a recent lecture tour in England, including the Machette Foundation Lecture at the University of Manchester, and presentations at The London School of Economics, the University of Southampton, and the University College of Swansea, Wales. He has also completed a book entitled Myth and Plato's Republic under an Earhart Foundation Research Fellowship.

Robert Nilsson, professor of political science, Dickinson College, will be director of Dickinson's Center for European Studies, Bologna, Italy, 1980-82.

Felix Oppenheim, professor, Department of Political Science, University of Massachusetts/Amherst, participated in a workshop on the concept of liberty organized by the European Consortium for Political Research, held in Florence, Italy on March 25-29, 1980.

Robert L. Rau, United States Naval Academy, received a Fulbright-Hays Grant for "The ASEAN Short-Term Study Project" for the summer of 1980. Travel and study in Indonesia, Singapore, Malaysia, Thailand, and the Philippines will begin in June 1980.

Stanley Rothman, Smith College, has been awarded grants from the Harry Frank Guggenheim Foundation, the Institute for Educational Affairs, and the Alcoa Foundation for his study of American elites.

Wilma Rule, former professor at Northern Illinois University and Grand Valley State College, Michigan, has been awarded the 1980 prize for the best paper on women and politics by the Western Political Science Association. Her paper, "Why Women Don't Run: The Critical Contextual Factors in Women's Legislative Recruitment," will be published in a special edition on women and politics of the Western Political Quarterly next year. The prize carries a $100 award.

John R. Schmidhauser, University of Southern California, will be on sabbatical leave and received a grant from Project '87 for the academic year 1980-81. In March he was elected Vice President of the Western Political Science Association for 1980-81 and President-Elect for 1981-82.

Howard Stoffer, a political scientist from Columbia University, has been sworn in as a United States Foreign Service officer. He is scheduled to serve in Oslo, Norway, as a consular officer.

Richard Sylves, an assistant professor of political science at the University of Delaware, has been awarded a National Science Foundation grant to complete four computer-based PLATO public policy simulations to supplement instruction in undergraduate and graduate public policy and public administration courses. The 15-month project will give special emphasis to development of a data-based simulation of environmental grants administration.

---

New Appointments

---

Philip Akre, instructor in political science, Dickinson College.

John R. Alford, Oakland University; formerly of University of Iowa.

Stephen K. Bailey has been appointed the Francis Keppel Professorship in Educational Policy and Administration at the Harvard Graduate School of Education. Professor Bailey continues to direct the H.G.S.E. Programs in Administration, Planning, and Social Policy.

Janet K. Boles, assistant professor, Marquette University.

Archibald H. Brown, visiting professor, Yale University.

William Chaloupka, assistant professor, University of New Mexico, Albuquerque.

Michael Delli Carpini, assistant professor, Rutgers University.

Lawrence C. Dodd, professor, Indiana University.

Janet Dougherty, assistant professor, Stonehill College.

John Dryzek, assistant professor, Ohio State University.

Harry Eckstein, professor, University of California, Irvine; formerly IBM Professor of International Studies, Princeton University.

James Farr, assistant professor, Ohio State University.

Stuart C. Gilman, assistant professor, St. Louis University; formerly of the University of Richmond.

Paul Glover, assistant professor, Loyola University of Chicago.

Russell L. Hanson, lecturer, Indiana University.

Christine Harrington, assistant professor, Rutgers University.

Eugene Hickok, instructor of political science, Dickinson College; formerly associate director, Stennis Institute of Government, Mississippi State University.

Judson L. James will be a policy analyst at the Department of Housing and Urban Development; formerly of Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

David C. Johnston, lecturer, Yale University.

Robert A. Lorinskas, associate professor in the Center for the Study of Crime, Delinquency and Corrections, Southern Illinois University; formerly associate professor of political science and director of the Criminal Justice Program, University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh.

Donald S. Macdonald, professor of political science at East Stroudsburg State College since 1971, will return to the U.S. Department of

News and Notes

State at the end of the spring 1980 term. He will be special assistant to the Deputy Director of Intelligence and Research.

Albert P. Melone, associate professor, Southern Illinois University at Carbondale; formerly of North Dakota State University.

Kevin J. Middlebrook, lecturer, Indiana University.

Kent F. Moors, assistant professor, Duquesne University; formerly of Tulane University.

Jerry Perkins, associate professor, Texas Tech University; formerly of Georgia State University.

Arthur Rachwald, assistant professor, United States Naval Academy; formerly of the University of California at Santa Barbara.

Bruce Ransom, assistant professor, Rutgers University.

C. Rich, associate professor of political science and director of the M.P.A. program, Wayne State University; formerly of Columbia University.

Jean Robinson, assistant professor, Indiana University, and Director, Women's Studies Program.

Ralph Rossum, associate professor, Loyola University of Chicago.

Roslyn Simowitz, assistant professor, Texas Tech University; formerly of Vanderbilt University.

Rogers M. Smith, lecturer, Yale University.

Freda F. Solomon, instructor, Denison University.

Jules Steinberg will be chairperson of Denison University's Political Science Department beginning July 1980.

David Strand, assistant professor of political science, Dickinson College; formerly research associate, University of California, Berkeley.

Sharon T. Thomas, Oakland University; formerly of University of Houston.

Charles L. Usher, policy analyst, Center for the Study of Social Behavior, Research Triangle Institute; formerly of the University of North Carolina at Charlotte.

Elizabeth Warren, assistant professor and Director of the Public Affairs Program, Loyola University of Chicago.

Gerald C. Wright, Jr., associate professor, Indiana University, and Director, Data Archive and Laboratory (September 1981).

Samuel Beer, visiting professor, Rutgers University (1981).

Emmett H. Buell, Jr., Denison University, is visiting associate professor at Reed College for 1980-81.

Peter Chen, professor, Wayne State University, to the East-West Center of the University of Hawaii for winter, 1980.

Thomas W. Church, Jr., director, London Office, Vera Institute of Justice, 1980-81; on leave from Oakland University.

Alex N. Dragnich, Hoover Institution, was a visiting professor at the University of Georgia, Athens, during the spring quarter.

Eytan Gilboa, visiting professor of government, Georgetown University; on leave from the Hebrew University of Jerusalem.

Ted G. Jellen, visiting assistant professor, 1980-81, University of Kentucky.

William O. Jenkins, professor, Wayne State University, a visiting faculty fellow at General Accounting Office, Washington, D.C. for 1979-80 and 1980-81.

James M. Lutz, visiting assistant professor, 1980-81, University of Kentucky.

Robert L. Savage, University of Arkansas, awarded an off-campus duty assignment for spring, 1981, will be visiting as adjunct professor at the University of Tennessee-Knoxville. While there he will be conducting research on regional politics in Tennessee.

Steven A. Shull, associate professor of political science, University of New Orleans, will be teaching this summer at the University of Innsbruck (Austria). He will be on sabbatical leave in the fall.

Jack L. Walker, professor, University of Michigan, will be in residence during the 1980-81 academic year at the Woodrow Wilson Center for Scholars in Washington, D.C. His stay is made possible by a Guggenheim Fellowship. He is engaged in a study of the origins and maintenance of interest groups in the American political system.

Joseph Westphal will be on leave from Oklahoma State University to join the Office of Water Research and Technology in the Department of Interior as a water research specialist during the 1980-81 academic year.

Paul Whitely, visiting lecturer, spring 1981, University of Kentucky.

Frederick Wills, visiting professor, Rutgers University.

---

Visiting and Temporary Appointments

Karen L. Beckwith, Oakland University; formerly of University of Michigan-Dearborn.

---

Administrative Appointments

David Adamary, Vice President for Academic Affairs of the University of Maryland System.

David G. Baker, chairman, Department of Political Science, Hartwick College, Oneonta, New York.

Elliott A. Brown, Special Assistant to the Chief Counsel, U.S. House of Representatives Select Committee on Narcotics Abuse and Control; formerly professional staff member.

Doris-Jean Burton, Placement Director, Indiana University.

Edward G. Carmines, Director of Graduate Studies, Indiana University.

Harold Clarke, head, Department of Political Science at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

Robert E. Cleary, dean, College of Public and International Affairs, effective July 1980, American University.

Bryant L. Cureton, academic dean and vice president, Hartwick College, Oneonta, New York.

Norman Furniss, Chairperson, West European Studies Program, Indiana University.

Milton Greenberg, Vice President for Academic Affairs and Dean of Faculties at Roosevelt University, has been named Provost/Vice President for Academic Affairs at The American University. Greenberg will become the University's Chief Administrative Officer in July and will also hold a faculty position as professor in the School of Government and Public Administration.

Charles F. Hermann, director, Mershon Center, Ohio State University.

Marjorie R. Hershey, Director of Undergraduate Studies, Indiana University.

Dorothy B. James, Dean of the School of Government and Public Administration at The American University; formerly of Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, head, Department of Political Science.

John R. Johannes, Chairman, Department of Political Science, Marquette University.

James H. Kuklinski, interim director, Data Archive and Laboratory, Indiana University.

William S. Livingston, Vice President and Dean of Graduate Studies, University of Texas at Austin.

Charles Lockhart, Chairperson, Department of Political Science, Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, Texas.

Roger H. Marz, Director of Public Administration Programs, Oakland University.

Ellen Proeper Mickiewicz, Dean of the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences at Emory University.

Elinor Ostrom, chairperson, Department of Political Science, Indiana University-Bloomington.

Stephen Salmore, New Brunswick chairman and graduate director, Rutgers University.

Steven R. Schlesinger, Acting Chairman, Department of Politics, Catholic University.

Sheldon Simon of Arizona State University has been appointed director of the University's Center for Asian Studies.

John Clayton Thomas, Director, Graduate Program in Public Affairs and Administration, Texas Christian University, Fort Worth, Texas.

George O. Totten III, chair, Department of Political Science, University of Southern California, 1980-83.

Maurice C. Woodard, professor and chairman, Department of Public Administration, Howard University.

---

Promotions

---

Martha Ackelsberg, associate professor, Smith College.

L. Jerold Adams, associate professor, Central Missouri State University.

Michael A. Baer, professor, University of Kentucky.

Harry Balfe, associate professor, Montclair State College.

Edward G. Carmines, associate professor, Indiana University.

David L. Carr, associate professor, SUNY College of Technology.

Thomas W. Church, Jr., associate professor, Oakland University.

Robert Darcy, associate professor with tenure in the Departments of Political Science and Statistics, Oklahoma State University.

Gerald A. Dorfman, full professor, Iowa State University.

John A. Fitzgerald, full professor, United States Naval Academy.

George Friedman, associate professor, Dickinson College.

Raymond Habiby, professor, Oklahoma State University.

Robert W. Jackman, professor, Michigan State University.

Edmond Keller, associate professor, Indiana University.

Donald R. Kinder, associate professor, Yale University.

James H. Kuklinski, associate professor, Indiana University.

James Lawler, professor, Oklahoma State University.

Richard Mansbach, professor, Rutgers University.

George E. Marcus, professor, Williams College.

Daniel N. Nelson, associate professor, University of Kentucky.

Thomas Ostrowski, associate professor, Gannon University.

Alan Rosenthal, professor II, Rutgers University.

Richard H. Rosswurm, full professor, Marshall University.

Harold V. Sare, professor, Oklahoma State University.

Ronald Sarner, associate professor, SUNY College of Technology.

Thomas O. Schlesinger, professor, Plymouth State College.

William Franklin Smith, associate professor with tenure, University of Pittsburgh at Johnstown.

Robert L. Spurrier, professor, Oklahoma State University.

Donald A. Sylvan, associate professor, Ohio State University.

Chong-Soo Tai, associate professor, University of Arkansas, Pine Bluff.

John Vasquez, associate professor, Rutgers University.

James L. Waite, associate professor, Central Missouri State University.

Joseph Westphal, associate professor with tenure, Oklahoma State University.

Whitmer, J. M., Jr., associate professor, Iowa State University.

---

Retirements

---

Benjamin Baker, professor, has retired after 28 years at Rutgers University.

Frederick C. Barghoorn, professor, Yale University.

Gerald M. Pomper has retired as Chairman of Political Science to return to teaching and to assume the position of Director of the Center on Political Parties at the Eagleton Institute of Politics, Rutgers University.

---

Corrections

---

In the report in the Spring PS of the Committee on the Status of Women in the Profession on Data on Faculty and Graduate Students in Graduate Departments of Political Science, the following correct figures should be reported:

Vanderbilt University: The Department has 10 men and 5 women students in the Ph.D. program and has awarded 5 Ph.D.s to males and 2 to women in the last three years. While the Department does not have a specific M.A. program, it has awarded two M.A.s in the last three years, one to a male and one to a female. The figures in the report in the Spring PS for the Vanderbilt University Department for the Ph.D. program's number of students and awarding of degrees were inadvertently transposed with the figures for the M.A. program number of students and awarding of degrees. PS regrets the error.

University of California, Davis: The Department has 18 male and 13 female graduate students in its Ph.D. program. The figures in the report in the Spring PS for California at Davis for the number of students in its Ph.D. program were inadvertently left out. PS regrets the error.

Marshall University: The Department has 4 male professors, 3 male associate professors, and 2 male assistant professors. The Department has 21 male students and 9 female students in its M.A. program. In the last three years, it has granted 20 M.A. degrees to males and one to a woman. The information was not included in the Spring PS report.

In Memoriam

Robert G. Dixon, Jr.

Robert G. Dixon, Jr., Daniel Kirby Noyes Professor of Law at Washington University (St. Louis), died on May 5, 1980, of a heart attack while undergoing surgery. His passing is most untimely; two professions—law and political science—have lost a valuable member; many of us have also lost a very special colleague and friend.

Bob Dixon was a rare individual. He had careers first as a professor of political science (at the University of Maryland) after he obtained his Ph.D. at Syracuse University in 1947 and then, after receiving a law degree from George Washington University (in 1956), as a law professor—first at George Washington and then at Washington University, in addition to a career as a public servant. Although he pursued a law professor's career for the last two-dozen years of his life, he never ceased being an active and contributing political scientist. His book, Democratic Representation: Reapportionment in Law and Politics (1968), which was awarded the APSA Woodrow Wilson Foundation Book Award, remains the outstanding work on reapportionment, blending political theory, constitutional law, and the study of the impact of judicial decisions. Bob continued to attend political science meetings, and shortly before his death had agreed to prepare a paper for the 1980 APSA meetings—a decision which reflected his continuing interest and enthusiasm about topics like representation and constitutional law, of importance to both professions of which he was a part.

Bob also made a lasting mark in public life. As Assistant Attorney General in 1973-1974, he assisted Attorney General Eliot Richardson by