

NEW AND NOTEWORTHY FROM KODANSHA

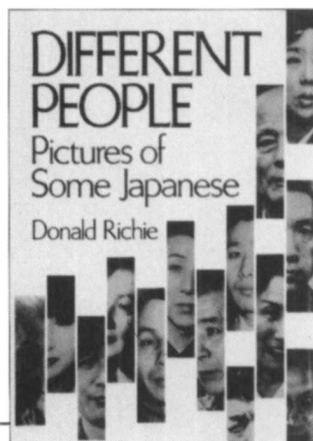

DIFFERENT PEOPLE

Pictures of Some Japanese

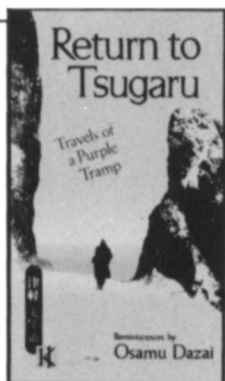

DONALD RICHIE

Styled after the Japanese genre "shasei," this extraordinary collection of one man's memories and perceptions of 48 famous and not-so-famous Japanese people include actor Toshiro Mifune, director Akira Kurosawa, writer Yukio Mishima as well as the ex-boxer turned gang-leader, the would-be geisha, and others. Donald Richie, a writer of great sensitivity, paints each portrait with flair and intimacy, creating a remarkable chain of "different people."

RETURN TO TSUGARU

Travels of a Purple Tramp

OSAMU DAZAI • Translated by James Westerhoven

Osamu Daizai, perhaps the most important Japanese novelist of the postwar generation, goes back to his birthplace in search of his past and the past of his country. Reminiscent of Thoreau's Cape Cod, RETURN TO TSUGARU blends vivid descriptions of people and places with Dazai's opinions on literature, landscape and even "sake." This translation is an important contribution to our understanding of a central, but often enigmatic figure in modern Japanese literature.

FOR THE LORD OF THE ANIMALS—POEMS FROM THE TELUGU

The Kālahastīśvara Śatakamu of Dhūrjaṭi
Translated with Introduction and Notes by HANK HEIFETZ and
VELCHERU NARAYANA RAO

The Kālahastīśvara Śatakamu, a 16th-century collection of lyrics in the Telugu language, is one of the most important works of the classical poets of the Andhra region of India. In this first presentation of this literature in English translation, Heifetz and Rao combine informed scholarship and literary skill to present the voice of the poet. The lyrics are charged with deep feelings as Dhurjati deals with such issues as sensuality, death, aesthetics, politics, family life, devotionalism and mysticism. $25.00

Al-Qur'ān

A Contemporary Translation

Ahmed Ali

This English translation of the Qur'ān was first published in 1984 in Karachi, Pakistan. Ahmed Ali, the distinguished Pakistani novelist, diplomat, and poet, presents the Muslims' Holy Book in a bilingual edition. Available for the first time in paperback, the translation renders the original in a contemporary and accessible voice.

"This translation of the Qur'ān aims at doing something new—it seeks to bring out the original rhythms of the Quranic language and the cadences. It also departs from traditional translations in that it gives more refined and differentiated shades of important concepts."

India's Democracy

An Analysis of Changing State-Society Relations

Edited by Atul Kohli

How have India's democratic institutions altered while accommodating new demands for political participation and while solving serious socio-economic problems? Here nine distinguished contributors analyze state-society relations in that country.

Following a theoretical introduction by the editor, the first three essays, by Henry C. Hart, James Manor, and Stephen P. Cohen, analyze the changes in India's important political institutions. The papers by Jyotirindra Dās Gupta and Paul R. Brass focus on the relation between the state and ethnic activism. The focus in the next three essays, by Pranab Bardhan, Francine R. Frankel, and Ghanshyam Shah, shifts to the political role of social groups and to the contribution that India's important castes and classes make to the political process. The concluding essay by Atul Kohli provides an overview of the changing state-society relations in India's democracy.

A MAIN SELECTION OF THE HISTORY BOOK CLUB

KHUBILAI KHAN

His Life and Times
MORRIS ROSSABI

Living from 1215 to 1294, Khubilai Khan is one of history's most renowned figures. Rossabi draws on a variety of sources as he focuses on the life and times of the great Mongol monarch. He brings to life the man who attempted to rule the known world, a man whose reign witnessed remarkable achievements, and a man first immortalized by Marco Polo, a visitor to Khubilai's court. Khubilai constructed magnificent cities, patronized painters and playwrights, had a new written script developed, introduced Muslim astronomy and medicine to China, extended the Grand Canal of China to Peking, and promoted trade through the use of paper money and improvements in transport and communications. This biography will attract historians and students of Asia, but it will also interest those readers long curious about this intriguing figure.

THE CULT OF DRAUPADI

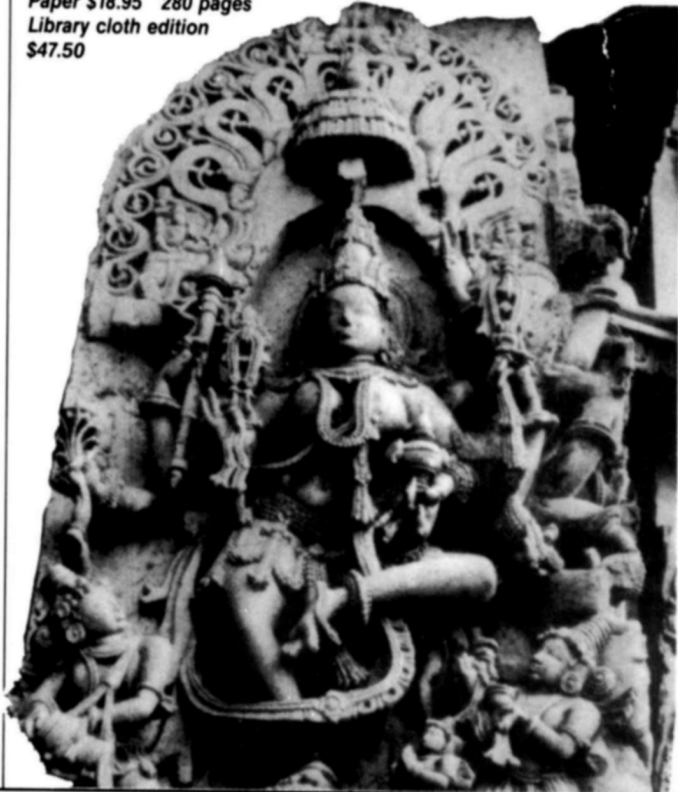

Volume 1

Mythologies: From Gingeel to Kurukṣetra

ALF HILTEBEITEL

This work, the first of a projected three-volume study, examines the mythology of the South Indian cult of Draupadi, in which the heroine of India's great epic, the Mahābhārata, is worshipped as a folk goddess. The cult is singularly representative of the inner tensions and working dynamics of popular devotional Hinduism

Our first close look at the mysterious and mighty Chinese Army

After many months of patient negotiating, John Robert Young became the first Western photo-journalist invited to document the world's largest national fighting force—the People's Liberation Army—for the purpose of producing a book. That book is The Dragon's Teeth.

Illustrated with more than 200 revealing color photographs and drawings, The Dragon's Teeth is a comprehensive and original picture documentary of the life of a modern Chinese fighter, completely researched and supported by Young's unprecedented access to Chinese military archives.

Musui's Story

The Autobiography of a Tokugawa Samurai

Katsu Kokichi

translated with introduction and notes by Teruko Craig

A series of picaresque adventures set against the backdrop of a Japan still closed off from the rest of the world, Musui's Story recounts the escapades of samurai Katsu Kokichi (1802-1850). As it depicts Katsu stealing, brawling, indulging in the pleasure quarters, and getting the better of authorities, it also provides a refreshing perspective on Japanese society, customs, economy, and human relationships.

Teruko Craig's engaging translation of Musui's Story is based on the definitive edition of Musui dokugen and is illustrated with four-color wood engravings by Ando Hiroshige.

Two Sons of Heaven

Studies in Sung-Liao Relations

Jing-shen Tao

This study of diplomatic relations between the Sung dynasty of tenth- and eleventh-century China and the Liao, invaders from Manchuria, challenges the popular belief that China always considered her neighbors as inferior barbarians in their attempt to maintain a China-centered world order.

"Without question, this is a very significant contribution to premodern East Asian history. Not only does it shed important light on Sung relations with the Liao, but also on the complexity of international diplomacy in East Asia in the dynastic epoch . . . a highly readable work of solid, original research." (Hok-lam Chan)

Women's Seclusion and Men's Honor

Sex Roles in North India, Bangladesh, and Pakistan

David G. Mandelbaum

Foreword by Gerald D. Berreman

Hindus and Muslims of northern South Asia share the belief that women should seclude themselves from men, including some kinsmen, and that men must supervise the conduct of women so that their behavior will not sully men's honor. While these concepts—purda and izzat—are well known, until now no book has attempted to explain why they are so crucially important to so many people.

This masterful synthesis of Mandelbaum's half century of research considers the traditional social roles of women and of men—and the relations between them—in these regions. Mandelbaum explores in detail differences in purda as practiced by different economic classes, as well as common and distinguishing elements of Hindu and Muslim practice.
