

Minoan Architecture—an Introduction; A. and N. H. Ramage, The Siting of Lydian Burial Mounds; E. H. Richardson, The Icon of the Heroic Warrior—a Study in Borrowing; C. C. Vermeule, Dated Monuments of Hellenistic and Graeco-Roman Popular Art in Asia Minor—Pontus through Mysia; E. Vermeule, Kadmos and the Dragon; L. Vogel, The Column of Antoninus Pius—Antiche Memorie in the Eighteenth Century; J. C. Waldbaum, A Bronze and Iron Iranian Axe in the Fogg Art Museum; S. Woodford, Cults of Heracles in Attica.

Bibliography of G. M. A. Hanfmann, Professor of Archaeology in Harvard University.

Lucilio; (8) Per l'identità di Valerio Edituo con Valerio Sorano; (9) Marco Seio Nicanore, grammatico e poeta; (10) Varrone e Levio di fronte alla metrica tradizionale della scena latina; (11) Varrone metricista; (12) Per il testo delle 'Menippee'; (13) Rileggendo 'Le Menippee'; (14) Suspiciones [notes on Varro, Sat. Men.]; (15) Simposio varroniano; (16) L'altro Catullo; (17) Introduzione a Catullo; (18) Il giudizio di Pollione su Balbo Minore; (19) L'autore della cosiddetta Laudatio Turiae; (20) Il nuovo frammento F della [Laudatio... U]xoris.

FRANCESCO DELLA CORTE: Opuscula, ii. Pp. 295. Genoa: Università, Istituto di Filologia Classica, 1972. Paper.

Reprinted papers: (1) Personaggi femminili in Plauto; (2) La commedia della fantasma; (3) Intorno alle Saturae di Ennio; (4) Catone Maggiore e i 'Libri ad Marcum filium'; (5) L'ambasceria di Cratete a Roma; (6) Et in Arcadia ego; (7) L'età di

GENNARO PERROTTA: Scritti minori, i: Cesare, Catullo, Orazio e altri saggi. Pp. 322. Rome: Edizioni dell'Ateneo, 1972. Paper, L. 6,000.

Reprinted papers: (1) Cesare scrittore; (2) Il carne 42 di Catullo; (3) Il carne 64 di Catullo e i suoi pretesi originali ellenistici; (4) Catullo, 64. 287; (5) Il carne della ianua; (6) L'elegia di Catullo ad Allio; (7) Virgilio e Arato; (8) Orazio; (9) De lapsu Susannae ii. 5, v. 19, vii. 33.

CORRIGENDUM

CN. TREMELLIUS SCROFA

In the last paragraph on p. 306 of my article in C.R. lxxxvi (1972), there is a curious error arising from my typescript; the quaestor of 142 was (as implied in what followed) not the father but the grandfather of the agronomist. I take this opportunity to point out (a) that the exact year is not quite certain and that Broughton (M.R.R. i. 472) prefers 143 (which does not affect the argument), and (b) that the quaestor's praenomen (which does slightly affect it) is given as Lucius only on the poor authority of Per. Livy liii. It remains true that the agronomist could hardly have been born before 120. But if he was born in that year, he could have been praetor in 80 and governor of Transalpine Gaul in 79, and though I regard this as unlikely (since 120 is probably too early for his birth), there is an unaccountable error in the suggestion that the lex annalis excluded his praetorship in 79; born in 106, Cicero was praetor 'suo anno' in 66. I must apologize to readers for noticing these mistakes only on publication. They do not alter the conclusions but make the argument of the paragraph hard to understand.