Spying on Americans

Political Surveillance

from Hoover

to the Huston Plan

Athan Theoharis

This book uncovers the "paper trail" of responsibility for the FBI's programs of illegal wiretaps, mail openings, break-ins, security indexes, and political espionage. It shows how top-level Washington bureaucrats interpreted memos and statements in ways that increased their power and covered their responsibility for investigations of Americans exercising their civil liberties. It shows, too, that in spite of Watergate, there have been no real changes which would prevent similar abuses in the future.

Marxism in Latin America

Revised Edition

Edited with an Introduction by

Luis Aguilar

This is a thorough revision of the only collection of primary and interpretive documents on Marxism by Latin Americans. New materials include articles by and about Allende, writings by Castro, by Teodoro Petkoff of Venezuela, and others ranging from the failure of the urban guerrilla to the "Peruvian Revolution." Includes chronologies and bibliographies. Indispensable for students and teachers.

Never Again

Learning from America's

Foreign Policy Failures

Earl C. Ravenal

This is a book about our foreign policy failures of the last twenty years, centering on Vietnam. But it is not a book about Vietnam, per se: it is a book about how a nation learns from its past.

The author sorts the current critiques of American policy in the 60s and finds all of them inadequate. He argues that only an understanding of the strategic lessons of our failures can help us redefine not only our methods, but our long-term goals, and thus avoid future Vietnams.

APSA Council Minutes

The Council of the APSA met at the Washington Hilton Hotel, Washington, D.C., May 4, 1978.

Present: Peter Bachrach, Marguerite R. Barnett, Richard A. Brody, Doris A. Graber, Erwin C. Hargrove, Leon D. Epstein, Charles O. Jones, Evron M. Kirkpatrick, Sanford A. Lakoff, Martin Landau, Charles E. Lindblom, David R. Mayhew, Sarah McCally Morehouse, Elinor Ostrom, Randall B. Ripley, Alan Rosenthal, Ellis Sandoz, Donald E. Stokes, John C. Wahlke, Dina A. Zinnes, and Betty H. Zisk.

Report of the President

President Wahlke reported briefly on attending the 1978 Western and Midwest Political Science Association meetings.

Approval of Minutes

The minutes of the January 5, 1978, Council meeting were approved without objection.

Administrative Committee Report

President Wahlke reported to the Council on the following actions taken by the Administrative Committee:

The Committee discussed the memorandum received from the Committee on the Status of Chicanos in the Profession concerning fellowships for Chicano graduate students and referred it to the Task Force on the Future of the Association for their consideration.

The Committee discussed a letter from The Reporters Committee for Freedom of the Press requesting each association involved in the Kissinger telephone tapes case to contribute $248.62 to cover non-legal expenses of the law firm. The Committee unanimously agreed that this amount should be paid by APSA.

1979 Annual Meeting Program Committee Appointments

President-Elect Epstein requested Council approval of his proposed appointments for the 1979 Program Committee. The appointments were approved without objection. (The Committee is listed in the 1978 Spring PS, p. 256.)

Report of the Task Force on the Future of the Association on Continuing Sections

Austin Ranney, Chairperson of the Task Force on the Future of the Association, presented the report of the Task Force on the issue of establishing continuing sections.

The Administrative Committee had discussed this report and unanimously agreed not to recommend establishing permanent sections, but to recommend that the Council should suggest to the Program Committee, beginning with the 1978 Annual Meeting, that it respond to sub-field interests in continuing discussions of research developments by organizing a panel on such developments in each Program section where appropriate, and particularly in Program sections that address themselves to interests expressed at the 1977 Annual Meeting.

Following extensive discussion by the Council of the issues involved, including the proposals for and against continuing sections, Stokes moved that:
