The Cambridge Ancient History

Second Edition

Volume III Part 1: The Prehistory of the Balkans; the Middle East and the Aegean World, Tenth to Eighth Centuries BC

Edited by JOHN BOARDMAN, I. E. S. EDWARDS,
N. G. L. HAMMOND and E. SOLLBERGER

Volume III Part 3: The Expansion of the Greek World, Eighth to Sixth Centuries BC

Edited by JOHN BOARDMAN and N. G. L. HAMMOND

*The complete revision and rewriting of The Cambridge Ancient History continues with the publication of Parts 1 and 3 of Volume III, which has been divided into three parts to take account of the immense amount of information that has become available since the publication in 1925 of the first edition. Part 2, and a volume of plates to accompany Volume III will be published subsequently.*

Part 1 £40.00 net

Part 3 £25.00 net

Language and Logos

Studies in Ancient Greek Philosophy presented to G. E. L. Owen

Edited by MALCOLM SCHOFIELD and
MARTHA CRAVEN NUSSBAUM

At the heart of G. E. L. Owen's work has been a preoccupation with the role of philosophical reflection on language in the metaphysics and epistemology of Plato, Aristotle and other ancient Greek thinkers. This is accordingly the general topic of this volume, written by some of Professor Owen's pupils and younger colleagues to celebrate his sixtieth birthday.

An Island Polity

The Archaeology of Exploitation in Melos

Edited by COLIN RENFREW and MALCOLM WAGSTAFF

The history of the island of Melos demonstrates the processes of early state formation, and of the integration of small-scale societies into larger political units. The contributors to this volume present accounts of the history of the island's society; of the environment; of the exploitation of its natural resources; and of the history of its trade and exchange within a wider Mediterranean setting.

THREE MAJOR WORKS now available in paperback

Art and Thought in the Hellenistic Age

The Greek World View 350–50 BC

JOHN ONIANS

Many of the basic concepts that we take for granted when discussing aesthetic or intellectual questions were formulated during the Hellenistic Age. Inspired by the researches of Aristotle and others, the Hellenistic Greeks were intensely concerned to categorize experience, to understand the physical world, the nature of society and the laws governing human perception and thought. All this is reflected in the art of the period, but by no means obviously. By arguing the co-existence of parallel manifestations in the art and thought of the period, Dr Onians has been able to shed much new light on what had hitherto seemed familiar territory. 'To those who know something of the ancient world it may well come as a revelation' – Reynold Higgins, British Book News
With 189 illustrations £3.95

The Theatre of Aristophanes

KENNETH McLEISH

Aristophanes is the first creative genius in Western stage comedy, and by common consent one of the supreme masters of his craft. Much of his stock-in-trade – physical slapstick, bawdy, tragic parody, surreal fantasy, lampoon, dazzling verbal wit – is highly familiar to a twentieth-century audience raised on Laurel and Hardy, Groucho Marx and Frankie Howerd; further removed from present day conceptions of comedy are Aristophanes' haunting lyricism, his deep religious feeling, and his passionate concern for the moral and political wellbeing of his fellow citizens. Here is a brilliant analysis of the components of Aristophanes' art, the unique performing traditions of Greek Old comedy, and the theory and evolution of the comic theatre itself. 'Leaves one satisfyingly convinced that Aristophanes is alive and well and should be living on stage' – Drama
With 9 line drawings £4.50

The Goddesses and Gods of Old Europe

Myths and Cult Images

MARIJA GIMBUTAS

New and updated edition

The long accepted view that the peoples who inhabited Southeast Europe in earliest times derived the themes underlying their art and imagery and the basic elements of their religion from the Near East has been increasingly invalidated. In this scientific breakthrough, Professor Gimbutas substantiates her important thesis of the indigenous development in 'Old Europe' of a systematic conception and pantheon of goddesses during the Upper Palaeolithic – a tradition that was carried into Neolithic times and beyond. 'Professor Gimbutas is to be congratulated on having collected such a varied and exciting body of material' – Antiquity
With 252 illustrations, 171 line drawings and 8 maps £5.95

Old Centaur from Art and Thought in the Hellenistic Age

We maintain an extensive stock of second-hand and out of print books on all aspects of the ancient world, including general and specialized histories, classical texts and translations, archaeological reports and scholarly journals, as well as books of interest to the antiquarian and book collector.

Although the primary emphasis is on Greece and Rome, we also carry significant materials on the ancient Near East, Egypt, and the Middle Ages.

Our stock also includes a large selection of books in print of interest to the Classicist and ancient historian. We are able to supply almost any in print title published in North America, as well as the books of most European publishers.

Catalogs are issued regularly, and are sent free of charge. We also issue occasional book lists on specific topics (e.g., Late Rome, Bronze Age Greece) which are sent to those who may be interested in the subject.

When requesting our catalog, please let us know if there are specific subjects of interest to you.

A Commentary on the Aristotelian Athenaion Politeia

P. J. Rhodes

'Excellent book . . . All historians of Athens will need to use this book, and the more they study it the more they will admire the consistently sound judgement of Dr Rhodes and see how hard he has laboured . . . Anyone needing to find his way through the maze of documentary problems arising from the regime of the Four Hundred and its aftermath will find in Rhodes a lynx-eyed guide.' The T.L.S. £45

Hieronimus of Cardia

Jane Hornblower

This is the first full-length study of the major political and military historian of the early Hellenistic period, when the Successors of Alexander the Great fought for, and partitioned, his empire. Hieronimus' history was used extensively by Diodorus Siculus, who wrote a 'universal history' in the Roman period. Mrs Hornblower examines Diodorus' general method of work, and his use of sources, and reconstructs the character of Hieronimus' original book and assesses its truthfulness. £18.50 Oxford Classical and Philosophical Monographs

Mausolus

Simon Hornblower

This book is a study of hellenization. It centres round the figure of Mausolus, who ruled Karia in South-western Asia Minor, as Persian satrap in the fourth century BC. His family, the Hekatomnids, were native Karians, but actively diffused Greek culture through their corner of Anatolia in the two generations before Alexander the Great. Recent archaeological finds and newly-published inscriptions are here exploited for the first time in order to bring alive this fascinating dynasty and its mixed culture, which owes much to Persia and to native Anatolian elements, as well as to Greece. Illustrated £35

Aristotle's Eudemian Ethics

Books I, II and VIII

Edited by M. J. Woods

This volume contains a translation of the three books of the Eudemian Ethics of most interest to modern philosophers, together with a philosophical commentary, the first in English on any part of this treatise. £11.50 paperback £5.95
