Analytic Theology Cluster Grants 2012

The Center for Philosophy of Religion, in partnership with the John Templeton Foundation, announces the Analytic Theology Cluster Grant program. With these grants we aim to support the formation of interdisciplinary discussion groups which will (a) bring philosophers and theologians together for regular conversation on a topic of mutual interest in or related to analytic theology, (b) provide financial resources for outside speakers to meet with the discussion group, and (c) incentivize particular outcomes that will have lasting impact in each participant's primary discipline. Each funded seminar will have two leaders – one theologian and one philosopher – and up to eight additional participants. The leaders must be faculty members; the participants may be either faculty or graduate students. Seminars must meet at least every other week for a combined total of at least 13 hours, over the course of one semester.

We will award up to five Analytic Theology Cluster Grants with a budget for each grant of up to $15,000. Seminar leaders receive (i) $2,000 each for developing the seminar syllabus, making meeting arrangements, and purchasing relevant texts, and (ii) $7,000 together for funding at least two guest speakers, texts for the participants, and other expenses (refreshments, etc.). Participants receive $500 each and seminar texts. In addition, each leader and each participant is eligible to receive an additional $1,000 if within 12 months of the end of the seminar s/he submits either (a) a paper on the seminar's topic that is accepted for publication at a peer-reviewed journal or is incorporated into a dissertation in analytic theology, or (b) a syllabus for a course in Analytic Theology that deals with the seminar's topic and will be offered at the participant's or leader's home institution within the next academic year. For further details, including sample topics, see our website: www.analytictheology.org.

To apply to be a seminar leader, please first submit a maximum 500 word letter of intent with a brief budget to analytictheology.project@gmail.com by February 15, 2012. Full proposals will be invited on a competitive basis. (Prospective seminar participants apply directly to the leaders after funding has been secured.) Awards will be announced by May 15, 2012. Questions may be addressed to Michael Rea at analytictheology.project@gmail.com.

Analytic Theology Post-Doctoral Fellowships 2012 - 2013

The Templeton Analytic Theology Post-Doctoral Fellowships, administered by the Center for Philosophy of Religion at Notre Dame, will provide up to two one-year residential fellowships for the 2012 – 2013 academic year. These fellowships allow theologians to take a funded leave of absence to be spent in residence at a major center for research on philosophy of religion or philosophical theology.

The fellowships are open to full time faculty at accredited institutions who teach in theology, religion, or divinity programs. Applicants must outline a research program that will lead to scholarly publications in analytic theology or to new programs of study at their home institution. Fellowship recipients will normally spend one academic year in residence as fellows at the Center for Philosophy of Religion at Notre Dame. In exceptional circumstances, fellows may request permission to take their residential year elsewhere but (i) applicants must request permission to do so at the time of application and (ii) preference is given to applicants who take their year at Notre Dame.

Fellows receive a stipend of $60,000 plus $15,000 for relocation and research expenses. For further details, including sample topics of research, see our website: www.analytictheology.org.

To apply, please submit the following materials electronically, if possible, to analytictheology.project@gmail.com, or by mail to Michael Rea, Director, Center for Philosophy of Religion, 418 Malloy Hall, University of Notre Dame, Notre Dame, IN 46556:

- A complete curriculum vitae
- Three letters of recommendation
- A project abstract of no more than 150 words
- A project description of no more than 1200 words
- One published or unpublished paper

All application materials must be received by January 15, 2012 to assure full consideration. Questions may be addressed to Michael Rea at analytictheology.project@gmail.com.

Analytic Theology Summer Stipend 2012 - 2013

The Analytic Theology Summer Stipend Program, administered by the Center for Philosophy of Religion at the University of Notre Dame, with generous support from the Templeton Foundation, provides funding for graduate students and faculty members who wish to spend the summer researching a paper or a dissertation chapter on a topic in analytic theology. The Program will provide up to 10 awards per year for two years, at $5,000 per award. Successful applicants in year one or two will automatically receive an award in year two or three if they meet the following two conditions: (a) they intend to do research for a project in analytic theology during the second summer, and (b) their previously funded project has been accepted for publication at a peer-reviewed journal before the time when final decisions must be made for awarding next year's stipends. For further details, including sample topics, see our website: www.analytictheology.org.

To apply, please submit the following materials electronically, if possible, to analytictheology.project@gmail.com, or by mail to Michael Rea, Director, Center for Philosophy of Religion, 418 Malloy Hall, University of Notre Dame, Notre Dame, IN 46556:

Analytic Theology Course Award Program 2012 - 2013

The Center for Philosophy of Religion at the University of Notre Dame, in cooperation with the John Templeton Foundation, is providing funding for the development and implementation of courses, or course segments, in analytic theology at divinity schools and departments of theology and religious studies. The project expects to award five applicants with $15,000 each: $5,000 for the applying faculty member, and $10,000 for the host institution.

For more information visit our website at www.analytictheology.org and click on the "Course Grants" link. Questions may be addressed to Michael Rea at analytictheology.project@gmail.com. Applications are due March 15, 2012.

Religious Studies

An international journal for the philosophy of religion

Editorial policy

Religious Studies is an international journal devoted to the problems of the philosophy of religion as these arise out of classical and contemporary discussions and from varied religious traditions. Space is devoted to articles, of which more than 25 are published each year, but the journal also contains a book review section, which may include review articles and shorter notes as well as normal-length reviews.

1. Submissions

All contributions must be submitted via the electronic submission system at <http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com/rst>

For further details, please visit the journal's website: www.journals.cambridge.org/res

No article will be accepted for publication without blind review. The text of submitted articles must be ready for this and must bear no trace of the author's identity. Articles that are not ready for blind review will be rejected.

Submission of a paper will be taken to imply that it is unpublished and is not being considered for publication elsewhere. Upon acceptance of a paper, the author will be asked to assign copyright (on certain conditions) to Cambridge University Press.

Contributors are responsible for obtaining permission to reproduce any material in which they do not hold copyright and for ensuring that the appropriate acknowledgements are included in their manuscript.

Books for review should be sent to Dr Christopher Hamilton at Department of Theology and Religious Studies, King's College London, Strand, London WC2R 2LS.

Books not selected for review will not be returned.

NB: Religious Studies does not accept unsolicited book reviews.

2. Manuscript preparation

Articles must be submitted as Word files to the journal and should not be more than 10,000 words long. Articles in two or more parts may occasionally be accepted provided each part is independently intelligible. They should be in English.

Each article must be submitted with an abstract of 100 words.

When an article has been accepted for publication, the author must prepare their manuscript according to the journal style guide which can be found at www.journals.cambridge.org/res. Articles and book reviews will be checked and copy-edited for journal style and UK English.

The manuscript must be supplied in electronic format as Microsoft Word accompanied by a pdf of the same file.

3. Proofs

First proofs are sent to contributors by e-mail as PDF files. Corrections will only be accepted if they are sent to the Editor without delay.

Typographical or factual errors only may be changed at proof stage. The publisher reserves the right to charge authors for correction of non-typographical errors.

4. Offprints

Complimentary offprints are not supplied. Each Author will receive a pdf file containing their contribution to the journal, for their own use. Authors of Articles will also receive a copy of the journal.
