

CHAPTER VIII

NEW MEMBERS AND DECEASED MEMBERS AT THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

Report of the IAU Membership Committee on the last Triennium (2012–2015)

Committee Members:

Sara R. Heap (Sara.R.Heap@nasa.gov)
Christian Henkel (chenkel@mpifr-bonn.mpg.de)
Myungshin Im (mim@astro.snu.ac.kr)
Lex Kaper (L.Kaper@uva.nl)
Rene A. Méndez Bussard (rmendez@u.uchile.cl) Helmut O. Rucker (helmut.rucker@oeaw.ac.at)
Nikolay N. Samus (samus@sai.msu.ru/)
Ramotholo R. Sefako (rrs@sao.ac.za)

Time Frame

Activities started in early 2015. Individuals applying for nomination for IAU Individual Membership should have contacted their NCA or Adhering Organization before December 1, 2014. The deadline for approved nominations for Individual Members to be submitted to the IAU Secretariat by NCAs or Adhering Organizations was February 3, 2015. Therefore, the focus of this report are the last months prior to the IAU XXIX General Assembly (August 2015) in Honolulu.

Basic Statistics

For application period 2014/5, there were a total of 1275 applications from 49 countries. 1189 of these applications, i.e. 93.3%, could be accepted. To the rare exceptions: More than half of the Indian applications have been rejected by their NCA, mainly due to insufficient experience of the candidates. Seven candidates went to Morocco, which is suspended. Having applied through the US form, attempts to contact them personally remained unsuccessful. Several Australian, Belgian, and in one case also a UK application have been rejected by their NCAs because of a too recent Ph.D., reflecting different rules for acceptance which are defined to a significant part by the National Committees. Most Argentinian and a few Egypt applications did not provide a minimum of the information needed for an acceptance. Only few applications were coming from students. There was notably one such application also from Australia. In addition, a few double and one triple application could be identified. Overall, less than 100 applications were not successful.

Intrinsic Quality of the Applications

A large amount of applications, about 30%, was incomplete, lacking either birthday, year of acquired Ph.D, present professional status or the requested three papers. Many even lacked a combination of these few but very fundamental parts of general information. Under such conditions, it is very hard to judge the quality of a given application. Checking, for example, the missing publication list with ADS always implies the danger of including other people with the same last name and initial of the given name. Furthermore, quite often, topics or titles were given, while a detailed reference, including year, journal, volume and page number were all absent.

A related issue refers to the authenticity of the given publications. Checking them in a few cases, they always turned out to be real. However, it would be fairly easy to just invent a few references and paper titles. One candidate chose a clever way. He listed his publications on ADS and attached the web-link in the first of the three boxes for the papers. This immediately revealed his entire bibliography. Nevertheless, providing such an exhausting information requires to have a name which is not too commonly found.

To the time of the application: According to the IAU working rules on individual membership, paragraph 5, late proposals will normally not be taken into consideration. This time, Columbians could apply at a later time than five months prior to the General Assembly. Since this is related to astro-political considerations (Columbia applies for National Membership), it is definitely not the business of the membership committee to comment on it except that we think that such delayed actions (where the IAU has little influence on timing) should be part of the report. There were also individual late applications from other countries, but their number was very small and did not require much additional work.

Another special case was Iran, which is currently suspended, but is on its way back to the IAU. So there are some listed new Iranian members. These will become official once Iran has recovered from suspended status.

Finally, it is important to state that the membership committee should have some people being member for more than one three year period. The leave of the very well informed previous chairman, Johannes Andersen, left a gap of knowledge. Furthermore, the collaboration between the different members of the membership committee could be improved, which will be an important point of discussion, when four of the old (and an unknown number of new) committee members will meet during the IAU GA in Hawaii.

Suggestions for Potential Improvements

(1) The question arises, in how far incomplete applications should be treated in the future. When papers or other important information are missing, should it really be the task of the IAU and its membership committee to try to find out about the missing facts? Or should the applications be screened superficially (either by the committee or the IAU Secretariat) soon after their arrival? So that incomplete applications can be sent back right away – with the comment, that if the application will be resubmitted in a complete form within a reasonable amount of time, it will still be considered.

(2) In the application document, everyone can choose to provide either his/her private or professional address. Both is apparently considered to be equivalent. It may be a good idea to emphasize that a professional address is preferable. And to request a good explanation in case such an address can eventually not be given.

(3) A postdoc, having to leave his position after a few years and not yet being certain to find another job in the field, may not be a suitable candidate. Somehow the professional future of a given person should be secured. Otherwise, what to do with the many postdocs, who become IAU members but have to leave the field after their second or third postdoc occupation? While the IAU has certainly the possibilities to deal with such complexities, it requires working time which could perhaps be better used for other issues. To give an example: I joined the IAU soon after getting tenure. And always felt that this was about the right time.

The List

Below the names of the new members are given, recommended by the Membership Committee for admission at the GA. Those nominated by the Division Presidents are presented first, followed by the majority of successful applicants, which were nominated by National Members.

1. New members admitted at the General Assembly

The following lists give the names of the 1008 new Individual Members admitted at the XXIXth General Assembly, ordered by National Member.
