New from ABC-CLIO

Political Culture and Group Conflict in Communist China

Alan P. L. Liu

This new approach to the problem of political culture and group conflict employs current sociological and political science theories to analyze the conflicting groups during and immediately after the Cultural Revolution. Liu's skillful blend of autobiographical accounts, Red Guard publications, official media, and scholarly documents provides a highly readable and thought-provoking account of the Cultural Revolution, and of revolutionary phenomena and totalitarianism in general. Bibliography. Chronology. Glossary. Index. xviii, 205 pages. LC 74-14195. CIP. 1976. No. 4. Studies in International and Comparative Politics. Peter H. Merkl, Series Editor. $17.95 casebound (ISBN 0-87436-196-6); $5.75 paper (ISBN 0-87436-197-4).

Ramayana Retold by William Buck

Introduction by B. A. van Nooten, Illustrated by Shirley Triest

"William Buck's adaptation is an extraordinary accomplishment . . . he has succeeded in capturing the most important characteristic of the Ramayana: the simple religious tone that pervades the Indian original. We find in this rendering of the work the same awe of divine creation, the same wonder and unquestioning belief in the interrelation of natural and supernatural events that have appealed to millions of people who in the past two thousand years have listened to the recitation and reenactment of the Rama story."

The Traditional Music of Thailand David Morton

Thailand lies in the heart of Southeast Asia. Its musical culture reflects the "crossroads" location, resulting in a high art form that remains distinctively Thai. Morton briefly sketches the historical development of this music, discusses the musical fundamentals, and describes and illustrates the instruments.

116 halftones, $16.50

Lu Hsün's Vision of Reality William A. Lyell, Jr.

Lu Hsün is the literary giant of modern China. Though a writer of fiction, he wished to use literature for the betterment of society. Lyell, whose book is intended for the general reading public, emphasizes the unity of the man and the literary artist rather than stressing Lu Hsün's stories apart from his personality or the social realities that produced them.

JAWAHARLAL

Jawaharlal Nehru

A Biography

Volume I: 1880-1947

Sarvepalli Gopal

"This is the most significant biography of Nehru to appear since his death. It is the work of one of India's leading historians, who unlike previous biographers has drawn on the full range of Nehru's private papers as well as many other private and official sources in India and Britain that have become available in the past decade..." — The Economist

India's most famous statesman has found his biographer in Sarvepalli Gopal.

Gopal, who worked with Nehru for over 10 years in the Ministry of External Affairs, had first-hand knowledge of the man. As a result, he has written a biography that is both intimate and authoritative. This first volume describes Nehru's youth, early political career, and the struggle for Indian independence. $17.50

The China Book Project

Translation and Commentary

A wide-ranging series of carefully prepared translations of books published in China since 1949, each with an extended introduction by a Western scholar.

These translations offer insights into the complex world of contemporary China not only for those who do not read Chinese but also for scholars who do not have access to the originals. The series includes works published after the Cultural Revolution which display the radicalization and politicization of Chinese scholarship. In addition, the fact that most of the titles have been printed in editions astronomical by Western standards — hundreds of thousands, even millions, of copies — reflects their importance in China today.

The series will place primary emphasis on contemporary China as seen by Chinese scholars and by various writing groups responsible for recording the past and examining the present of this enormously complex and developing society.

The first five titles in the series are:

The People of Taihang: An Anthology of

Family Histories Edited by Sidney L. Greenblatt

A translation of T'ai-hang jen-chia, compiled by the "Four Histories" Editorial Committee of Southeast Chin District, Shansi Province (Peking: China Youth Publishing House, 1964). $17.50

Fundamentals of the Chinese Communist Party

Edited by Pierre M. Perrolle

A translation of Tang ti chi-ch'u chih-shih, compiled by the "Fundamentals of the Party" Writing Group (Shanghai People's Press, 1974). $15.00

Shang Yang's Reforms and State Control

in China Edited by Li Yu-ning

A translation of Shang Yang pien-fa, by Yang K'uan (Shanghai People's Press, 1973), supplemented by additional interpretations. $17.50 (tent.)

The Early Revolutionary Activities of

Comrade Mao Tse-tung Edited by James C. Hsiung

Introduction by Stuart R. Schram

A translation of Mao Tse-tung t'ung-chih ch'u-ch'i ke-ming huo-tung, by Li Jui (Peking: China Youth Publishing House, 1957). $22.50 (tent.)

The Rustication of Urban Youth in China:

A Social Experiment Edited by Peter J. Seybolt

The Great Universe of Kota Stress, Change and Mental Disorder in an Indian Village G. M. Carstairs and R. L. Kapur

Much is known about the incidence of neuroses and stress disorders in Western societies, but much less about their occurrences in the Third World. This book describes an inquiry—in many respects unprecedented—in which modern methods of social research have been employed to elicit, in their own language, how three groups of Indian villagers perceive symptoms of mental disturbance in themselves and in their neighbors.

176 pages, $12.50

Landownership in Nepal Mahesh C. Regmi

In his Foreword Leo Rose refers to this book as "the most important volume yet published on Nepal," where 93 percent of the population engages in agriculture and land is the prime source of wealth.

269 pages, $15.00

Forces of Order Police Behavior in Japan and the United States David H. Bayley

"An outstanding book that should have a broad appeal to all who are concerned about whether we get the crime rates and police services we deserve."

—Chalmers Johnson

224 pages, Chart, $10.95

Arya Dharm Hindu Consciousness in Nineteenth-Century Punjab Kenneth W. Jones

Jones describes the earliest individual attempts of reformers to adapt their cultural traditions to the new world of the British Empire. He also examines the pattern of communal conflict among Hindus, Muslims, and Sikhs and the dynamics of the British Raj that contributed to it.

360 pages, 4 Maps, $14.00

Japanese Industrialization and Its Social Consequences Edited by Hugh Patrick

These essays, by Japanese and American scholars examine aspects of Japanese industrialization and its effects on social change from the mid-nineteenth century to the present.

Critical Choices for Americans

Critical Choices for Americans, a fourteen-volume work on urgent problems that face the United States and the world at the beginning of America's third century, will appear through 1976 and into 1977 under the imprint of Lexington Books.

A wide range of subjects is covered including: energy, the environment, and economics; population, food, and land use; raw materials; criminal justice and the law; education; and foreign relations and national defense. A major portion of the work concerns ideas about America, extensive analyses of different regions of the world, and the quality of life of communities and individuals.

The 128 contributors include: Mortimer J. Adler, Raymond Aron, Alastair Buchan, Wolf von Eckardt, Nathan Glazer, Herman Kahn, Irving Kristol, Charles H. Malik, Daniel P. Moynihan, Bess Meyerson, Robert A. Scalapino, Edward Teller, and James Q. Wilson. Many other authorities bring to this series the most complete prognosis of America's future and the world's ever commissioned.

About the series in general, TIME Magazine said:

"NEW STARTS FOR AMERICA'S THIRD CENTURY . . . What emerges from these essays is the sense that in nearly every important field, ideas that dominated for half a century or more are giving way. New notions are being pursued and older ideas, discarded earlier in the 20th century, are being re-examined . . . Different though the various views of human nature may be, the very use of the term implies that there is something permanent and irreducible in man and that his resistance to outside manipulation is a kind of triumph."

The books are:

- Volume I Vital Resources. 288pp. $14.95
- Volume II The Americans: 1976. 400pp. $15.95
- Volume III How Others See Us. 144pp. $11.95

MEI YAO-CH'EN AND THE DEVELOPMENT OF EARLY SUNG POETRY

JONATHAN CHAVES

Winner of Columbia University's Clarke F. Ansley Award, this work is the first full-length study in English of Mei Yao-ch'en, a highly talented and individual eleventh-century Chinese poet. Beginning with a brief biography, the book contains a summary of Sung dynasty poetry prior to Mei; an account of Mei's views on Sung dynasty poetry; a discussion of his poetic theory; and an anthology of Mei's best poems in translation, with copious notes and analyses.

THE TOYNBEE-IKEDA DIALOGUE

Man Himself Must Choose

By Arnold J. Toynbee and Daisaku Ikeda

A rare dialogue between east and west, preserved and transmitted in this truly unique contribution to the history of ideas.

"Before historian Arnold Toynbee died in 1975 at the age of 86, he was joined in London by Japanese intellectual and Buddhist scholar Daisaku Ikeda for a series of discussions on the state of the world today. Their range of topics was extremely broad, including heredity vs. environment, man's abuse of the environment, population control, medicine and social welfare, suicide and euthanasia, politics, war and recent history.

Throughout their dialogue they found themselves more often in agreement than at loggerheads, and they kept returning to the theme of religion.

Toynbee had outgrown his Christian upbringing, and his world-view was that of the pre-Christian Greeks and Romans, so he could agree with Ikeda that Western technology and materialism had failed mankind and that now it was time to turn to the East for a philosophy that would bring love and dignity back to the human race. Richard Gage has done an excellent job of editing the talks into lucid and enlightening prose."—Publisher's Weekly
