Professional Notes

AMERICAN ACADEMY of Arts and Sciences

Six political scientists were among 107 leading scholars, scientists, public figures and artists elected to membership in the American Academy of Arts and Sciences.

Founded in 1780 by John Adams and other intellectual leaders prominent in laying the philosophical foundations of the new American nation, the Academy today is a national honorary society with an active center on the West Coast and a developing Midwest organization in addition to its offices in Boston. Its membership of 2,300 includes representatives from the mathematical, physical and biological sciences, as well as law, administration, public affairs, theology, fine arts and the humanities. It carries on an active program of study and publication on major national and international problems which require the expertise of several disciplines, and it recognizes outstanding contributions through a series of prizes which include the Humanistic Studies Award, the Emerson-Thoreau Medal for Literature, a Social Science Prize, the Rumford Medal (America's oldest scientific prize), and the Amory Prize for Medicine.

The six political scientists elected to membership in the Academy are: Brian Barry, University of Chicago; Suzanne Berger, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Walter Dean Burnham, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Gerald Holmes Kramer, Yale University; Duncan MacRae, University of North Carolina; and Gordon Tullock, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University.

AID Social Science Division

As a result of its recent reorganization, the United States Agency for International Development has established a Social Science Studies Division within its newly created Office of Evaluation. The function of the Division is to analyze the intended and unintended impact of alternative types of development projects and programs on the income, nutrition, health, and demographic behavior of low income people and on the socioeconomic and environmental systems on which their present and future welfare depends.

The Division's multi-disciplinary staff, headed by Allan Hoben, includes skills in political science, demography, anthropology, human geography, development economics and history, and area studies interests in all major geographic regions in which AID is operating.

The Division will try to find out what has been learned from past experience by tapping the knowledge of social scientists and development practitioners (especially host country nationals) and the intended beneficiaries of development assistance. While it is expected that the division will conduct field studies, commission reports and organize workshops it will not fund basic research.

It would be very helpful to the Division's staff if individuals who have had extensive experience with AID projects or programs would write a brief letter indicating their name and address, their discipline or profession, the countries in which they have observed AID activities in depth, the nature of the activity they have observed and references to any work they may have published on their experience. Both constructive criticism and observations on projects or programs that seem to be working well are of particular interest. For further contact and information write to: Allan Hobe, Chief, Social Science Studies Division, Office of Evaluation, PPC/E, Room 3673 NS, AID, Washington, D.C. 20523.

CITIZENS' RESEARCH FOUNDATION Anniversary

The Citizens' Research Foundation (CRF) of Princeton, N.J., celebrated its twentieth anniversary with a dinner marking its achievements since its founding. The dinner was held in Washington, D.C. on May 10, and was sponsored by eight members of Congress as honorary co-sponsors and the Foundation's Board of Trustees.

The honorary co-sponsors from the Congress, all friends of the Foundation and legislative leaders in election matters, included Senator Howard W. Cannon, Senator Clifford P. Case, Senator Alan Cranston, Representative Millicent Fenwick, Representative Bill Frenzel, Senator H. John Heinz, III, Representative Frank Thompson, Jr., and Senator Harrison A. Williams, Jr.

Greetings and congratulations on the 20 years of achievement of CRF were received from former President Gerald R. Ford and Vice-President Walter F. Mondale. The greetings are contained in a 20-year report on CRF, published to help celebrate the event.

The principal speaker at the dinner was Jules Witcover, author of Marathon and co-author of a syndicated column, who spoke about the impact of the federal campaign law on the 1976 presidential elections.

The CRF has recently affiliated with the University of Southern California. Dr. Herbert E. Alexander, who has been Director of CRF since its founding, will be Professor of Political science, and the Foundation will be housed on the campus. This affiliation adds an important new dimension to the CRF's research, analytical and professional capabilities. It marks the Foundation's first opportunity, in cooperation with the University's Department of Political Science, to train graduate and undergraduate students in political finance, election reform and election administration, and in the formulation of public policy. At the same time, it will be helping to create a cadre of professionals to monitor and administer developing governmental and private programs in the election area. The Foundation will move to Los Angeles in July.

Over the past 20 years, the Foundation has worked to research and disseminate information on the use and influence of political campaign monies and to stimulate research and education in political finance among political scientists and scholars throughout the United States and abroad. CRF publications constitute the single largest and most relevant literature on the subject of political finance. CRF is not an advocacy organization; rather it presents the facts and arguments that can be marshalled for and against proposals by those who are empowered to make decisions.

THE BAGEHOT COUNCIL

The Walter Bagehot Research Council on National Sovereignty, founded in 1972, is an educational foundation made up of scholars whose primary concern is the study of the past, present, and possible future status of nation-state international relations. For the years 1979-1984, the Council is planning a series of panels and publications-conference programs on Nationality, Statehood, and the Nation-State System in the major regions of the contemporary world. The focus is to be on the destabilizing and stabilizing tendencies of national feeling and statecraft in multinational states, multi-state nationalities, and traditionally-defined nation states, as principal actors in the so-called international system. For the years 1979-1981, the regional focus will be on Latin American, Black Africa, and the Islamic world.

Papers dealing with problems of nationality, statehood, and the nation-state concept in Latin America, Black Africa, and the Islamic world, or proposals for papers on aspects of these subjects, are invited. Suggestions for regional meetings outside of New York are also welcome.

Membership to the Council is by calendar year: Associate, $10; Participating, $25; Contributing $50; Sustaining, $100; Supporting $500; "Founding Member," $1,000 or more. On contributions in excess of $10, the amount above $10 is tax-deductible. Checks should be made out to The Bagehot Council and mailed to P.O. Box 81, Whitestone, New York 11357. All members receive the monthly State of the Nation (the official newsletter of the Council).

All correspondence dealing with papers and regional meetings should be addressed to Professor Henry Paolucci, President, The Bagehot Council, P.O. Box 81, Whitestone, New York 11357.

LAW and POLICY Quarterly

Law and Policy Quarterly is a new interdisciplinary journal concerned with the implications of law and legal processes for the nature and content of social policy. Law, the forces which shape it, and its impact on policies are matters of great interest to many disciplines, including law, economics, criminal justice, the humanities, and the behavioral and social sciences. Articles will explore (1) broad theoretical and methodological issues in the analysis of the relationship between law and public policy and/or (2) the substantive implications of specific policies within a variety of fields, including, but not limited to, criminal law, civil, family law, environmental law, and juvenile law.

Manuscripts should be submitted in triplicate. Two copies should have all the authors removed from the text and footnotes and attached to the cover sheet in order to facilitate our blind review process. Send the three copies to: Larry J. Cohen and John A. Gardiner, Editors, Law and Policy Quarterly, University of Illinois at Chicago Circle, Box 4348, Chicago, Illinois 60680.

Law and Policy Quarterly is published by Sage Publications, Inc., 275 South Beverly Drive, Beverly Hills, California 90212. Publication will begin in the first quarter of 1979. Please write Sage directly for subscription information.

PI SIGMA ALPHA Chapters

Three new chapters of Pi Sigma Alpha have recently been installed according to Howard Penniman, the Director of the National Political Science Honor Society. The chapters are Theta Eta at the University of Detroit, Theta Omicron at Hampton-Sydney College, and Theta Pi Northern at Arizona University. The Biennial Convention of Pi Sigma Alpha will be held at the New York Hilton Hotel at the time of the meetings of the American Political Science Association.

Committee on PARTY Renewal

The Committee, which was organized in 1976, is working to reform political parties at both the national and state level. State committees are busy at work in California, Connecticut, and New Jersey. Now plans are being made to organize a New York branch of the Committee on Party Renewal. Membership is open to all members of the APSA from New York, including academics, non-academic political scientists, and political leaders.

The Profession

Contact has already been made with the chairs of the Democratic and Republican State Committees in New York, and they have been urged to inform their colleagues about the existence of the Committee.

Among the first priorities of the New York Committee will be to work on developing a new party charter. It may be possible to meet at the APSA conference in September or even before. If you are interested in becoming a part of this chapter, contact the coordinator: Ruth Schwartz, 2509 Avenue K, Brooklyn, New York 11210.

The BUREAUCRAT

The Bureaucrat, under the direction of "Series Editor" Ronald J. Stupak, Professor of Political Science and Contemporary Affairs at the Federal Executive Institute, Route 29 North, Charlottesville, Virginia 22903, is looking for articles dealing with public management innovations in the defense community. In effect, The Bureaucrat is looking for articles of between 8 to 15 journal pages that deal with public management areas that have organizational interest and practical application for both civilian executives and military managers.

The Bureaucrat is devoted to the advancement of the art and science of public management by publishing articles that have specific professional interest to and value for practicing members of the federal bureaucracy.

Any colleague who has an interest in contributing to this series should call Professor Stupak before submitting a manuscript to him: commercial (804) 296-0181; FTS 937-1295.

WOMEN'S Prize

The Committee on the Status of Women in the Profession of the Western Political Science Association is administering the third annual competition for the outstanding article on women and politics. The article selected will be published in The Western Political Quarterly and the author(s) will be awarded $100. Any political scientist may submit an article; the award winner must be or become a member of the Western Political Science Association.

The deadline for submission is February 1, 1979. No previously published material may be submitted. Please submit four copies of the article and a 100-word abstract which will not be returned to: Professor Elizabeth Moulds, 6000 Jay Street, Sacramento, California 95819. The winning article will be chosen by a prize committee of three political scientists, only one of whom may be a member of the Committee on the Status of Women.

LOYOLA Institute

The Department of Political Science, Loyola University of Chicago, has established an Institute for Political Philosophy and Policy Analysis. The purpose of the Institute is to study and develop linkages between the concerns of political philosophers and public policy analysts. To this end the Institute will focus its attention upon projects which bring together scholars from political philosophy, empirical political analysis, and the policy sciences.

Specifically, the Institute's purpose includes:

- establishing a dialogue among political scientists and others who approach problems of the public arena from different perspectives;
- organizing lectures, symposia, conferences, and similar events which focus attention on specific policy issues and which address them from a variety of intellectual orientations;
- providing an outlet for publishing research and commentaries on substantive and methodological issues of interest to scholars who seek to integrate the various perspectives and approaches to policy studies.

For further information, contact: Dr. Melvin Dubnick, Coordinator, The Institute for Political Philosophy and Policy Analysis, Department of Political Science, Loyola University of Chicago, Chicago, Illinois 60626.

URBAN Journal

A new journal entitled The Urban Interest Journal of Policy and Administration will begin publication in Spring 1979 at the University of Kansas. The aim of The Urban Interest is to provide a forum for researchers, teachers, and practitioners who have a shared interest in the policy and administration of local governments. Of particular interest is the desire to strengthen the ties between local administrators and policy-makers and the academic community. A major assumption of the journal is that clear communication among academics and practitioners is likely to contribute to a better understanding of urban problems as well as approaches to their solution.

The Urban Interest would especially like to encourage manuscripts that adopt an approach in one or more of the following categories: 1) analytical or conceptual papers that assume a critical perspective or provide a guide for future action in the areas of policy, administration, and management; 2) empirical research that provides insights and/or guidelines to policy-making and administrative behavior; 3) position papers on classical or contemporary issues/problems in urban communities that may range from areas such as crime, transportation, and developing information systems to questions of political responsiveness and government ethics; 4) literature reviews which develop new points and perspectives of interest to policy-makers and administrators; 5) case studies which support or critique existing theories and practices in urban politics and administration and which are generalizable to other settings. In the above cases preference will be given to studies which include variables that can potentially be treated by decision-makers.

Given space limitations the journal would prefer that manuscripts not exceed 4000 words and papers approximately 2000 to 3000 words in length would be very welcome. Manuscripts should be submitted in triplicate to the editor with only one copy identifying the author. All material should be double-spaced with margins of one and one-half inches. Footnotes and bibliographic citations should use the style followed by the American Statistical, Psychological and Sociological Associations. A brief biographical statement should appear on a separate page.

For further information write to the Editor, Cheryl Swanson, Department of Political Science, University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kansas 66045.

ADMINISTRATIVE Law Review

The Administrative Law Review is a quarterly publication of the Section of Administrative Law of the American Bar Association. It is circulated nationally to 6,400 members of Congress, governmental agency employees, academics and attorneys who specialize in administrative law. The Review is seeking publishable articles on any subject of federal, state, or local administrative law. Articles accepted for publication are usually in print within three to five months. State and local administrative law articles should be regional or national in scope or the national implications of focused studies should be a significant part of the article. It is not necessary that articles be extensively footnoted law review "type" pieces. Manuscripts of 50 or fewer typewritten, double-spaced pages with notes are preferred, but longer manuscripts will be considered. Submit manuscripts to and inquire for further information from: Professor John H. Reese, Editor-in-Chief, College of Law, University of Denver, 200 West 14th Avenue, Denver, Colorado 80204.

1978 SYLLABI

Since 1974 the Wisconsin Political Science Association has sponsored a clearinghouse of political science syllabi. Copies are reproduced and made available at cost (currently 4c per page). The worldwide collection currently contains items from about 100 colleges and universities.

The General and Behavioral category has syllabi for approximately 70 courses (approximately 200 syllabi). There are syllabi for over 50 American Government courses (approximately 150 syllabi). There are syllabi for 43 law-related courses (approximately 100 syllabi); approximately 60 syllabi for over 25 theory courses are in the collection. There are about 60 Comparative Government (approximately 130 syllabi) and about 50 International Relations (about 100 syllabi) courses in the collection. Thirty-five Public Administration courses (approximately 70 syllabi) are also in the depository along with syllabi for another 20 courses whose subject matter do not fit conveniently into one of the above categories.

A copy of the latest checklist, Spring 1978, may be obtained by writing Dr. Martin Gruber, Political Science Department, University of Wisconsin, Oshkosh, Wisconsin 54901. Please include a 15c stamp.

POLICY STUDIES Symposia

The Policy Studies Organization is planning a series of symposia during 1979 and 1980. Manuscript ideas are invited on each of the topics. A short description of the proposed ideas for a relevant article should be submitted to the editors listed below. Especially relevant ideas will be encouraged to be developed into articles for the Policy Studies Journal version of the symposium and into book chapters for the book-length version in the Policy Studies Organization Series of Lexington Books.

For 1979, the symposia will consist of:

"Law Enforcement and Police Policy," Fred Meyer and Ralph Baker, Ball State University.

"Determinants of Public Policies," Virginia Gray, University of Minnesota, and Thomas Dye, Florida State University.

"Defense and Arms Control Policy," Robert Harkavy, Arms Control Agency, and Edward Kolodziej, University of Illinois.

"Labor Relations and Employment," Charles Bulmer and John Carmichael, Jr., University of Alabama at Birmingham.

"Housing Policy," Judith May, Rutgers University.

For 1980, the symposia will include at least four of the following topics. More than four will be included depending on funding and interest. These topics listed below not published in 1980 will be published the following year. The order below is still tentative.

"The Analysis of Policy Impact," John Grumm, Wesleyan University, and Stephen Wasby, Southern Illinois University.

"Environmental Policy," Dean Mann, University of California at Santa Barbara.

"Taxing and Spending Policy," Warren Samuels, Michigan State University, Economics Department, and Larry Wade, University of California at Davis.

"Land Use Policy," Norman Wengert, Colorado State University.

"International Implications of Policy Studies," Martin Heister, University of Maryland, and Patrick McGowan, University of Southern California.

The Profession

"Manpower Policy," Carl Van Horn, SUNY, Stony Brook, and Michael Preston, University of Illinois.

"Public Policy Analysis: Evaluation, Optimization, and Utilization," Dennis Palumbo, University of Kansas.

"Critical Issues in Health Policy," Marvin Lieberman and Ralph Straetz, New York University.

Short, general articles are also welcomed as non-symposium comments to be published in issues containing symposia. They should be sent to the Policy Studies Journal, 361 Lincoln Hall, University of Illinois at Urbana. Subscriptions to the journal can also be obtained from that address at $8.00 a year, or $2.50 per issue. Longer, more data-based articles are welcomed for possible inclusion in the non-symposium issues under the editorship of Dorothy James, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, Blacksburg, Virginia.

EUROPEAN Parliament Speaker

Frank Carmody of the Directorate for Research and Documentation, European Parliament, will visit the United States in late November and is available at no charge except expenses for meetings and talks on the European Parliament and 1979 direct popular elections for its seats. For further information contact Frank Carmody, Plateau du Kirchberg, B.P., 1601, Luxembourg.

ANARCHISM and LAW Seminar

The Erasmus University of Rotterdam will hold a seminar on anarchism and law from January 3-6, 1979, at the University. Professor Henc van Maarseveen, Head of the Constitutional Law Department of the Social Sciences Faculty at the University will be responsible for the seminar. The seminar will be in English. For further details on the seminar write to Thom Holterman, Faculty of Social Sciences, Erasmus University, Rotterdam, Burg. Oudlaan 50, Rotterdam, Holland.

RURAL DEVELOPMENT Participation

The Rural Development Committee of the Center for International Studies at Cornell University has begun a four-year project on "rural development participation" funded under a cooperative agreement with the Office of Rural Development in USAID. It will involve applied research and consulting in selected countries; comparative analysis of experience with development decentralization, local organization, local leadership, and use of paraprofessionals; knowledge dissemination; and developing a network of social scientists and development practitioners in the U.S. and LDCs who are working on rural development participation problems. The scope of "participation" includes decision-making, implementation, benefits, and evaluation. The first two countries for sustained work will be Nepal and Egypt, with

GRAHAM STUART Chair

Stanford University has established a new endowed Professorship in International Relations in honor of professor emeritus Graham H. Stuart who has had a distinguished career as a scholar and teacher in the field of international relations. Dr. Stuart joined the Stanford faculty in 1924 as the first member in the area of international relations. The chair was endowed by Flora L. Hewlett and its first holder will be Alexander L. George, a current member of the Stanford political science faculty.

OKLAHOMA Legislature Volume

Samuel A. Kirkpatrick has authored a volume entitled, The Legislative Process in Oklahoma: Policy Making, People and Politics. The work had its inception in the Oklahoma State Legislative Service Project which was co-sponsored by the American Political Science Association. Copies of the book are available from the University of Oklahoma Press for $14.95.

WOODROW WILSON Center

Created by the United States as the nation's official memorial to the twenty-eighth President, the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars was established as "a living institution expressing the ideals and concerns of Woodrow Wilson . . . symbolizing and strengthening the fruitful relations between the world of learning and the world of public affairs." The Center seeks to commemorate through its residential fellowship program of advanced research and communication both the scholarly depth and the public concerns of Woodrow Wilson. It is located in the "castle" building on the mall in Washington, close to the Library of Congress, the National Archives and other research institutions. Eligibility is limited to the post-doctoral level.

Men and women accepted for appointment as fellows at the Center come from scholarly backgrounds in the social sciences, natural sciences, and humanities as well as from careers in law, journalism, business, diplomacy and government, and other professions and occupations. Fellows are selected through two broadly defined divisions and four programs. The Division of Historical and Cultural Studies is devoted to research in all of the fields encompassed by the humanities and the liberal and creative arts, and especially welcomes proposals relating the concerns of these areas of inquiry to contemporary life. The Division of Social and Political Studies is designed to accommodate proposals in the fields of government and international relations, jurisprudence, sociology, economics, anthropology, psychology, and other related disciplines.

The Kennan Institute for Advanced Russian Studies and the Latin American Program support advanced research on Russia and the USSR and on Latin America and Caribbean, respective. The International Security Studies Program is concentrating on projects in decision making, bureaucratic interaction, threat perception, and the use of history as an instrument of policy analysis. The Environmental Studies Program welcomes projects that examine the premises of environmental conservation, regulation, and politics, both nationally and internationally.

The program is residential in character, and fellows are expected to devote full time to their research and writing. A fellowship normally extends from four months to a year in duration. Within certain limits established by the Board of Trustees, it is the Center's policy to enable each fellow to meet, but not to exceed, his or her income rate for the preceding year, on the principle that a fellowship should not involve financial loss or gain.

Selection advisory panels of distinguished scholars in each of the Center's broadly defined divisions of study are convened annually to review applications and recommend eligible candidates. The final selection of all prospective fellows is made by the Director and the Fellowship Committee of the Board of Trustees.

The Center holds one round of competitive selection per year. The deadline for the receipt of applications and all supporting material in the annual cycle is October 1, and decisions on appointment normally will become available by mid-February of the following year.

For information and application materials contact: Wilson Center, Smithsonian Institution Building, Room 321, Washington, D.C. 20560, telephone (202) 381-6247.

AUSTRIAN Visitor

The Austrian Institute, the cultural affairs branch of the Austrian Consulate General, has announced that Dr. Norbert Leser, Professor of Political Science at Salzburg University, will be visiting in the United States in September and October and is available for lectures. His special areas of interest are: Marx and Freud, Austria's Political Life Between the Wars, and Austria's Marxism as a Nutshell of the Problems of International Socialism. For further information, contact Ms. Gertrude Kothanek at the Austrian Institute, 11 East 52nd Street, New York, New York 10022.

CARTER Political Scientists' Appointments

Two more political scientists have accepted appointments in the Carter administration. They are Matthew Holden, Jr., Wisconsin Public Service Commission to Commissioner, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, and Harold W. Chase of the University of Minnesota, Deputy Assistant Secretary of Reserve Affairs. Mark Schneider, a former Association Congressional Fellow, is the Deputy Assistant Secretary for Human Rights.

Several other political scientists serving in governmental positions were listed in the summer 1977 PS.

LANGUAGE Journal

Language Problems and Language Planning is a new interdisciplinary journal devoted to human language as a world-wide social and political problem. It is published by Mouton and directed to all who study, face, or work to solve language problems, including sociolinguistics, applied linguists, language teachers, bilingual education specialists, literacy workers, leaders of language movements, lexicographers, terminologists, bibliographers, communication specialists, applied anthropologists, and demographers, as well as students of economic development, the Third World, ethnicity, and nationalism.

Language Problems and Language Planning began publication in 1977, and contributors have included Father Andrew M. Greeley, Michael Hechter, Joan Rubin, Bjorn H. Jernudd, Paul R. Brass, Janet Byron, Pierre E. Laporte, Howard Giles, Moshe Nahir, Jack Fellman, Robert N. St. Clair, Evelyn P. Stevens, David K. Jordan, Franz Ubleis, Paul Pupier, and Tazio Carlevaro.

Subscriptions to the first two volumes of Language Problems and Language Planning (volume 1, 1977; volume 2, 1978) are available at an introductory rate of $12 per volume (3 issues).

Language Problems and Language Planning invites scholars to contribute articles, which are welcome in any language. They are anonymously reviewed and commented on by at least one competent scholar, usually a member of the Editorial Board, which includes 54 renowned experts in language planning and related fields from throughout the world. Preference is given to comparative, cross-cultural, international, and policy-related work; authors of case studies are encouraged to explore their broader theoretical and practical significance. Manuscripts should be submitted in duplicate, with identifying information removed from footnotes and bibliography, and with a separate note of about 50 words on the career and work of each author. Books for review and proposals for book reviews and review essays are also welcome.

Subscription correspondence: U.S.A. and Canada: Mouton Publishing Co., Walter de Gruyter, Inc., 3 Westchester Plaza, Elmsford, N.Y. 10523, U.S.A. Rest of world: Mouton Publishing Co., Walter de Gruyter & Co. KG, Genthiner Str. 13, D-1 Berlin 30, Federal Republic of Germany. Editorial correspondence: Prof. Richard E. Wood, Editor, Department of Foreign Languages, Plymouth State College, Plymouth, New Hampshire 03264, U.S.A.

JEREMY BENTHAM

The first Bentham Studies Conference to inaugurate the Bentham Studies Association will be held on July 9 and 10, 1979 at University College London. The program will consist of papers and workshop sessions on current Bentham research. The Chairman of the Conference is Professor H. L. A. Hart of Oxford University.

Further information and application forms can be obtained from Miss Claire Gobbi, The Bentham Project, Department of History, University College, Gower Street, London, WC1E 6BT.

A Bentham Newsletter has also been established with a first edition published in May. The General Editors are James Burns of the University College, London, and John Dinwiddy of Royal Holloway College. The Newsletter has two objectives. First, to report from time to time on the progress of the Collected Works of Jeremy Bentham which is being published under the auspices of an Anglo-American Committee promoted by University College London and second, to give publicity to information and research which has arisen in the course of publishing the Collected Works and the work of other scholars.

The Newsletter will include articles, notes, reviews, bibliographical material, reports on work in progress, and requests for information. The present intention is to publish one issue each year and the cost will be £1 per annum (including postage). The first issue is being distributed free, but subscriptions for the second and subsequent issues should be sent to: The Editor, The Bentham Newsletter, University College, Gower Street, London WC1E.6BT.

KEEPING ABREAST OF INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENTS IN YOUR DISCIPLINE

The International Political Science Association INVITATION TO INDIVIDUAL MEMBERSHIP-1978

The International Political Science Association welcomes individual political scientists as members. The Association, founded in 1949, is composed of three categories of members: individuals, institutions, and national associations.

Membership in the Association of $10.00 a year entitles members to receive the Newsletter giving information about IPSA activities and meetings; to purchase material published under IPSA auspices—including sets of papers submitted at IPSA meetings at reduced cost, abstracts and indexes of international roundtables, and to register at IPSA meetings at lower rates.

Individual members are entitled also to receive at lower rates either the International Political Science Abstracts published bi-monthly by the Association itself or the International Social Science Journal, the quarterly organ of the Department of Social Sciences of UNESCO. To join the Association send your name and address and check to the International Political Science Association, General Secretariat, Department of Political Science, University of Ottawa, Ottawa, Canada K1N 6N5.
