

Applications must be submitted by November 16 to the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, United Nations Plaza at 46th Street, New York, New York 10017. Announcement of awards will be by February 1974.

Announcement of Awards

SSRC Grants

The Social Science Research Council has announced research grants to minority scholars for Research on Racism and other social factors in Mental health; Contemporary and Republican China; the economy of China; Japanese Studies; Korean Studies and the Near and Middle East. The grantees and their topics are as follows:

Minority Scholars for Research on Racism and Other Social Factors in Mental Health

Sydney A. Reid, professor of political science, Florida Agricultural and Mechanical University, for research on political involvement as an adaptive response to racism.

Contemporary and Republican China

Ying-mao Kau, associate professor of political science, Brown University, for research in China, Japan, and Hong Kong on leadership organization in China, 1966-72.

Kenneth Lieberthal, assistant professor of political science, Swarthmore College, for research in Europe and the United States on the contours of revolution in Tienstin, 1949-53.

Andrew J. Nathan, assistant professor of political science, Columbia University, for research in Tokyo and the United States on the political role of new elite groups in China, 1900-1949.

Japanese Studies

Lewis G. Austin, assistant professor of political science, Yale University, for research in Japan on cross-cultural measurements of political values and changes in Japanese political culture, 1968-74.

Chalmers Johnson, professor of political science, University of California, Berkeley, for research in the United States and Tokyo on Japanese political economy: the Ministry of International Trade and Industry, 1949-69.

Chae-Jin Lee, Associate professor of political science and East Asian Studies, University of Kansas, for research in Japan and Hong Kong on the relations between the Japan Socialist Party and the People's Republic of China, 1960-72.

James William Morley, professor of government, Columbia University, for research in Tokyo and Europe on the search for peace in Asia.

Korean Studies

Sung-il Choi, assistant professor of political science, Hobart and William Smith Colleges, for research in Korea on social environment, public policy, and political cleavages in urban and rural areas.

George Ginsburgs, associate professor of political science, New School for Social Research, for research in Moscow on Korean volunteers in the civil war and intervention in the Soviet Far East, 1917-22.

Willard D. Keim, assistant professor of political science, University of Pennsylvania (on leave to Yonsei University), for research in Seoul on attitudes toward farming and initiative in the agricultural population of the Republic of Korea.

Young Whan Kihl, associate professor of political science, Juniata College, for research in the Republic of Korea on party cadres and local leaders.

C. I. Eugene Kim, professor of political science, Western Michigan University, for research on the changing social backgrounds of governmental elites in the Republic of Korea, 1948-67.

John Kie-chiang Oh, professor of political science, Marquette University, for research in Korea on political socialization of Ch'ondogyu (Doctrine of the Heavenly Way) and Ch'onjugyo (Catholicism) believers.

Near and Middle East

Leonard J. Fein, professor of politics and social policy, Brandeis University, for research in Israel on leadership and myth making since its founding.

Enid Hill, associate professor of political science, American University in Cairo, for research in Egypt and the United States on civil litigation in Egypt.

Marvin G. Weinbaum, associate professor of political science, University of Illinois, Urbana-Champaign, for research in Kabul on the associational life of Afghanistan's modernizing elite.

Ergun Ozbudun, associate professor of government, University of Ankara (on leave as Research Fellow, Harvard University, and

Frank Tachau, associate professor of political science, University of Illinois at Chicago Circle, for research in Turkey on effects of socio-economic change on the Turkish political system.

NSF Division of Social Sciences Grant

The National Science Foundation Division of Social Sciences has announced the following grants to political scientists:

Donald D. Searing, University of North Carolina, Research on Comparative Socialization.

Warren E. Miller and M. Kent Jennings, University of Michigan, A Longitudinal Study of the Dutch Electorate.

G. Matthew Bonham, American University, Collaborative Research on Simulation of Policy Decision-Making.

E. E. Azar, University of North Carolina, Quantitative Analysis of International Behavior.

Barbara G. Salmore, Drew University, Testing the Validity of Events Data.

D. A. Zinnes and Judith Gillespie, Indiana University, Development and Analysis of Mathematical Models of Arms Races.

---

Conference Group on German Politics (CGGP)

The CONFERENCE GROUP ON GERMAN POLITICS has awarded internships for varying periods during 1973-74 to a number of students and faculty for programs in German governmental and quasi-governmental offices. Roger Boyce and Anne Koppel of the University of Surrey will intern in the Information Office of the City of West Berlin; Timothy Chorba, legislative assistant to the Hon. Jonathan Bingham of New York, U.S. House of Representatives, will be at the West German Bundestag; Jutta Helm, Assistant Professor of Political Science, Western Illinois University, will work and study at headquarters of the Social Democratic Party in Bonn; Carol Gray, student of political science at SUNY, Stony Brook, will be at the Ministry for Economic Cooperation in Bonn, and D. Brent Smith, Department of Government, Harvard, will intern at the Federal Academy for Public Administration in Bad Godesberg after a month of preparatory study at the Office of Management and Budget in Washington.

Scholar-in-Residence awards have been made to Peter Etzkorn, Professor and Chairman, Political Science, University of Richmond, for a comparative study of state-city relations in Virginia and Lower Saxony, to Richard Taylor, Professor of Political Science, Kent State University, for a study of petitions committees at the federal and state levels in West Germany, to John D. Nagle, Associate Professor, Maxwell School, Syracuse University, for compilation of machine-readable data on German legislators, to Jesse Silvergate, Assistant Professor, Social Science, Florida Memorial College, for research on the criminal justice system in West Germany, and to Benjamin Lambeth, graduate student at Harvard, for research on West German defense problems.

---

ACLS-SSRC Fellowship Grants

The American Council of Learned Societies and the Social Science Research Council have announced awards in joint programs to several political scientists as follows:

Research Program for Research on South Asia

Paul R. Brass, associate professor of political science, University of Washington: Party systems and political change in India.

Robert N. Kearney, associate professor of political science, Syracuse University: Political development and the institutionalization of the political party system in Ceylon.

Research Program for Research on Soviet Studies

Gregory J. Massell, professor of political science, City University of New York, Hunter College: Systematic social engineering in Soviet Central Asia: Patterns, problems, and achievements, 1930-70.

Robert Sharlet, associate professor of political science, Union College: Soviet legal theory and political development, 1917-1937.

The American Council of Learned Societies has also announced that under its postdoctoral research program in the humanities and related social sciences that it has awarded a fellowship to Ezra N. Suleiman of John Jay College of City University of New York to study Elites in French Society.

---

Wildavsky Elected to American Academy of Arts and Sciences

Aaron B. Wildavsky, Dean of the School of Public Affairs of the University of California, Berkeley, has been elected to the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. The Academy, founded in 1780, is the second oldest learned society in the United States and publishes DAEDALUS.

---

NSF Undergraduate Research Project Grants

Under a grant from the National Science Foundation's Undergraduate Research Participation Program, the Department of Political Science of Yale University will sponsor an undergraduate research project for ten undergraduates. The program is under the direction of Charles E. Lindblom.

---

Cleveland State Receives Markle Foundation Grant

The John and Mary F. Markle Foundation has awarded a $49,000 grant to determine the current state of knowledge about mass communication effects on political behavior. The study will be conducted by Sidney Kraus, Chairman, Department of Communication, The Cleveland State University. Consultants to the project are Steven Chaffee, Mass Communication Research Center, University of Wisconsin, Harold Mendelsohn, Department of Mass Communication, University of Denver, and John Robinson, Institute for Social Research, University of Michigan. Published and unpublished reports as well as newly generated, but as yet unanalyzed data, will be examined.

---

American Research Institute in Turkey Awards

The American Research Institute in Turkey has announced three fellowship awards for 1973-74 as follows:

Sandra D. Danforth, Ph.D. candidate, University of Chicago. Topic: The position of women in the Turkish Republic.

Robert P. Nye, Ph.D. candidate, Washington University, St. Louis, Missouri. Topic: The social background of legislators in the Second Turkish Republic.

Frank Tachau, Associate Professor of Political Science, University of Illinois at Chicago Circle. Topic: Image and reality in the Turkish foreign policy-making process.