

ANNOUNCEMENTS

ADDRESS FOR NEW MANUSCRIPTS AFTER JUNE 1, 1970

Beginning June 1, 1970, the REVIEW's Managing Editor Elect, Professor Nelson W. Polsby, will assume all responsibility for referring and making decisions on all newly submitted manuscripts and for deciding on manuscripts referred but not decided on prior to June 1. Accordingly, after June 1, 1970 all new manuscripts and all correspondence concerning manuscripts not then decided upon should be sent to:

Professor Nelson W. Polsby, Managing Editor Elect
American Political Science Review
Department of Political Science
University of California, Berkeley
Berkeley, California 94720

Each manuscript should be accompanied by an abstract of up to 200 words briefly describing the article's contents. All manuscripts and abstracts should be submitted IN DUPLICATE. They should be double-spaced and may be in typed, mimeographed, hectographed, or other legible form. Footnotes should appear at the end of the manuscript, not at the bottom of the page.

Since manuscripts are sent out anonymously for editorial evaluation, the author's name and affiliations should appear only on a separate covering page. All footnotes identifying the author should also appear on a separate page.

THE SELECTION OF NELSON W. POLSBY AS THE NEW MANAGING EDITOR

On November 14, 1969, the present Managing Editor submitted his resignation to President Karl W. Deutsch. The letter said, in part, "A word seems in order about the timing of [the resignation]. In my discussions with then-President David Truman I agreed to undertake the editorship for a period of three to five years. The transition period began in July, 1965, and the first issue published under my direction was that of March, 1966. Accordingly, I am currently in my fifth year of service and feel that I have fulfilled my agreement with Dave. Quite aside from this, however, it has always seemed to me that a fairly frequent rotation of editors is healthy for the journal (and the editors) and that five years is a reasonable maximum tenure."

The Constitution of the Association (Article VI, section 1) provides: "The . . . Managing Editor of The American Political Science Review shall be appointed by the Council, after it hears the recommendation of the President. [He] shall have [a term] to be fixed in each case by the Council; and [he] shall be eligible for reappointment."

At its meeting of December 4-5, the Council established a Search and Screening Committee to assist President Deutsch in considering candidates for the new Managing Editor. The Council stipulated that the Committee be composed of the President as Chairman, President Elect, Managing Editor, three members of the Council, and one member of the current Editorial Board. To the four appointive positions President Deutsch named Herbert McClosky, University of California, Berkeley; Joseph L. Noguee, University of Houston; Vernon Van Dyke, University of Iowa; and Robert E. Ward, University of Michigan.

On December 8 the Executive Director sent a letter to all department chairmen advising them of the vacancy and asking for their suggestions and nominations for filling it. A total of twenty-two replies were received in time to be considered by the Committee. The Council directed the President to recommend a person for the editorship at its next meeting.

Six of the seven Committee members met in Cambridge, Mass. on December 23. Professor Ward was unable to attend but communicated his views to the President in advance of the meeting. At the meeting the Committee reviewed all the persons—some ninety-four names in all—who had been suggested to them. Several names were eliminated from further consideration because of information, gained from informal soundings, of their wishes not to be considered.

For evaluating those remaining, the Committee agreed upon the following main criteria. First and foremost, the new Managing Editor should be committed to encouraging the best work done by all of the different approaches to political analysis now used or emerging in the discipline; he or she should not be dedicated in any way to promoting any particular approach over the others. The new editor should be a scholar of established reputation. He or she should have editorial talent for evaluating and improving manuscripts as well as administrative talent for managing the journal's office and communications. The editor should already have demonstrated his or her possession of these talents in some way—e.g., by having edited another journal or a volume of essays, or by having acted as editorial advisor for a publisher. The editor should have shown ability both to apply high standards impartially in deciding what to publish and to help authors to present their work in the clearest and most readable form. The editor should be widely familiar with the profession's active scholars, both those older and established and those younger and rising, in all the nation's regions. He or she should be knowledgeable in American Government and Political Theory, since a majority of the manuscripts submitted are in these fields; but it would be highly desirable for the editor also to have some competence in Comparative Politics and International Politics. And it would also be desirable for the editor to have some competence in related disciplines and some experience in interdisciplinary research and writing.

After agreeing on the foregoing criteria, the Committee proceeded to consider the ninety-odd remaining nominees. After much discussion the number was reduced to a "short list" of six. On a secret ballot each Committee member then ranked the six names in his order of preference. The preferences on the six ballots were combined into a composite ranking, and the Committee agreed that the intervals among the top names were sufficiently large to request the President to present the first name to the Council for its approval.

At the meeting of the Council in Cambridge on January 14 President Deutsch explained the Committee's criteria and procedures and expressed the members' regret that only one of so many excellent nominees could be chosen. He then presented the Committee's first choice: Professor Nelson W. Polsby of the University of California, Berkeley. After some discussion the Council unanimously approved the President's recommendation and Professor Polsby was named the next Managing Editor of the Review. He has since accepted the appointment, and will assume its full duties in 1971.

ERRATA

The Officers' Page of the December, 1969 issue incorrectly listed the institutional affiliation of Council Member Allan P. Sindler as the State University of New York, Stony Brook. Professor Sindler's correct affiliation is the University of California, Berkeley.

Also in the December, 1969 issue, the second sentence of the first paragraph on p. 1216 of Jeff Fishel's article on "Party, Ideology, and the Congressional Challenger" should read: "Of 432 non-incumbents running in that election, 70 percent completed and returned the questionnaire, a response rate sufficiently high to justify the analysis undertaken here."

ARTICLES ACCEPTED FOR FUTURE PUBLICATION*

June, 1970

Joel D. Aberbach and Jack L. Walker, University of Michigan, "The Meanings of Black Power: A Comparison of White and Black Interpretations of a Political Slogan"

Steven J. Brams, New York University, and * Production exigencies may occasionally necessitate publication of articles in issues other than those given in this listing.

Michael O'Leary, Syracuse University, "An Axiomatic Model of Voting Bodies"

Steven R. Brown and John D. Ellithorp, Kent State University, "Emotional Experiences in Political Groups: The Case of the McCarthy Phenomenon"

Walter Dean Burnham and John D. Sprague, Washington University, St. Louis, "Additive and Multiplicative Models of the Voting Universe: The Case of Pennsylvania, 1960-1968"

- William R. Caspary, Washington University, St. Louis, "The 'Mood Theory': A Study of Public Opinion and Foreign Policy"
- Otto A. Davis, Melvin J. Hinich, and Peter C. Ordeshook, Carnegie-Mellon University, "An Expository Development of a Mathematical Model of Policy Formation in a Democratic Society"
- Ada W. Finifter, Michigan State University, "Dimensions of Political Alienation"
- Bryan R. Fry and Richard Winters, Stanford University, "The Politics of Redistribution"
- M. Kent Jennings, University of Michigan, and L. Harmon Zeigler, University of Oregon, "The Salience of American State Politics"
- Norman N. Miller, Michigan State University, "The Rural African Party: Political Participation in Tanzania"
- Paul E. Peterson, University of Chicago, "Forms of Representation: Participation of the Poor in the Community Action Program"
- David E. Powell and Paul Shoup, University of Virginia, "The Emergence of Political Science in Communist Countries"
- John Duncan Powell, Harvard University, "Peasant Society and Clientelist Politics"
- September, 1970*
- Michael Aiken and Robert R. Alford, University of Wisconsin, "Community Structure and Innovation: The Case of Public Housing"
- Gordon S. Black, University of Rochester, "Some Notes on the Process of Professionalization in Politics"
- Jack Dennis, University of Wisconsin, "Support for the Institution of Elections by the Mass Public"
- John P. Diggins, University of California, Irvine, "Ideology and Pragmatism: Philosophy or Passion?"
- Melvin J. Hinich and Peter C. Ordeshook, Carnegie-Mellon University, "Plurality Maximization vs. Vote Maximization: A Spatial Analysis with Variable Participation"
- Barbara Hinckley, University of Massachusetts, "Incumbency and the Presidential Vote in Senate Elections: Defining Parameters of Sub-presidential Voting"
- Raymond F. Hopkins, Swarthmore College, "The Role of the M.P. in Tanzania"
- Chong Lim Kim, University of Iowa, "Political Attitudes of Defeated Candidates in American State Elections"
- Edward N. Muller, University of Iowa, "Cross-National Dimensions of Political Competence"
- Donald Rothchild, University of California, Davis, "Kenya's Africanization Program: Priorities of Development and Equity"
- John W. Soule and James W. Clarke, Florida State University, "Amateurs and Professionals: A Study of Delegates to the Democratic National Convention"
- Gilbert R. Winham, McMaster University, "Political Development and Lerner's Theory: Further Tests of a Causal Model"
- December, 1970*
- Joel D. Aberbach and Jack L. Walker, University of Michigan, "Political Trust and Racial Ideology"
- Hubert M. Blalock, Jr., University of North Carolina, "A Causal Approach to Nonrandom Measurement Errors"
- Giuseppe Di Palma and Herbert McClosky, University of California, Berkeley, "Personality and Conformity to Political and Social Attitudes"
- Harlan Hahn, University of California, Riverside, "Correlates of Public Sentiments on War: The Vietnam Referendums"
- Henry S. Kariel, University of Hawaii, "Creating Political Reality"
- Robert Melson, Michigan State University, and Howard Wolpe, Western Michigan University, "Modernization and the Politics of Communalism: A Theoretical Perspective"
- Edward N. Muller, University of Iowa, "The Representation of Citizens by Political Authorities: Consequences for Regime Support"
- Eric Nordlinger, Brandeis University, "Soldiers in Mufti: The Impact of Military Rule upon Economic Change in the Non-western States"
- Giovanni Sartori, University of Florence, "Concept Misformation in Comparative Politics"
- Herbert F. Weisberg, University of Michigan, and Jerrold G. Rusk, Purdue University, "Dimensions of Candidate Evaluation"
- Jerzy J. Wiatr, University of Warsaw, "Political Parties, Interest Representation and Economic Development in Poland"