

American Journal of Law and Medicine Editorial Board Appointments.

Attorney John A. Norris, Editor-in-Chief of ASLM's forthcoming scholarly medicolegal journal, The American Journal of Law & Medicine, announces seventeen new appointments to the Journal's Board of Editors.

Members of the Board of Editors will assist the Editor-in-Chief in the selection and editing of manuscripts and in formulating the new Journal's general operating policies.

The AMERICAN JOURNAL OF LAW & MEDICINE will feature scholarly articles on topics related to the interdisciplinary study of law and medicine. In order to meet the growing need of health care leaders, teachers, providers, attorneys, administrators, insurers and economists for in-depth and skillfully drafted materials on current health-law issues, the Journal will focus primarily on those areas of legal medicine which, to date, have received inadequate national attention.

New ASLM Membership Category for Corporate - Institution - Sponsors Organization

The American Society of Law & Medicine, Inc., is pleased to announce a special membership which has been established for corporations such as insurance companies, legal offices and other corporate entities, institutions such as hospitals, and professional organizations such as medical societies and bar associations.

This new membership allows a corporation, institution or organization to become a member in its own name with a single voting privilege assigned to its designated representative and with all other ASLM membership privileges (free subscription to Medicolegal News, membership notices and informational mailings, reduced registration charges for ASLM seminars, publications, etc.) available to ten or more persons selected by the corporate-institution member.

The 1974 annual assessment for this membership of $100 effects thereby a bulk savings to the sponsor member of $50 above the individual dues assessment rate for ten separate memberships at $15 each and also affords the opportunity of additional savings by the privilege of adding in unlimited number of additional persons to receive ASLM membership privileges) at $10 per such person designated.

We are pleased to announce that the first three Corporate-Institution Sponsor Members were taken by the Argonaut Insurance Company of California, the Aetna Casualty & Life Insurance Company of Hartford, Connecticut, and the Peerless Casualty Company of Keene, New Hampshire, and many other insurers are now joining in this category.

The Corporate-institution Sponsor "Bulk Rate" Membership, designed by Council Member David Z. Webster, Chairman of the Insurance Division of our Membership Program, promises to enable meaningful support of ASLM educational activities by corporate entities, institutions and professional organizations in a mutually beneficial manner.

Manuscripts of articles appropriate for the Journal are invited from ASLM members and Medicolegal News readers. All manuscripts should be typed double spaced and sent to the attention of the Editor American Journal of Law & Medicine, 454 Brookline Avenue, Boston, Massachusetts 02215.
