The Professor Richard B. Lillich Prize

for the best S.J.D. or Ph.D. Dissertation on a topic of procedural international law

The Procedural Aspects of International Law (PAIL) Institute is a nonprofit organization devoted to furthering the observance of international law through research, consulting, and publishing monographs and other educational materials. Established in 1965 by academic lawyers (including Richard B. Lillich), governmental officials, and private practitioners, the Institute's activities include work in areas as diverse as international claims settlement, State responsibility and diplomatic protection, a draft convention on terrorism, the concept of autonomy in international law, the reform of international organizations, and the international protection of human rights.

In recognition of the unique contribution of Richard B. Lillich to international law throughout his career, the PAIL Institute announces a competition for its first biennial Lillich Prize. The 2004-05 Prize – in the amount of US$5,000 – will be awarded for the best S.J.D. or Ph.D. dissertation submitted to any Faculty of Law in the world in calendar years 2004 and 2005. The dissertation may be on any subject of private or public international law, so long as it involves a procedural dimension in the practical development, observance, or enforcement of international law, rights, and duties. The dissertation must be in English and must be submitted electronically by May 15, 2006, to lillich-prize@pail-institute.org, in an acceptable format (such as Adobe Acrobat). The Prize submissions will be reviewed by a distinguished jury, including PAIL's Senior Fellows and Advisory Board Members. The winning submission will be published in the prestigious PAIL Series of monographs, in addition to receiving the cash prize. For further details, see www.pail-institute.org.

- Power and International Law Richard H. Steinberg and Jonathan M. Zasloff 64
- The Power of Legitimacy and the Legitimacy of Power: International Law in an Age of Power Disequilibrium Thomas M. Franck 88
- Humanitarian Intervention and Pretexts for War Ryan Goodman 107

A long-standing objection to legalizing unilateral humanitarian intervention is that states would use a humanitarian pretext to initiate aggressive wars, with a consequent increase in the number of such wars. The article discredits the objection by drawing primarily on two research programs: quantitative analyses of the correlates of war, and qualitative analyses of the unintended political constraints that result from states' efforts to legitimate military aggression. The article concludes that lifting the prohibition on unilateral humanitarian intervention would be equally, if not more, likely to reduce the aggregate number of wars by aggressor states.

PROGRAM OF WORK

In addition to publishing the American Journal of International Law, the ASIL offers a variety of information resources and participation opportunities for members as well as nonmembers. These programs, best viewed at www.asil.org, include: publications such as International Legal Materials and Studies in Transnational Legal Policy; electronic bulletins such as ASIL Insights, International Law In Brief, and il.Post; events such as the Annual Meeting and other gatherings in Washington, DC, and around the world; outreach programs for the justice sector, the media, and other audiences; an array of resources on the ASIL Web site, such as the Electronic Information System for International Law (EISIL) and the Guide to Electronic Resources for International Law (ERG); and opportunities to be part of an active network bridging expert and non-expert communities associated with the development of international law.

PHILANTHROPY AND THE SOCIETY

The ASIL accomplishes much of its work through charitable support. The Society is grateful to its many members who contribute to the annual fund and the endowment, the foundations whose grants fund special programs, and the law firms, publishers, universities, and others that sponsor ASIL activity. The Society is particularly honored to receive contributions through the Patrons program and to be included in our members' estate plans through the ASIL Heritage Circle. We recognize these contributors below.

PATRONS

Patrons of the Society contribute $10,000 or more to the ASIL Endowment for International Law. Patrons may also be recognized posthumously upon such a donation being made in their name.
