

Chilly Climate for Women of Color among White Women in the Academic World.

The evening plenary session on "Democratization" was, as usual, an occasion for males to be in the spotlight.

New Officers Elected: Shklar Passes Gavel to Lowi

At the APSA 1990 Annual Business Meeting, held September 2, 1990 in San Francisco, Judith Shklar, Harvard University, presided over the election of new Association officers, and at the end of the meeting passed the gavel to Theodore J. Lowi to begin his term as Association president.

William J. Daniels, Union College, Gerhard Loewenberg, University of Iowa, and Kenneth Prewitt, Rockefeller Foundation, were elected Vice-presidents for 1990-91. Charles Lipson, University of Chicago, was elected Secretary. David Brady, Stanford University, is currently serving a two-year term as Treasurer.

Eight new council members were also elected at the business meeting. Joining the Council for two-year terms are Thomas Cronin, Colorado College; Rodolfo O. de la Garza, University of Texas; Jean Bethke Elshtain, Vanderbilt University; Joanne Gowa, University of Pennsylvania; Virginia H. Gray, University of Minnesota; Nolan Jones, National Governors Association; Ruth S. Jones, Arizona State University; and Ian Lustick, Dartmouth College.

Theodore J. Lowi

James Q. Wilson, University of California, Los Angeles, was elected President-elect of the Association. He will assume the office of the President in 1991-92.

James Q. Wilson Receives 1990 James Madison Award

James Q. Wilson of the University of California, Los Angeles, was presented with the James Madison Award at the Presentation of Awards Ceremony of the Annual Meeting, August 30, 1990. The James Madison award is presented triennially to recognize a career of scholarly excellence and is considered one of the premier honors in the discipline. Professor Wilson delivered the James Madison Lecture earlier in the evening.

James Q. Wilson (left) receives the Madison Award from Harvey C. Mansfield, Jr., chair of the selection committee.

David E. Price, member of the U.S. House of Representatives from North Carolina, was awarded the Hubert H. Humphrey Award in recognition of notable public service by a political scientist, and Frederick Mosher, University of Virginia, was recognized posthumously with the John Gauss award which honors a lifetime of exemplary scholarship in the joint tradition of political science and public administration.

Book awards were presented to seven scholars for works published in 1989. Clarence N. Stone, University of Maryland, received the Ralph J.

Clarence Stone

Bunche Award for the best scholarly work exploring the phenomenon of ethnic and cultural pluralism for his study Regime Politics: Governing Atlanta, 1946-1988, published by the University Press of Kansas.

The Gladys M. Kammerer Award for the best publication in the field of U.S. national policy was presented to Donald Alexander Downs, University of Wisconsin, for his study The New Politics of Pornography, published by the University of Chicago Press, and to Edward G. Carmines, Indiana University, and James A. Stimson, University of Iowa, for their work Issue Evolution: Race and the Transformation of American Politics, published by Princeton University Press.

The Victoria Schuck Award for the best book on women and politics was presented to Susan Moller Okin, Brandeis University, for Justice, Gender, and the Family, published by Basic Books, and to Judith H.

Susan Moller Okin (left), and Judith Stiehm (center), receive the Victoria Schuck Award from Nancy Hartsock.

Robert A. Dahl, recipient of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation Award for his book, Democracy and Its Critics, at the annual meeting Awards Ceremony.

Stiehm, Florida International University, for Arms and the Enlisted Woman, published by Temple University Press.

Robert A. Dahl, Yale University, received the Woodrow Wilson Foundation Award for the best book published in the U.S. on government, political, or international affairs for Democracy and Its Critics, published by Yale University Press.

John H. Aldrich, Center for Advanced Study in Behavioral Science, and Eugene Borgida and John Sullivan, University of Minnesota, received the Heinz Eulau Award for the best article published in the American Political Science Review during 1989, for the paper, "Foreign Affairs and Issue Voting: Do Presidential Candidates 'Waltz Before a Blind Audience'?" The Franklin L. Burdette Pi Sigma Alpha Award for the best paper presented at the 1989 Annual Meeting was presented by Byron E. Shafer, Nuffield College, for his work "The Notion of an Electoral Order: The Structure of

Fred Holborn (left), presents the Harold D. Lasswell Award to Daniel J. Wirls.

Electoral Politics at the Accession of George Bush."

The National Journal was awarded the Carey McWilliams Award for major journalistic contributions to our understanding of politics.

Eight awards were also presented for doctoral dissertations completed and accepted during 1988 or 1989. Brian M. Downing, University of Chicago, received the Gabriel A. Almond Award for the field of comparative politics. Jeffrey J. Anderson, Brown University, received the William Anderson Award for the field of intergovernmental relations. James W. Tubbs, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, received the Edward S. Corwin Award for public law. Daniel J. Wirls, University of California, Santa Cruz, received the Harold D. Lasswell Award for work in the field of policy studies. Steven Weber, University of California, Berkeley, received the Helen Dwight Reid

J. David Singer (seated, center) received the Conflict Processes lifetime achievement award; standing behind Singer are fellow Conflict Processes section members Robert Jackman, Harvey Starr, Randolph Siverson, Jacek Kugler and Michael Ward.

Award for work in international relations, law and politics. Laura Stoker, University of California, Berkeley, received the E. E. Schattschneider Award in American Government. Alan Houston, University of California, San Diego, received the Leo Strauss Award in the field of political philosophy. Shui Yan Tang, University of Southern California, received the Leonard D. White Award in the field of public administration, including broadly related problems of policy formation and administrative theory.

Editor's Note: For additional details on each award and the full text of

Some of the APSA award winners at the Thursday evening Awards Ceremony (left to right): David E. Price, winner of the Hubert H. Humphrey Award; Byron E. Shafer, winner of the Franklin L. Burdette Pi Sigma Alpha Award; Alan Houston, winner of the Leo Strauss Award; Jeffrey J. Anderson, winner of the William Anderson Award; Donald A. Downs, winner of the Kammerer Award; Steven Weber, winner of the Helen Dwight Reid Award; John Aldrich, winner of the Heinz Eulau Award; and Laura Stoker, winner of the E. E. Schattschneider Award.

citations, see the Gazette in this issue of PS.

Nominating Committee Welcomes Suggestions

APSA's Nominating Committee, chaired by Benjamin Ginsberg, Cornell University, seeks suggestions for nominees to APSA offices.

The Committee will make nominations for eight Council persons, as well as the offices of secretary, treasurer, vice president (three positions) and president-elect. The Committee will meet in February in Washington and report to the President no later than April 15.

Members of the nominating committee are:

Oliver Williams receiving the Career Achievement Award for Contributions to the Study of Urban Politics.