Imperfect Conceptions

Medical Knowledge, Birth Defects, and Eugenics in China
Frank Dikötter

The 1995 People's Republic of China's "Eugenics Law" was euphemistically renamed the "Maternal and Infant Health Law" but the policy remained the same. Prospective newlyweds diagnosed with hereditary, venereal, reproductive, or mental diseases are considered "unsuitable for reproduction" and encouraged to undergo sterilization, abortion or remain celibate. Exploring the contexts and history of eugenics in both Communist China and Taiwan, Dikötter provides a revealing look at how cultural currents have combined with medical discourse to promote this alarming program.

TIBETAN NATION
A History of Tibetan Nationalism and Sino-Tibetan Relations
Warren W. Smith Jr.

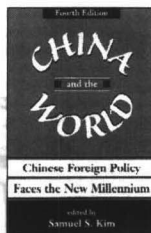

'Warren Smith's sweeping history of the Tibetans as a people does much to fill in the holes that have long existed in our general knowledge about Tibet. This well-written and thorough account is a crucial companion for anyone who wants to know how this singular land came to its present impasse with China.'

The Cambridge History of China

Volume 8: The Ming Dynasty
Part 2: 1368–1644

Denis C. Twitchett and Frederick W. Mote

Volume eight of the Cambridge History of China offers detailed studies of Ming governmental structures, fiscal and legal systems, international relations, social and economic history, transportation networks, and the history of ideas and religion.

Britain, Southeast Asia and the Onset of the Cold War, 1945–1950

Nicholas Tarling

This detailed and original study throws new light on post-war British policy in Southeast Asia. Extensive archival research demonstrates that Southeast Asia was perceived as a region of mutually co-operating new states, rather than a fragmented mass. It is a major contribution to the diplomatic and political history of Southeast Asia.

Deadly Dreams

Opium and the Arrow War (1856–1860) in China
J. Y. Wong

Revealing the extent of Britain's reliance on the opium and tea trade with China, Wong argues that Victorian free trade ideology was a less decisive factor in the Arrow War (1856–60) than was Britain's economic struggle to support a vast colonial enterprise.

Awakening China

Politics, Culture, and Class in the Nationalist Revolution

John Fitzgerald

Highlighting the role of Sun Yat-sen and Mao Zedong in the politics of mass awakening, this study analyses the link between the awakening of China as an historical narrative and the awakening of the Chinese people as a political technique for building a sovereign and independent state. An innovative work which analyses the link between legend and fact.

Forging Reform in China

The Fate of State-Owned Industry

Edward S. Steinfeld

How and why well-intentioned, market-oriented measures to reform unprofitable state-owned enterprises in China have not been sweepingly successful and how meaningful reform could be achieved. The book argues that private ownership cannot work in China's current system until governance over complex economic actors has been established, credit tightened, and market selection processes made to work.
