American Slavery and Constitutional Failure

Mark E. Brandon

Here Mark Brandon examines the breakdown of American constitutional order in the nineteenth century. He argues that the Constitution failed both because it denied to slaves and free blacks the means to participate in political life and because it could not reconcile the increasingly divergent constitutional cultures of North and South.

"This is an immensely interesting book that presses the reader to reflect on the nature (and usefulness) of the constitutional enterprise. . . ."—Sanford Levinson, University of Texas, Austin

The City of Man*Pierre Manent*With a foreword by Jean Bethke ElshtainTranslated by Marc A. LePain*

The "City of God" or the "City of Man"? This is the choice St. Augustine offered 1500 years ago—and according to Pierre Manent the modern West has decisively and irreversibly chosen the latter.

"This work is more than simply an intellectual history of liberalism; it is a powerful and impassioned analysis of modernity."

—Steven B. Smith, Yale University

A Classic Work on America's Founding

FRIENDS OF THE CONSTITUTION

WRITINGS OF THE "OTHER" FEDERALISTS, 1787-1788

Edited by Colleen A. Sheehan and Gary L. McDowell

Though The Federalist Papers are rightly renowned as a primary exposition of the principles and purposes of the proposed United States Constitution, there were many writers other than John Jay, James Madison, and Alexander Hamilton who in 1787 and 1788 argued for the Constitution's ratification. Indeed, as Herbert J. Storing, Jr. once observed, "[t]hese 'other' Federalist writings carried the main burden of the public defense of the proposed Constitution...[and] several of them were vastly more influential than The Federalist." In a collection that is certain to make a major contribution to our understanding of the American Founding, Friends of the Constitution brings together forty-nine of the most important of these "other" Federalists' writings. Included are the original texts of pamphlets, speeches, and other proratification writings of George Washington, Benjamin Rush, Nicholas Collin, John Dickinson, James Wilson, Tench Coxe, Benjamin Franklin, Noah Webster, Roger Sherman, Fisher Ames, Peletiah Webster, Samuel Tenny, Stephen Hopkins, Oliver Ellsworth, and David Ramsay. Separately they address the underlying themes of the historic Federalist/Anti-Federalist debate: "The Necessity of Union," "Energetic but Limited Government," and "Popular Government and Civic Virtue." The text includes Storing's important assessment of these writings, and the volume includes citations to Storing's monumental seven-volume Complete Anti-Federalist.

Colleen A. Sheehan is professor of Political Science at Villanova University.

Gary L. McDowell is director of the Institute of United States Studies, University of London.

523 + 1 pages. Preface, editor's note, introductions to each of the three sections, index.
