INDEX TO VOLUME 19 1121

Kathlyn Taylor Gaubatz

Crime in the Public Mind

Gaubatz uses interviews with Americans from varied walks of life to reveal the fascinating nuances in the public's views on criminal justice, and in their motivations for holding these views.

"... a balanced, insightful, and timely understanding of public attitudes about criminal justice. Experts, policymakers, students, and concerned citizens should read this book."

Law's Violence

"In bringing together accomplished and thoughtful scholars of different disciplines, with a command of literature ranging from the legal to the literary, and in relating the works to the central arguments of the late Professor Robert Cover, Sarat and Kearns have created a first-rate up-to-date exposition of this important and complicated issue, namely, how to understand better the violence implicit and explicit in law."

BENCHMARKS

Great Constitutional Controversies in the Supreme Court

Edited by TERRY EASTLAND

Foreword by GRIFFIN B. BELL

“In this fine collection of essays Eastland has brought together the work of a group of like-minded public-spirited scholars who nonetheless reveal a stimulating diversity of jurisprudential approaches. All appear to share, however, a concern with the currently lamentable state of constitutional theory and practice. This book deserves to be widely read by laypersons and lawyers and should help alleviate the constitutional distress into which the courts and too many constitutional scholars have recently plunged us.”

—STEPHEN B. PRESSER

“In these wide-ranging and stimulating essays, several of our leading constitutional scholars examine both the historical and philosophical foundations and the far-reaching political and policy-making impact of the Supreme Court in the contemporary American regime. . . . The authors in general seek to restore the early American conception of the Constitution as a body of fixed political principles under which self-governing republican communities can pursue the ends of liberty, justice, and moral virtue.”

—HERMAN BELZ
