WHAT WE OWE IRAQ

War and the Ethics of Nation Building

Noah Feldman

What do we owe Iraq? What would "success" in Iraq look like?

Noah Feldman argues that to prevent U.S. "nation building" from turning into a colonialist charade, we urgently need a new approach. Drawing on his personal experiences in Iraq as a constitutional adviser, Feldman offers important insights into the power dynamics between the American occupiers and the Iraqis, and he tackles such vital issues as Iraqi elections, the prospect of successful democratization—and the way home.

"Intervening in another country and rebuilding its institutions after tyranny amounts to a moral promise. Noah Feldman's fine book is a lucid, passionate, and closely reasoned examination of what it means to try to keep that promise."

—Michael Ignatieff, author of The Lesser Evil

LAW WITHOUT NATIONS?

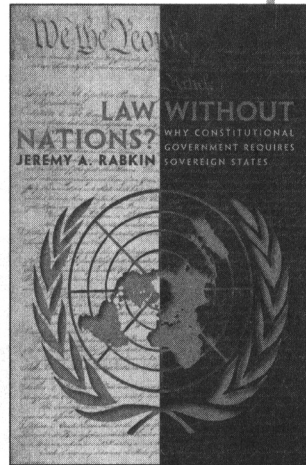

Why Constitutional Government Requires Sovereign States

Jeremy A. Rabkin

When and to what extent should the United States participate in the international legal system? This forcefully argued book by legal scholar Jeremy Rabkin provides an insightful new look at this important and much-debated question.

Rabkin argues that the value of international agreements must always be weighed against the threat they pose to liberties protected by strong national authority and institutions.

CHOICE OF LAW AND MULTISTATE JUSTICE, Special Edition

By Friedrich K. Juenger

With a special introduction and colloquium by Professor Juenger's colleagues.

A revised version of the late Friedrich Juenger's Hague Lectures, this book presents the most pervasive and trenchant critique of the traditional approaches to choice of law, both of the multilateralist and unilateralist kind, to date.

2005. 324 pages. ISBN 1-57105-330-1. $115.00/hardcover.

EXTRADITION BETWEEN CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES

By Gary Botting

The book is especially valuable today given the global response to the events of September 11, 2001, and the United States' war on terrorism, which has had a dramatic impact on the way Canada and the U.S. conduct extradition procedures between one and other.

2005. Approx. 480 pages. ISBN 1-57105-335-2. $125.00/hardcover.

THE IMF, THE WORLD BANK GROUP, AND THE QUESTION OF HUMAN RIGHTS

By Bahram Ghazi

Bahram Ghazi gets to the heart of the most important issue facing the global community today: namely, how to reconcile globalization and the activities of the World Bank and the IMF with the implementation of international human rights rules.

TAKING INTERNATIONAL LAW SERIOUSLY

A European Perspective on the U.S. Attitude Towards International Law

By Helen Keller and Daniela Thurnherr

US $40. 1 Hardcover Volume. 170 Pages.
Table of Cases Decisions and Opinions.
Index. ISBN 1-929446-76-4
Published May 2005.

In 1994 the American Society of International Law published the collected presidential notes of Louis Henkin entitled “Taking International Law Seriously”, in which he appealed to U.S. officials to comply with international law obligations, and to act in bona fide in respect to international law. In 1994 Justice Blackmun made the famous statement: “Taking international law seriously where the death penalty is concerned draws into question the United States’ entire capital punishment enterprise.” More than ten years have passed in which the world has experienced a humanitarian intervention in former Yugoslavia, the horrific terrorist attacks of September 11 and the wars in Afghanistan and Iraq. The law has changed, the world has changed; only the United States persistently maintains its old attitude towards international law. The authors analyze this anachronism in Taking International Law Seriously, with the underlying assumption that nations, in relationship to one another, should treat international law as authoritative.

Helen Keller is Professor for Public, European and International law at the University of Zurich and is also Counsel to the firm of Umbricht Attorneys in Zurich. She has been a Visiting Fellow at the Max Planck Institute for Comparative Public Law and International Law in Heidelberg. She was a Research Fellow at the European University Institute, Florence and a Research fellow at Harvard University Law School, where her supervisors included Anne-Marie Slaughter.

Daniela Thurnherr is in the LLM Program (2004/05) at Yale Law School

Relaunching in 2005

African Journal of International and Comparative Law

NEW SERIES Vol. 13.1 Two issues per year
Available March 2005 ISSN 0954-8890

The African Journal of International and Comparative Law has now been re-started by Edinburgh University Press, with a New Series commencing in 2005 with two issues a year. Rachel Murray (University of Bristol) and Amazu Asouzu (King's College London) are the new editors.

The eminent Editorial Board continues as previously, with members from international institutions in Geneva and from universities in Africa, the UK and the US. The journal will continue its tradition of providing invaluable refereed material in both international and comparative law on a pan-African basis. It also makes available documents in the field that are not easily available elsewhere.
