Death by Migration

Europe's Encounter with the Tropical World in the Nineteenth-Century

PHILIP D. CURTIN

This quantitative study compares the rates of death from disease for European soldiers in the Tropics between 1815 and 1914 with those who remained at home. Philip Curtin discusses the European concept of relocation cost and the attempts to reduce it through medical development in the colonies.

America's Forgotten Pandemic

The Influenza of 1918

ALFRED W. CROSBY

'... as the Great War moved towards its end, epidemic influenza swept the globe ... Alfred Crosby details this catastrophic year in which the epidemic ran its course, taking millions of lives ... Thoroughly researched and rich in detail, Crosby's book carefully narrates the rise and fall of the global pandemic'.

The Science of Woman

Gynaecology and Gender in England, 1800–1929

ORNELLA MOSCUCCI

Is women's destiny rooted in their biology? Ornella Moscucci argues that the common view proposed by gynaecological science that women are naturally 'fitted' for their place in the home is the result not of scientific fact but of social and political pressure.

MIRROR OF MEDICINE

A HISTORY OF THE BMJ

P. W. J. BARTRIP

The BMJ's 150 year history has taken it from small beginnings in Worcester as the Provincial Medical and Surgical Journal to its current position as a major international medical journal. In this authoritative study the historian P W J Bartrip provides a shrewd and perceptive commentary on the BMJ's progress and the events that helped to shape it.
