THE NIGHT AND NOTHING

Gale D. Webbe

15s. 6d. net

Many are depressed at the gap between the aspirations of their prayers and their achievements in the realities of everyday life. This book provides the mental framework within which the disciple should understand his experience of 'the night and nothing' so that the purpose of God who gives the experience, may be fulfilled.

RELIGION AND SCIENCE: CONFLICT AND SYNTHESIS

Seraph Book

I. T. Ramsey

4s. 6d.

Professor Ramsay argues that the perspectives of religion and science, while characteristically distinctive, can be harmonized in a single vision. He gives particular attention to the problems posed by 'thinking machines'.

BORN OF A WOMAN

Seraph Book

Roger Tennant

5s. 6d.

'This is one of the best books I have read in years—definitely among the Top Ten. An exciting and refreshing exposition of the Gospel, it is not another apology for Christianity but a modern presentation of Jesus Christ, with illuminating flashes on many great subjects all the way through. I am giving it to friends who find the Christian faith hard to accept.'

Douglas Webster.

TRADITIONAL VIRTUES RE-ASSESSED

A. R. Vidler, Ed.

6s. 6d.

The purpose of these essays, which are reprinted from Theology is to free the Christian virtues from the misconceptions which sometimes surround them, and to suggest how true virtue, the fruit of the spirit, shows itself in compelling attractiveness. These re-assessments of traditional virtues have a definite contribution to make to the present-day debate on Christian Morality.

A Mandaic Dictionary

E. S. DROWER and R. MACUCH

The Aramaic dialect still spoken by the dwindling sect of Mandaeans in Persia has hitherto lacked a dictionary of any kind, although a number of Mandaean texts exist, which are of importance to Biblical scholars, anthropologists, students of comparative religion, and philologists. This dictionary is based on all known Mandaean texts. £12 12s net

Towards a Theological Understanding of History

ERIC C. RUST

The author examines the problem of whether history has any all-embracing meaning or is the result of the contingent and unforeseeable. He believes that the answer lies in the Christian revelation within history, 'salvation history', and he develops a Christian theology of history, taking the Incarnation as a pivotal centre. The Church, as a transforming power in the cultural milieu, is portrayed as the key to the historical movement, the whole being set within the eschatological framework of judgement, resurrection, and fulfilment. 42s net

Jesus and Christian Origins

HUGH ANDERSON

Within the framework of New Testament studies, Professor Anderson surveys critically the main lines of the 'Jesus of History'—'Christ of Faith' debate since the epochal work of Martin Kähler in 1892, concentrating especially on the phase associated with the name of Rudolf Bultmann. He does not confine himself to German trends and developments, but, investigating the work of leading British and American New Testament scholars, tries to account for some of the basic methodological and hermeneutical differences between German and Anglo-American Biblical scholarship, and to assess the merits and demerits of each side. 49s net

Handbook of Biblical Chronology

JACK FINEGAN

The chronological references in the Bible create an extremely complex field of inquiry, and the ordinary student is often at a loss when trying to reckon biblical time. This book reviews the whole question on the most comprehensive scale yet attempted, and establishes the entire sequence of biblical dates from 605 B.C. onward, supplying lists and tables for calculations as well as full indications of sources and further literature on the subject. 60s net

ST. NINIAN: LIGHT OF THE CELTIC NORTH

MOSA ANDERSON

A new assessment of the life and work of this scholarly saint, who played a key part in the history of the northern Celtic peoples. Miss Anderson, an accomplished biographer and historian, believes that less than justice has been done to St. Ninian in the past. 25s.

MARY: MOTHER OF THE LORD, FIGURE OF THE CHURCH

MAX THURIAN

A valuable ecumenical study by the famous theologian from the French Reformed Community at Taizé. This book has already had a wide sale on the Continent and has been well received by Protestant and Roman Catholic theologians alike. 21s.

JOHN ALLEN FITZGERALD GREGG: ARCHBISHOP

G. SEAVER

The definitive biography of one of the great figures in the Church of Ireland, who had been both Archbishop of Armagh and Archbishop of Dublin. During the troubles of the twenties and thirties he steered the Church with wise and firm statesmanship and later came to play a prominent part in the ecumenical movement. 40s.

Historical Tradition in the Fourth Gospel

C. H. DODD

This book completes the Johannine study which the author began in The Interpretation of the Fourth Gospel. By examining oral tradition he detects a strain of tradition lying behind the Fourth Gospel which is distinctive and independent of the Synoptic Gospels. 'The latest and, I would dare to hazard, the greatest of a long line of publications'. The Bishop of Woodwich in Expository Times. 55s net

The Setting of the Sermon on the Mount

W. D. DAVIES

Professor Davies examines the Sermon on the Mount in its historical context, describing the different forces which were at work both inside and outside the early church and assessing the element of 'Law' in primitive Christianity. 63s net

The Monastic Order in England

DAVID KNOWLES

A second edition is now available of this standard work, which covers the period 940-1216. 'His book should remain the classical account of English monasticism in this period and it is hard to see how it could be bettered.' History. Second edition, 70s net

The Greek New Testament

Being the Text translated in The New English Bible

R. V. G. TASKER

A short Introduction explains the principles followed by the translators in deciding the text; there is a list of the main textual witnesses. Quotations from the Old Testament are indicated in the text and references given in the footnotes. All variants alluded to in the footnotes to The New English Bible are discussed in an Appendix.

This book appears under a joint Oxford and Cambridge University Press imprint. 30s net

The Text of the New Testament

Its Transmission, Corruption, and Restoration

B. M. METZGER

This book supplies information concerning the science and the art of textual criticism as applied to the New Testament. With an eye to the needs of the student, the author discusses a wide variety of textual problems, from the very simple to the more complex. There is a check-list of all known Greek papyri of the New Testament. Illustrated 42s net

The Interpretation of the New Testament 1861-1961

The Firth Lectures 1962

STEPHEN NEILL

In this survey Bishop Neill shows the historical development of New Testament criticism, the movements of thought, the contrasting personalities of scholars, and the permanent contributions made by various schools, ending with an assessment of the position today. 45s net

The Revelation of St John the Divine

A Commentary on the English Text

AUSTIN FARRER

The author is convinced that all the clues to the interpretation of Revelation lie within itself. He gives a text, based on his own correction of traditional English versions, into which he has woven a commentary concentrating on the task of making St John's thought intelligible to the English reader. 30s net
