Academic Unit Moves

As a consequence of the Wellcome Trust's recently announced Joint Funding Initiative with the Government to improve the infrastructure of British science, it has become necessary to relocate temporarily the Academic Unit and its activities. From September until the end of 1998, lectures and seminars will take place in the Wellcome Building, 183 Euston Road, but their precise location is as yet undecided. From January 1999, the Academic Unit, research Fellows, research students and long-term visitors will transfer to a building in the immediate vicinity of 183 Euston Road, and lectures and seminars will also move there. Symposia will continue to be held in the auditorium of the Wellcome

Building; and lectures and seminars held in UCL will likewise continue there.

This situation is likely to last for up to five years, at the end of which, the Wellcome Institute and other parts of the Medicine, Society and History Division of the Trust will come together again on one site on the Euston Road. Further details will be announced as soon as possible.

It should be emphasized that the Library of the Wellcome Institute for the History of Medicine is not affected by these changes. Furthermore, the move of the Academic Unit is temporary; planning has already begun on their future reintegration.

Medical History, 1998 Supplement

Paper Bodies by Andrea Carlino, which was advertised as the 1998 Supplement to Medical History, has been postponed until 1999. This year's Supplement will now be How the Idea of Profession Changed the Writing of Medical History by John C

Burnham. It will be published at the end of November and will cost £32, or $50. Orders should be sent to: Professional & Scientific Publications, BMA House, Tavistock Square, London WC1H 9JR, UK.

The New York Academy of Medicine Fellowship Programmes

The Paul Klemperer Fellowship in the History of Medicine, and the Audrey and William H Helfland Fellowship in the Medical Humanities are awarded each year. Both Fellowships will provide stipends of up to $5,000 for a period between 1 June and 31 December 1999. Applicants can apply for only one of these Fellowships not both.

Applications must be received by 1 February 1999. Requests for application forms or further information should be addressed to: Office of the Associate Librarian for Historical Collections and Programs, New York Academy of Medicine, 1216 Fifth Avenue, New York, NY 10029, USA.
