

The Psychiatrist

FORMERLY THE PSYCHIATRIC BULLETIN

EDITORIAL

- 401 The Health and Social Care Act 2012: what will it mean for mental health services in England?
Frank Holloway

ORIGINAL PAPERS

- 404 Changes in diagnoses before admission to a specialist medium secure unit
Amrith Shetty, Dilum Jayawickrama, Pamela J. Taylor
- 409 Genetic testing of adults with intellectual disability
Jana de Villiers, Mary Porteous

SPECIAL ARTICLE

- 414 Patient experience and psychiatric discourse
K. S. Jacob

CURRENT PRACTICE

- 418 Catatonia in a woman who is profoundly deaf-mute: case report
Gbolagade Sunmaila Akintomide, Stuart Williams Porter, Anita Pierce
- 421 Enhancing the effectiveness of community drug and alcohol teams working with opioid-dependent pregnant women: results of an audit
Mani Sairam, Rakesh Magon, Christos Kouimtsidis

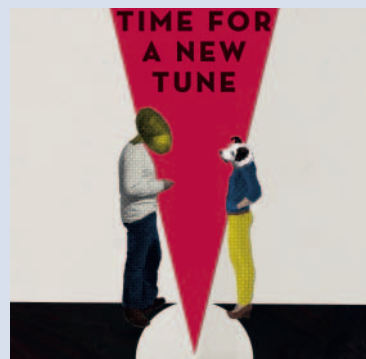

- 424 Advice on driving while under the care of a crisis resolution team: findings from two audits
Joanna Curwen, Amy Jebreel

EDUCATION & TRAINING

- 427 Trainees' views of portfolios in psychiatry
Neel Halder, Ganesh Subramanian, Damien Longson
- 434 E-learning package on the Mental Capacity Act 2005 for junior doctors and medical students
Zena Schofield, Ben di Mambro, Chris Schofield

COLUMNS

- 437 Correspondence
- 439 Obituary
Dr Malcolm Wright
- 439 Reviews
The Optimism Bias: Why We're Wired to Look on the Bright Side
Oxford Specialist Handbooks in Psychiatry: Forensic Psychiatry
Drugs – Without the Hot Air: Minimising the Harms of Legal and Illegal Drugs
- ibc e-Interview
Dr Alys Cole-King

Cover image

In this issue, Jacob (pp. 414–417) argues that it is time we put patient narratives at the foreground of psychiatric discourse.

Image © Guy Undrill 2012