The Mediation of Ornament

Oleg Grabar

In this richly illustrated book Oleg Grabar not only shares a veteran art historian's love for the sheer sensuality of Islamic ornamentation, but also uses this art to show how ornament in general enables a direct, immediate encounter between viewers and art objects from any culture and time period. Based on universal motifs, ornamentation occurs in many artistic traditions, although it seems to reach its most expressive, tangible, and unique form in the art of the Islamic world.

Knowledge and Power in Morocco

The Education of a Twentieth-Century Notable

Dale F. Eickelman

With a foreword by Clifford Geertz

This intensive social biography of a rural Moroccan judge discusses Islamic education, the concept of knowledge it embodies, and its communication from the early years of colonial rule in twentieth-century Morocco to the present. The work sensitively combines the outlooks and perceptions of the author and those of the shrewd and reflective 'Abd ar-Rahman, supplementing our knowledge of resurgent militant Islamic movements by describing other popularly supported Islamic attitudes toward the contemporary world.

Mehmed the Conqueror and His Time

Franz Babinger

Edited by

William C. Hickman

Translated from the German by Ralph Manheim

From the famous siege of Constantinople in 1453 through the numerous other campaigns that securely established the Ottoman Empire, the events in the life of the emperor Mehmed II are the subject of this classic biography.

"The definitive scholarly biography of the Ottoman emperor who in 1453 conquered Constantinople. . . . Mehmed's career is a study of battle, murder, and sudden death, of brutality, perfidy, and spite, with no moral superiority awardable to either Christians or Muslims."

The Presence of Śiva

Stella Kramrisch

One of the three great gods of Hinduism, Śiva is a living god. The most sacred and most ancient book of India, the Rg Veda, evokes his presence in its hymns; Vedic myths, rituals, and even astronomy testify to his existence from the dawn of time. In a lively meditation on Śiva, based on original Sanskrit texts, Stella Kramrisch ponders the metaphysics, ontology, and myths of the god from the Vedas and the Puranas.

"This book is a landmark in the study of Hinduism. . . . It is rich in materials of great interest and value to historians of religion, Indologists, and students of mythology. There is nothing like it."

Myths and Symbols in Indian Art and Civilization

Heinrich Zimmer

Edited by Joseph Campbell

This book interprets for the Western mind the key motifs of India's legend, myth, and folklore, taken directly from the Sanskrit, and copiously illustrated.

"The Indian material offered is of the best quality: the language in which it is presented is imaginative, figurative, poetic, vigorous."

The Confucian's Progress
Autobiographical Writings in Traditional China
Pei-yi Wu

Challenging the widely held belief that autobiography is a unique product of the West, Pei-yi Wu demonstrates that writing about the self did thrive in one non-Western civilization. The pages of this first full-length treatment of Chinese autobiography teem with fascinating individuals. Affording the reader a view of some never before examined aspects of the Chinese psyche, The Confucian's Progress is also an accessible introduction to Chinese history and literature.

"A highly intelligent—and thoroughly intelligible—book-length essay on autobiographical writings in China... With its ample and readable translations of a dazzling array of scarce Chinese texts alone, this book will reward readers."—Joanna F. Handlin Smith, The Journal of Asian Studies

Chinese Poetry,
1150-1650

The Chin, Yuan, and Ming
Dynasties

Yoshikawa Kōjirō

Translated and with a preface by John Timothy Wixted

With an afterword by William S. Atwell

Five Hundred Years of Chinese Poetry, 1150-1650 offers the only historical survey, in any language, of this important span of Chinese poetry. Written by the foremost Japanese sinologist of this century, the work provides a brief review of the period's literary history, a sketch of its political and social history in relation to literature, and a rendering of more than 150 poems.

"Like the adage about firewood, this book warms twice. First there is the warmth of Yoshikawa Kōjirō's spry and versatile mind, and then there is John Wixted's lovely and obviously loving translation of those thoughts into English.... [This] book is a delightful and timely reminder of what the love of literature is all about."—Joseph R. Allen, The Journal of Asian Studies

GOOD NEWS FOR LINGUISTS USING WORDPERFECT

Working with Foreign Languages and Characters in WordPerfect

by Peter Kahrel

Unleashes the power of WordPerfect 5.1 and WordPerfect for Windows for your use in language work. Here is how the book helps:

- Explains how to type all 1893 characters in WP using the Compose key
- How keyboard layouts can be designed in order to type specific characters
- How to display foreign characters on the screen and how to print them
- How language codes determine hyphenation
- Which dictionary to use for the spelling in a document
- How to create exception lists to handle special hyphenation rules
- How to modify and to create dictionaries for which WP has no dictionaries available
- All about the font editor, printers and fonts, etc.
- Includes a disk with the many clever macros described in the book

Although this book is aimed at anybody working in a multi-lingual environment, it is particularly helpful for linguists preparing their own camera-ready documents.
