

Black, French, and African

A LIFE OF Léopold Sédar
Senghor

Wood Engraving by Barry Moser

JANET G. VAILLANT

In the first biography in English of the award-winning poet, intellectual, and first president of independent Senegal, Janet Vaillant draws a captivating portrait of the extraordinary man. Her multidimensional approach contributes not only to an understanding of postindependence African leadership but also to French and Afro-American intellectual history and literature.

"Vaillant has produced a study which will fill an important gap: the need for a strong new biography of Francophone Africa's leading man of letters and politics, Léopold Sédar Senghor. She has done this in a way that will satisfy both specialists in the field and general readers... The writing is clear and precise; the overall portrait is judicious and soundly critical."

—Christopher L. Miller, Yale University

"This is the most complete and thorough-going biography of Senghor that has been written. Indeed, it might be the most complete study of any major African leader."

—Kennell Jackson, Jr., Stanford University

Portrait of an African Village

LANDEG WHITE

A historical portrait of a village in Malawi from 1859 to the present.

'This is one of those very rare books that can be recommended with equal enthusiasm to the professional Africanist and the general reader. Beautifully written, with a novelist's feel for storytelling and a poet's sensitivity to people and place.'

THE JOURNAL OF MODERN AFRICAN STUDIES

The Journal offers a quarterly survey of politics, economics, and related topics in contemporary Africa.

The main emphasis is upon the peoples and policies, the problems and progress of this dynamic and disparate continent; upon the many societies that are evolving rather than the essential characteristics of the old; upon the present, not on the more distant past. The best current work is sought from specialists in different academic disciplines, whose contributions can illuminate and cross-fertilise one another.

The Journal seeks to promote a deeper understanding of what is happening in Africa today. It is intended for both the political scientist and the practical politician, the administrator and the advocate, the economist and the educator, the banker and the business man, the diplomat and the technocrat, the civil servant and the nationalist leader. All have something to contribute to these pages and, it is hoped, much to learn from them.

Editorial policy avoids commitment to any political viewpoint or ideology, whether imperialism, pan-Africanism, capitalism, socialism, or nationalism. Such concepts, however, have relevance to the modern African situation, and merit serious discussion, often from several different points of view, in order that controversial issues may be fairly examined.
