Carter Center African Governance Program

■ The Carter Center's African Governance Program is publishing a series of working papers from its "Seminar on Democratization," held at the Center, May 13-14, 1994. Faced with the urgent need to review the many political transitions that have occurred in Africa since 1990, more than 30 scholars and practitioners took part in the seminar and 23 papers have been revised for publication. This bound volume, titled The Democratic Challenge in Africa, consists of six sub-headings, each preceded by a brief summary: "Obstacles to Democratic Reform," "Ethnic Mobilization and Conflict," "Political Liberalization and Economic Reforms," and "External Actors and Assistance."

This series of papers will provide valuable assessments and insights concerning some of the pressing concerns of the democratic movement in contemporary Africa. This is the Center's fourth publication to address the issues affecting governance in Africa. For information write The Carter Center, Office of Public Information, One Copenhill, Atlanta, GA 30307.

Video Resource Center In Zimbabwe Seeks Donations

■ Media for Development Trust (MFD), a Zimbabwean registered charity, is currently seeking donations to expand its collection of development-related videos for use in its video resource center. The center has over 100 video titles and over 100 16 mm titles that Zimbabwean member organizations can borrow and screen for use in educational and outreach programs. MFD is currently searching to acquire more titles in the following categories: agriculture, environment, health, culture/arts, politics, and gender issues.

To donate educational films or videos contact Ben Zulu, MFD, PO Box 6755, 135 Union Avenue, Harare, Zimbabwe. Tel: (263-4) 733364/5, fax: (263-4) 729066. In the US, contact Christine Schlegel, Media for Development International, 9111 Guilford Road, Columbia, MD 21046. Tel: (301) 490-4465, fax (301) 490-4146.

Rwandan Reconstruction

Three NGOs, Coopibo, Vredeseilanden, and SOS-Faim wish to contribute to the process of political and social reconstruction of Rwanda by giving voice to various sections of Rwandan society and to persons from neighboring countries. Such opinions are of undeniable importance to the development of lasting solutions to the country's problems.

A special issue (No. 5) of the magazine Traits d'Union Rwanda juxtaposes the opinions of various politicians, military commanders, and civil leaders with one another. Thanks to a compilation of some 20 exclusive interviews, the reader gains a unique insight into the political and social panorama that now defines Rwanda and the entire region. The magazine has 64 pages, is published in four languages (Kinyarwanda, French, Dutch, and English), and calls on all Rwandan political and social forces to look for political solutions. The international community is also called upon to broaden its efforts beyond humanitarian aid only. To obtain the English version, send a check or money order for $10 to ASA, Credit Union Building, Emory University, Atlanta, GA 30322.

West African Summer Study

■ "Drew in West Africa" is a unique summer study program based in Côte d'Ivoire which allows participants to explore the rich cultural and artistic traditions of several West African peoples. Under the directorship of Jerry Vogel, the program includes courses on the traditional cultures of Côte d'Ivoire and on West African art history. During daily visits to villages, students are able to work directly with Baule and Senufo artists, as well as discuss other topics with village elders and observe the daily round of activities.

For application forms and further information contact the Off-Campus Programs Office, Drew University, Madison, NJ 07940. Tel: (201) 408-3438.

Invitation to ZARD

■ The Zambia Association for Research and Development (ZARD) is a research organization based in Lusaka, Zambia, and concerned with issues relating to gender and development. ZARD is especially concerned about the status and position of women. ZARD uses research to highlight the position and status of women, and to identify impediments to their contribution to development and how these can be overcome.

ZARD welcomes visitors and interns, particularly those who wish to come and carry out research or to write articles for publication, possibly jointly with ZARD. ZARD also welcomes researchers who want to come and carry out research with ZARD or teach the research process and various methodologies to our members. Small grassroots projects are also possible.

ZARD has no accommodation of its own and is unable to pay a salary. ZARD will, however, facilitate the attachment or visit by identifying possible accommodation and booking rooms. For information contact Ms. Olive K. Munjanja, Executive Secretary, Zambia Association for Research and Development, PO Box 37836, Lusaka, Zambia. Tel: 260-1-224507, fax: 260-1-222883, e-mail: zard@p87.f1.n761.z5.fidonet.org.

Africa Fund Publications

■ The Africa Fund announces two recent publications:

Africa Emergent: An Address by Salim Ahmed Salim, Secretary General of the Organization of African Unity. Excerpts from the address by Salim Salim to the White House Conference on Africa in June 1994, in which he responded to Rwanda, freedom in South Africa, and U.S. policy in the post-Cold War era.

Sing and Louder Sing of Freedom: Nelson Mandela's Challenge to America. Excerpts from South African President Nelson Mandela's address to a joint session of Congress on October 6, 1994, in which he called for the U.S.

to pursue policies that foster democracy, peace, and prosperity. Mandela is only the third foreign leader, after Winston Churchill and Yitzak Rabin, to address a joint session of Congress more than once. AWARDS & FELLOWSHIPS

University of California-Santa Cruz/NEH Summer Institute

● The University of California-Santa Cruz announces an NEH summer institute for college and university faculty: "Rethinking Europe/Rethinking World History, 1500-1750," to be held in Santa Cruz, June 18 - July 28, 1995. Explicitly comparative and interregional in approach, the institute will examine recent works on the role of Europe in maritime Asia and the Atlantic world of Africa and the Americas in an effort to raise large-scale historical questions about how the modern world came to be. Historians of Africa, Asia, Europe, and the Americas, as well as other college teachers with an interest in global history are encouraged to apply. The application deadline is March 1, 1995. Participants will receive a stipend, and living and travel allowance. For application information contact "Rethinking Europe/Rethinking World History" c/o Edmund Burke III, Merrill College, University of California, Santa Cruz, CA 95064. Fax: (408) 459-3125.

W.E.B. Du Bois Institute Visiting Scholars Program

● The W.E.B. Du Bois Institute, a center for research on all aspects of African and African-American life, history, and culture, at Harvard University invites applications for visiting scholars. Scholars pursue their own research while interacting on a regular basis with eight to twelve other visiting scholars working in the field. Weekly colloquia offer fellows the opportunity to share their work with institute colleagues and with interested faculty and students. Summer residencies are possible; during the academic year appointments are not made for less than one semester of term. Most individuals provide their own funds through external fellowships or sabbatical support. Application materials, including three letters of reference, must be received by the deadline.

Prospective fellows should request an application from Gay McNulty at (617) 496-8545. With the application they should submit a three- to five-page project description, c.v., and writing sample. Fellows will be provided with study space, full access to university research facilities, and
