Listen to the Heron's Words

Reimagining Gender and Kinship in North India

In many South Asian oral traditions, where herons are viewed as duplicitous and conniving, women are seen as fragmented identities. By "listening to the heron's words," the authors convey a shift in moral perspective and suggest that these spoken truths are compelling and consequential for women in North India. $45.00 cloth, $17.00 paper, illustrated

EUGENE F. IRSCHICK

Dialogue and History

Constructing South India, 1795-1895

Irschick deftly questions the conventional wisdom that knowledge about a colonial culture is unilaterally defined by its rulers. Focusing on nineteenth-century South India, he demonstrates that a society's view of its history results from a "dialogic process" involving all its constituencies. $45.00 cloth, $18.00 paper

When God Is a Customer

Telugu Courtesan Songs by Ksetrayya and Others

These South Indian devotional poems show the dramatic use of erotic language to express a religious vision. Written by men the poems adopt a female voice, the voice of a courtesan addressing her customer: the deity. Fully at home in her body, she merges her worldly knowledge with the deity's transcendent power in the act of making love.

China in Transformation

EDITED BY TU WEI-MING

What will China look like in 2000? Changing political, social, economic, intellectual, and cultural conditions are transforming China and its neighbors with a majority Chinese population. The authors in this book show what has been going on and what has been saved but is evolving. The authors confine themselves to enduring questions about today's Sinic societies so that educated readers and scholars of modern China will better understand the more populous half of the world. Contributing authors include William P. Alford, David E. Apter, Myron L. Cohen, Edward Friedman, Tongqi Lin, Perry Link, Andrew J. Nathan, Benjamin I. Schwartz, Tianjian Shi, Helen F. Siu, Wang Gungwu, and Ying-shih Yü.

The Japanese Woman

Traditional Image and Changing Reality

SUMIKO IWAO

"Sumiko Iwao's book breaks through the stereotypes of the passive obedient wife to present Japanese women as they really are, at home at work, in politics, and in social life. The most complete and balanced study available in English on the Japanese woman."

—Ezra F. Vogel, Harvard University

"An engaging combination of soap-opera snapshots and sociological survey, the book has as much to say about Japanese men as about Japanese women, and the result is informative, controversial, and fascinating."

A New History

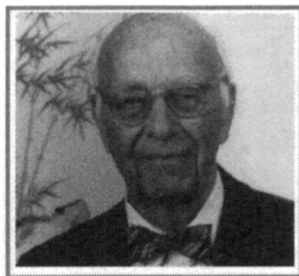

JOHN KING FAIRBANK

"Sets out to cover, in 432 pages of text, the entire span of China's history from the Paleolithic cultures ... to the Tiananmen massacre of 1989, and it does so with a brisk and sprightly air but also with an awesomely thorough overview of the current scholarly work of scores of historians. The book is indeed a kind of reprise...of Fairbank's life as a reader and teacher...An admirable achievement."

MASSACRE IN SHANSI

NAT BRANDT

With his latest book, prize-winning historian Nat Brandt turns his eyes to a little-known group of Oberlin missionaries who gave their lives for their religious beliefs. Brandt's extensive research into a major collection of primary source material at Oberlin College allows him to provide an intimate portrait of this group.

Eighteen American men, women, and children comprised the Shansi mission, all spurred on by their strong beliefs, but ill tutored in the culture and language of the Chinese. Brandt details the lives of both the missionaries and their converts—their triumphs, their failures, and the final harrowing days of the Boxer Rebellion and the execution of all members of the Oberlin group.

Resistance, Chaos and Control in China

Taiping Rebels, Taiwanese Ghosts and Tiananmen

Robert P. Weller

This study stakes out a new position on how and when potential resistance may be transformed into an actual social movement. Its three cases—the Taiping Rebellion in the 1840s and 1850s, ghost worship in modern Taiwan, and the aftermath of the 1989 demonstrations in Tiananmen Square—contribute to on-going debates on the relationship between culture and resistance.

"INTERNATIONAL COLLABORATION AT ITS VERY BEST"*

Uncertain Partners

Stalin, Mao, and the Korean War

Sergei N. Goncharov, John W. Lewis, and Xue Litai

"A fascinating and exciting book. Every expert on Soviet and Chinese foreign policy and every student of international relations and the Cold War will have to read it. I am awed by the materials that have been put together in this book."

—Melvyn P. Leffler *

"This title, the first using newly available resources from China and Russia, represents the opening of a new era in the study of Sino-Soviet relations and their effect on international politics. The credentials of the authors are the highest." —Library Journal

Uncertain Partners tells for the first time the inside story of the creation of the Sino-Soviet alliance and the origins of the Korean War. Using major new documentary sources, including cables and letters between Mao Zedong and Stalin, and interviews with key Russian, Chinese, and Korean participants, the book focuses on the domestic and foreign policy decision-making in all three countries from 1945 through October 1950.

GAME THEORY AND THE SOCIAL CONTRACT Volume I: Playing Fair

Ken Binmore

"Advances in game theory during the past several decades have substantial implications for the fundamental questions of social philosophy, and this connection needs to be made. One can make the case, that, in the context of Western intellectual history, game theory is the modern continuation of Hobbes's greatest work, as theoretical physics is of Newton's. As a great writer and a distinguished game theorist, Ken Binmore is one of those best qualified for this work."

WORK AND INEQUALITY IN URBAN CHINA

Yanjie Bian

This book offers a systematic analysis of the impact of work organization on the social stratification of individuals in urban China. It explains why economic and labor market segmentation is possible and necessary in state socialism at a certain stage of its development, as in market capitalism, and how important one's work unit or danwei is to the life of socialist workers in Chinese cities.

ASIAN STUDIES

Body, Subject, and Power in China

Edited by Angela Zito and Tanl E. Barlow

For the first time, this volume brings to the study of China the theoretical concerns and methods of contemporary critical cultural studies. Written by scholars who came of age after the People's Republic resumed ties with the United States, these essays yield valuable new insights not only for China studies but also for non-Asian cultural criticism.

Nightwork

Sexuality, Pleasure, and Corporate Masculinity in a Tokyo Hostess Club

Anne Allison

"Nightwork represents well a leading trend of fieldwork in contemporary anthropology, in which venerable places or topics of study are illuminated from unusual angles. Allison manages to address with new power the elite Japanese work ethic, so much feared in the West, through the seamy, but finally sympathetic predicament of the 'sarariiman.' And along the way, she makes an important contribution to applied feminist critique cross-culturally." —George Marcus, Rice University

Linguistic Diversity and National Unity

Language Ecology in Thailand

William A. Smalley

Unlike other multi-ethnic nations, such as Myanmar and India, where official language policy has sparked bloody clashes, Thailand has maintained relative stability despite its eighty languages. In this study of the relations among politics, geography, and language, Smalley shows how Thailand has maintained national unity through an elaborate social and linguistic hierarchy.

HATTA SHUZO AND PURE ANARCHISM IN INTERWAR JAPAN

John Crump

The Japanese pure anarchists were a sizeable movement, many thousands strong, which bravely fought against the militaristic state and developed anarchist communist theory at a time when it was declining in Europe. This book is a pioneering study of Japanese "pure anarchism" between the wars and of its principal theoretician, Hatta Shuzo.

The single best scholarly journal on contemporary China. If one has to limit oneself to one journal on China it should be the AJCA.

Edward Friedman, Director, East Asian Studies Center, University of Wisconsin

Has recently become the hottest, most-cited journal on contemporary Chinese affairs. Wide-ranging and timely.

Thomas Gold, Chair, Center for Chinese Studies, U. of California, Berkeley

The liveliest periodical in the field of contemporary Chinese studies. Feisty, enterprising, informed, and current.

Andrew J. Nathan, Director, East Asian Institute, Columbia University

The AJCA is fast becoming the leading journal of contemporary Chinese studies. This is one of the few journals I read cover to cover.

The Cold War on the Periphery
THE UNITED STATES, INDIA, AND PAKISTAN
ROBERT J. McMAHON,
University of Florida, Gainesville
420 pp / $32.50 cloth

"The best book yet written on the United States and South Asia; indeed it is one of the outstanding monographs on U.S. relations with any Third World area. The analysis is subtle and textured. The portrayal of U.S. geopolitical goals is fairminded, the criticism of American strategic assumptions is incisive, and the elucidation of American indifference to regional and indigenous imperatives is marvelously illuminating."

Managing Indonesia
THE MODERN POLITICAL ECONOMY
JOHN BRESNAN,
East Asian Institute, Columbia University
368 pp / $18.50 paper

"MANAGING INDONESIA is the first book-length analysis of the politics of economic development in the Suharto, or New Order, period. The persuasiveness of Bresnan's argument comes from his unique access to the technocratic advisers who have been central to the decision-making process for more than a quarter century. It is required reading for Southeast Asia specialists and their students."

Three Plays by Kōbō Abe
Translated by DONALD KEENE,
Columbia University
224 pp / 3 illus / $29.95 cloth

"Kōbō Abe's works, although firmly grounded in their Japanese settings, speak to universal and contemporary concerns, often with a wry humor which, at least in the hands of a fine translator like Donald Keene, can easily survive the transformation into English."

THE STATE, IDENTITY, AND THE NATIONAL QUESTION IN CHINA AND JAPAN

Germaine A. Hoston

The first decades of the twentieth century witnessed an explosion of nationalist sentiment in East Asia, as in Europe. This comprehensive work explores how radical Chinese and Japanese thinkers committed to social change in this turbulent era addressed issues concerning national identity, social revolution, and the role of the national state in achieving socioeconomic development.

"A rich comparative study based on indigenous resources, this book illuminates a wide range of important issues. Germaine Hoston's critical insights are brilliant, illuminating, liberating."

Edited by Naomi Noble Richard

The "floating world"—the closely related pleasure and entertainment districts of Tokyo in the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries—embodied and idealized fashion, chic, and urbanity for its habituées, and inspired a profusion of woodblock prints depicting renowned courtesans and adored matinee idols. In this volume of "floating world prints" (ukiyo-e), the authors present a selection of Kabuki actor portraits and theater scenes from The Art Institute of Chicago's world-renowned Buckingham Collection of Japanese Prints.
