The Chankas and the Priest

A Tale of Murder and Exile in Highland Peru

Sabine Hyland

"A masterful example of how to narrate and analyze at the same time. Sabine Hyland tells a tale that centers on a larger-than-life villain (as all good stories do), reveals a village of victims who struggle against him, and builds to a mysterious denouement—while reconstructing a past society and exploring its complex development over centuries. The result makes for grim and gripping reading."

—Matthew Restall, author of Invading Guatemala

224 pages | 27 b&w illustrations/2 maps | $59.95 cloth

The Native Conquistador

Alva Ixtlilxochitl's Account of the Conquest of New Spain

Edited and translated by Amber Brian,
Bradley Benton, and Pablo García Loaeza

"This excellent translation . . . makes available a text with an alternate indigenous view of the fall of Tenochtitlan that not only reveals the social, ethnic, and regional divisions in preconquest society but also makes clear the religious and political imperatives in the creation of the new colonial regime. No one who reads this will be able to explain the conquest any longer as a simple matter of winners and losers."

—Stuart B. Schwartz, Yale University

152 pages | 4 b&w illustrations/3 maps | $24.95 paper
Latin American Originals Series

The Improbable Conquest

Sixteenth-Century Letters from the Río de la Plata

Edited by Pablo García Loaeza and Victoria L. Garrett

"The vivid voices of leaders of expeditions, clergy, a merchant/artisan, and a woman highlight the tragedy of conflict with indigenous peoples, starvation, a hostile environment, disease, and internecine conflict within the ranks of the conquistadors. This is a book that will provoke discussion and analysis by students in the classroom and in the public sphere."
