Scribe, Griot, and Novelist

Narrative Interpreters of the Songhay Empire

by Thomas A. Hale

"A significant addition to the literature on West African oral traditions. An expert in the field of West African traditional and modern literature, Hale has given us a new traditional text in English translation, with an extensive historical and literary commentary on that text in relation to several others—a commentary that is rich in detail."

The true historical saga dramatized in the widely-acclaimed movie Glory

"Written with authority and quiet power, this is the history of a period noted for sweeping action and resounding with the names of great men and women.... The decisions they made and the things they did serve as dramatic counterpoint to a story that in the best sense of the world is grand."

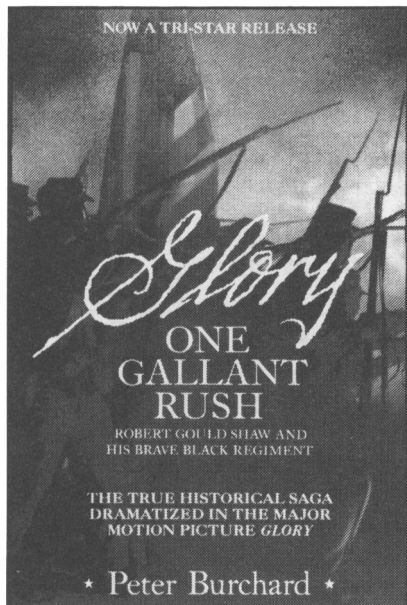

—Saunders Redding,
Afro-American

"This is a side of Civil War history not often told."

Civilized Women

Gender and Prestige in Southeastern Liberia

Mary H. Moran

Moran discusses the intersection of cultural constructions of gender and other systems of ranking among the Glebo people of southeastern Liberia. Through a close analysis of male labor migration and of the Glebo's contact with African-American settlers and missionaries, she shows how the Glebo have incorporated the civilized/native dichotomy into other systems of prestige allocation based on gender and age.

NEW IN AFRICAN STUDIES

Machines as the Measure of Men

Science, Technology and Ideologies of Western Dominance

Michael Adas

"Provocative and fascinating. . . [Adas] provides a wealth of documentation. One learns things worth knowing on every page. . . . As an intellectual history of French and British assessments of Africa, China and India, the book is wonderfully informative and nuanced. It will alter the debate about the history of Europe's relationship to the rest of the world."

The Star Raft

China's Encounter with Africa

Philip Snow

The first major account of the long relationship between China and the African states. "Snow's account of this conflict and camaraderie is spirited and vivid, but it is also of more than academic interest now that China-Africa (as well as Brazil-Africa and Middle East-Africa) ties are strengthening while the Western tide recedes from Africa."

A Future in Shadow?

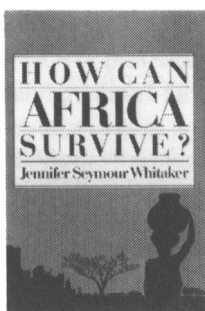

The Economics of Apartheid

Stephen R. Lewis, President, Carleton College

In this timely assessment of the economic consequences of apartheid, Lewis presents the first balanced discussion of the prospects for growth in a postapartheid South Africa. He offers new evidence about the real impact of international sanctions on economic and political developments in South Africa and provides the basis for a full understanding of the transition to a non-racial society.

Changing Family Life in East Africa

Women and Children at Risk

Philip Leroy Kilbride and Janet Capriotti Kilbride

Modern sociological developments have diminished the traditional role and power of women in East Africa. This book uses surveys, interviews, and psychological assessments to show how this change in status has strained family life and decreased the value of children.

“The authors skillfully blend their own rich research findings with the work of others, and do it so well that there is nothing strained or pedantic about the outcome.” —Robert B. Edgerton, UCLA
