

Announcement of Awards

Council for European Studies Pre-Dissertation Training Program Awards

The Council for European Studies has announced that 15 political scientists have been granted pre-dissertation training awards. The Program is designed to enable students to spend a summer or an equivalent period in Europe prior to beginning their dissertation to acquire or sharpen skills which will be vital to their research activities and to explore possible dissertation topics in areas they have developed interests. Awardees are as follows:

Franklin H. Adler, University of Chicago, "The Political Development of the Industrial Bourgeoisie in Pre-Fascist Italy."

Kathleen L. Foote, University of Michigan, "Legitimate Opposition in Societies with Mutually Reinforcing Cleavages."

Thomas G. Fuechtmann, University of Chicago, "The Effects of the Common Market and European Integration, and the Rapid Change Within the Catholic Church, on the Party System in the Netherlands in the 1970's."

Harold E. Glass, University of North Carolina, "The Pattern of Elite Decision-Making in Relatively Stable Smaller European Democracies and the Impact of Decision-Making on Segmentation."

Charles S. Hauss, University of Michigan, "Parties and Party Activists in France."

Beverly L. Kahn, Indiana University, "An Analysis of the Philosophy of Antonio Gramsci and of the Relevance of that Philosophy for the Current Strategy of the Italian Communist Party."

Janet Kelly, Johns Hopkins University, "Recent Changes in the Banking Law in Britain and the Implications of those Changes in Both the Banking System and the Political System, Domestically and Internationally."

J. Christian Kessler, Indiana University, "International Organizations and Political Integration."

Karel Kovanda, MIT, "Industrial Democracy as a Problem of Political Theory."

Patricia R. Mackin, University of Michigan, "A Longitudinal Study of the Changing Role of Labor Unions in West Germany."

Hans J. Michelmann, Indiana University, "Building and Testing a Model of European Integration."

Helen E. Mukungurutse, University of Pittsburgh, "The Politics of Integration in a Culturally Fragmented Democracy: National Identity Among Political Elites in the Netherlands."

Robert Rossow, III, Indiana University, "A Comparative Study of the Political and Policy-Making Roles of the Present French and German Military Establishments."

Debra W. Stewart, University of North Carolina, "The Relationship Between the Decision-Making Processes in Sweden and Switzerland, and the Capacity of Each Decision System to Respond to Demands for Change in the Status of Women when such Demands are Rooted in Value Priorities Identified as Bourgeoisie and Post-Bourgeoisie Respectively."

Sanford Weiner, MIT, "A Comparative Study of French and American Bureaucratic Policy Making for Research and Development."

Ford Foundation Travel and Study Grants

The Ford Foundation has recently announced Travel and Study grants to the following political scientists:

Adolph L. Dial, Pembroke State University, for research and writing history of the Lumbee Indians.

Jeanne T. Fields, Spelman College, for researching prerequisites of political change with special reference to the black community.

Roy A. Glasgow, Bowie State College, for researching Quilombo Palmares, the black republic founded by runaway slaves in Brazil.

Petronella A. Postma, University of Indonesia, Djakarta, for attending conference in sociology and anthropology in Brisbane, Australia.

Newell Maynard Stultz, Brown University, for research on political elites in South Africa.

Clemente Sanchez Valdes, National Autonomous University of Mexico, to serve as visiting scholar during academic year 1971-72 at University of Cambridge, England.

ACLS Grants

The American Council of Learned Societies has announced grants to several political scientists under its grant programs. Charles H. Cutter, San Diego College was awarded a post-doctoral fellowship designed to assist young scholars to enlarge their range of knowledge by study in fields outside their present areas of specialization. He will undertake a study in the methods of art history. Two awards were made to facilitate South Asian research: Dennis G. Dalton, Barnard College, for research in Modern Indian political and social thought and to Richard S. Wheeler, Claremont Men's College, for research on political and administrative change in Eastern Bengal and Assam, 1905-1912. Under a joint ACLS-Social Science Research Council program, four political scientists have received post-doctoral grants for Soviet Studies: Stephen F. Cohen, Princeton University for research on the Transformation of Soviet Russia, 1929-1939; Kazimierz Grzybowski, Duke University, for research on Soviet law of war; Marshall D. Shulman, Columbia University, for research on Aspects of the Soviet Approach to strategic arms control and Robert C. Tucker, Princeton University, for research on Stalin and Russian Communism, a study in history and personality.

SSRC-ACLS 1972-73 Grants

The Social Science Research Council and the American Council of Learned Societies have announced research grants for 1972-73 as follows:

Grants for Research on Contemporary and Republican China:

Thomas P. Bernstein, Assistant Professor of Political Science, Yale University, for research in Hong Kong on educational and career opportunities, modernization, and the political process in China.

Parris H. Chang, Assistant Professor of Political Science, Pennsylvania State University, for research in Taiwan and Hong Kong on military intervention in Chinese politics in the 1960's.

Edward Friedman, Assistant Professor of Political Science, University of Wisconsin, Madison, for research on Chinese foreign policy in the era of Mao Tse-tung.

Bernie M. Frolic, Associate Professor of Political Science, York University (on leave 1971-72, Research Fellow, Harvard University) for research in Hong Kong and the People's Republic of China on rural-urban relationships in China since 1957.

Harold C. Hinton, Professor of Political Science and International Affairs, George Washington University, for research in Tokyo, Taiwan, Hong Kong, and Europe on the role of the military in the formulation of Chinese foreign policy since 1965.

Chong-Sik Lee, Associate Professor of Political Science, University of Pennsylvania, for research in the United States, London, Hong Kong, Taipei, and Tokyo on communism and counterinsurgency in Manchuria, 1925-41.

Hung-mao Tien, Assistant Professor of Political Science, University of Wisconsin, Waukesha, for research in the United States, Tokyo, and Paris on local systems in Kwangsi: a case study of sociopolitical changes, 1925-36.

George T. Yu, Professor of Political Science, University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, for research in Tanzania and Sweden on Chinese-Tanzanian cooperation in international development.

Grants for Japanese Studies:

Nathaniel B. Thayer, Visiting Associate Professor of Political Science, Hunter College, City University of New York, for research on the political role of the Japanese press.

Grants for Korean Studies:

Wonmo Dong, Assistant Professor of Political Science, Southern Methodist University, for research on the politics of social change in colonial Korea, 1910-45.

Roy U. T. Kim, Assistant Professor of Political Science, Drexel University, for research in Seoul on the Panmunjom Negotiations, 1951-71.

Grants for Latin American Studies:

Franklin Tugwell, Assistant Professor of Government, Pomona College, for research in Venezuela on private sector interests and the development of policy making.

Grants for Research on the Near and Middle East:

John P. Entelis, Assistant Professor of Political Science, Fordham University, for research in Paris and Tunis on university students and an emerging "counter-culture" in Tunisian politics.

Nadav Safran, Professor of Government, Harvard University, for research in Israel on the evolution of Israel and its relations with the United States, 1947-71.

Mark A. Tessler, Assistant Professor of Political Science, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, for research in Tunisia, Morocco, and Israel on the political culture of nonassimilating minorities: a comparative study of Jews in Tunisia and Morocco and Arabs in Israel.

Citizens' Conference on State Legislative Grant

The Ford Foundation has granted the Citizens' Conference on State Legislatures and the State Legislative Leaders Foundation a three year one million dollar grant to develop a major new program to help modernize and reform legislatures in seven states. At the request of the State Legislatures involved, the program will implement recommendations of last year's Citizens' Conference Legislative Evaluation Study, The Sometime Governments: A Critical Study of the Fifty American Legislatures. The Citizens' Conference will conduct nonpartisan analysis and research, evaluate progress, and work with citizens' commissions promoting legislative reforms; SLLF will, upon request, provide technical assistance and advice directly to the legislatures.

Among the specific legislative improvements the program will support are increased professional staff for important legislative committees, lengthened sessions, reductions in the size of legislatures and in the number of committees, adequate salaries and retirement benefits for legislators, procedures more open to the public, improved facilities, stricter controls over conflicts of interest, and regulation of lobbyists. The Citizens Conference will work mainly to inform and educate citizen groups on the need for legislative reform. It will collect and distribute information on legislative reform, sponsor seminars for representatives of the media, legislatures, business, labor, and civic groups, provide technical advice to citizen legislative reform commissions, and assess progress achieved; it will also contract with SLLF to provide field staff in the seven states to work directly with reorganization committees established by the states' legislative leadership. The field staff will help the committees prepare their programs of activities, commission special studies, write background papers on committee matters, and act as liaison with citizens and the press.

Further information on the grant may be secured by writing to Larry Margolis, Executive Director, Citizens Conference on State Legislatures, Kansas City, Missouri.

NSF Grants

Six Colleges have received grants for political science or social science programs from the National Science Foundation under its Undergraduate Research Participation Program. The grants are designed to improve patterns of college instruction by showing faculty members the superior teaching effectiveness that results from placing major responsibility for learning upon the students. Colleges receiving grants for political science or social science programs are Yale University, Fisk University, University of Pittsburgh, University of North Dakota, St. Anselm's College, and University of Florida.

Southeast Asia Regional Council Ford Foundation Fellowship Program

The Ford Foundation is offering through the Southeast Asia Regional Council a limited number of post-doctoral fellowships for field research on Southeast Asia in the social sciences and humanities. For the purposes of this program, Southeast Asia includes Burma, Cambodia, Indonesia, Laos, Malaysia, The Philippines, Singapore, Thailand and Viet-Nam. The objective of this Fellowship Program is to support scholars who through their work seek to advance our knowledge of Southeast Asia and will contribute to the further development of Southeast Asian studies both in the region and abroad. The fellowships are for the support of research in Southeast Asia which has a comparative and inter-disciplinary focus, will help to fill gaps in our knowledge of the region, is germane to the interests of Southeast Asian scholars, and is pertinent to the development needs of the area's nations. Special consideration will be given to proposals for research which will be carried out in collaboration with Southeast Asian scholars. In whatever Southeast Asian country the research is

Research and Training Support
Announcement of Awards

to be undertaken, it will be expected that Fellows of the program associate themselves with a university or research institute and that their proposals include plans to contribute to that institution. For qualified candidates, the Program is prepared to assist in arranging this association. To qualify for fellowships, candidates must be persons who have already acquired doctoral-level disciplinary and inter-disciplinary training in the social sciences or humanities, who are committed to the development of Southeast Asian studies through their research and teaching, and who are citizens of countries outside of Southeast Asia. Fellowships will be made for periods up to twelve months' duration. Requests for extensions of fellowships will be considered.

Fellowships will include allowances for transportation, maintenance and other expenses necessary to carry out the proposed research program. Fellowships will not include compensation in lieu of salaries nor will maintenance and travel of dependents be supported.

The deadline for receipt of fellowship applications is November 1.

Application forms and further information may be obtained from: Southeast Asia Regional Council, Lane Hall, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan 48104

THE AMERICAN POLITICAL SCIENCE ASSOCIATION

PERSONNEL SERVICE

The American Political Science Association's Personnel Service operates as a clearing-house, bringing together political scientists seeking positions and prospective employers. Registration in the service is open to members of the Association and to Political Science Departments. Membership in the Service, which includes a subscription to the monthly Newsletter, is $6.00 per year. Membership in the Credential Referral Service of the Personnel Service is an additional $8.00.

NEWSLETTER

A Newsletter, listing openings for political scientists including teaching, administrative and research openings, is mailed monthly to all Personnel Service members. Positions are listed by institution with a brief description of each opening.

CREDENTIAL REFERRAL SERVICE

A file will be maintained at the Association office for all members of the Credential Referral Service. This file will include a resumé, a dissertation abstract and/or a list of publications, and up to three letters of reference for each member. Referrals are made upon the request of a member or of an institution.

EMPLOYERS USING THE SERVICE

The Association's Council has adopted a policy that it is a professional obligation of all political science departments to list publicly all vacancies in the APSA Personnel Service Newsletter for which they are recruiting except those vacancies at the associate and full professor levels which departments expect to fill from among people known to them. There is no cost to the institution listing its vacancies with the Service. Forms for listing openings in the Newsletter are available from the Personnel Service.

For further information concerning the Personnel Service write to:

Director, Personnel Service
The American Political Science Association
1527 New Hampshire Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20036