

Elmer Sperry Inventor and Engineer

THOMAS P. HUGHES A major American inventor who obtained more than 350 patents in his lifetime, Elmer Sperry contributed greatly to the momentous technological changes that occurred between 1880 and 1930. In this first full-length biography, Professor Hughes treats Sperry as the prototype of the scientist-engineer deeply involved in private and government enterprise, and relates both him and his inventions to the society in which they flourished. "An important contribution both to the history of technology and to the writing of American biography."—Cyril Stanley Smith, Institute Professor, M.I.T.

"A remarkably good treatment of a highly technical subject. . . ."—Robert P. Multhauf, Smithsonian Institution

Thomas P. Hughes is professor of the history of technology at Southern Methodist University. He has taught at Johns Hopkins, Harvard, M.I.T., and the University of Virginia. $15.00

The Emergence of Oligopoly Sugar Refining as a Case Study

ALFRED S. EICHNER This historical account of the consolidation of the sugar refining industry is used as a case study to illustrate patterns of evolution in American business organization. Professor Eichner employs a unique four-stage model to demonstrate that the merger movement was motivated by the desire not to achieve economies of scale but to control prices. $12.00

THE SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITIES OF BUSINESS

COMPANY AND COMMUNITY, 1900-1960

By Morrell Heald

The concept of the social responsibility of business has roots reaching as far back in American history as the Puritan doctrine of stewardship and the nineteenth-century "Gospel of Wealth," and in this century business leadership has come fully to accept the involvement of the welfare of industry with the welfare of the community at large. In his history of the developing idea of corporate social responsibility, Dr. Heald traces the expansion of business programs for community betterment from support of the early Railroad YMCAs and the Community Chest movement in the twenties and thirties, to the emergence, since World War II, of substantial corporate subsidies for higher education and the fine arts. His study shows that external pressures from labor unions, government, churches, and educational institutions have contributed strongly to the rise of the corporate social conscience and that internal changes in the structure of modern enterprise have made business leaders highly aware of the social implications of their commercial policies.

Dr. Heald is professor of history and American studies at Case Western Reserve University.

The Thomas Newcomen $1,000 Award in Business History

Presented by

THE NEWCOMEN SOCIETY IN NORTH AMERICA

in cooperation with

THE BUSINESS HISTORY REVIEW

¶ The Newcomen Society in North America, in cooperation with the Business History Review, announces a prize of $1,000 and scroll to be awarded in 1973 for the best book on the history of business published in the United States during the years 1970-1972.

¶ For the purposes of this award, "the history of business" will be interpreted in its broadest sense, including not only the history of firms or industries, but books tracing interactions of businessmen, analyses of business philosophy or behavior, and studies of the adjustment of businesses and businessmen to their economic, political, and social environments.

¶ Criteria for selection will include contribution to knowledge, depth of analysis, soundness of reasoning, clarity of style and organization, and general readability and format.

¶ The committee to select the recipient of the 1973 Thomas Newcomen $1,000 Award in Business History is composed of: Professor James P. Baughman, Editor, Business History Review, Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration; Mr. Stanley van den Heuvel, Trustee, The Newcomen Society in North America; and Professor Arthur M. Johnson, University of Maine, chairman.

¶ The 1973 Thomas Newcomen $1,000 Award in Business History will be the fourth in a series of triennial prizes intended to encourage the study and improve the writing of business history in the United States and Canada.

THE BUSINESS HISTORY REVIEW

¶ Two Newcomen Awards in Business History are offered annually for articles published in the Business History Review. The First Prize, of $250, is awarded the article judged, according to the rules outlined below, to be the best of the year. The Special Award, of $100, is for the best article by an author who is not more than 35 years of age and who has not published a book.

¶ Prize articles are selected by a panel of judges composed of a representative of The Newcomen Society and members of the Advisory Board of the Business History Review. No member of the Advisory Board or editorial staff shall be eligible for a prize, and articles so authorized will not be considered in the judging. Authors eligible for the Special Award shall also be eligible for the First Prize, but in no event shall both prizes be awarded for the same article. The Advisory Board reserves the right to withhold the Special Award in the event that eligible articles do not, in the Board's judgment, merit prize consideration. The awards program is administered by the editorial offices of the magazine.

¶ Criteria for selection include: originality, value, breadth, and interest of contribution, quality of research materials and methods, and quality of presentation.

THE ROYAL EXCHANGE ASSURANCE

BARRY SUPPLE

Founded in 1720, amid the frantic speculation associated with the South Sea Bubble, the Royal Exchange Assurance rapidly established itself as one of a handful of settled and powerful "monied companies". Being engaged in marine, fire, and life insurance, it benefited from the economic growth and social change which the Industrial Revolution brought to Britain.

This study analyzes the evolution of the Royal Exchange Assurance over 250 years and relates the growth of this firm to the development of British insurance as a whole. $16.00

THE RETURN TO GOLD 1925

The Formulation of Economic Policy and its Critics

D. E. MOGGRIDGE

The recent revision of the Official Secrets Act has released data that makes possible a completely new assessment of the most notorious British economic policy decision of the twentieth century — the return, in 1925, to the gold standard at the pre-war parity of $4.86 to the pound.

Professor Moggridge discusses the background of the decision and the expectations of those who made and executed the policy.

EUROPE IN THE RUSSIAN MIRROR

ALEXANDER GERSCHENKRON

Professor Gerschenkron shows what the study of Russian economic history can contribute to an understanding of the history of western Europe.

Discussing the Old Believers, he casts doubt on the relation of religious views to economic attitudes and forces a review of Weber's thesis on the protestant ethic. Considering the effect of the reforms of Peter the Great on Russian mercantilism, he evokes a new awareness of this throughout Europe, focusing on the bearing of economic backwardness on mercantilism. He ends with a discussion of Russian industrialization during the thirty years preceding World War I.
